It Is Not What We Say

But what Hood's Sarsaparilla Does that tells the story—Hood's Cures

Miss Lizzie May Davis, Haverhill, Mass.

After the Grip

Nervous Prostration—No Help Except in Hood's
"I have been suffering for 2 years past with Nervous Prostration which was brought on by a very severe attack of grip. Had Cold Chills almost every day for nearly 3 years. Have now taken on the recommendation of my druggist, 3 bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. What 5 doctors of both B. States and this city could not do, those 3 bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla have done for me. I am now well and can walk without a cane. I feel grateful to Hood's Sarsaparilla, as I believe I should not now be alive if it were not for this medicine."
MISS LIZZIE MAY DAVIS, Haverhill, Mass.

"August Flower"

Eight doctors treated me for Heart Disease and one for Rheumatism, but did me no good. I could not speak aloud. Everything that I took into the stomach distressed me. I could not sleep. I had taken all kinds of medicines. Through a neighbor I got one of your books. I procured a bottle of Green's August Flower and took it. I am to-day stout, hearty and strong and enjoy the best of health. August Flower saved my life and gave me my health.

COLUMBIAN FAIR NEWS ITEMS

THE FAIR UNOPENED SUNDAY.

Sabbath Scenes in Chicago, People Unable to Get in the Fair Patronize Saloons.

Contrary to expectations, the gates at Jackson Park were closed on Sunday, and the rule excluding everyone except workmen was strictly enforced. The day was all that could be desired; it was really the first spring-like day Chicago has seen this year, and Stoney Island avenue was crowded at an early hour with people who went out to the fair grounds hoping that they would be open. They were all disappointed however, and put in their time and spent their money at the side shows and with the fakirs who infest the neighborhood of the Exposition. There were many attempts made to bribe the gatekeepers, but such efforts were generally unsuccessful. One man offered a gatekeeper $5, and when he refused the bribe, raised the bid to $10. The money was tempting but the gatekeeper did not yield. The public parks were crowded with people all day, as were also the saloons, which were wide open and did a thriving business.

Wednesday was "Norwegian Day" at the big fair. It was the anniversary of the promulgation of Norwegian independence, and there was a big parade and other exercises in honor of that event. The first event on the program after the parade was a meeting in Choral hall, where a long program was referred to the Committee on the welcome by Commissioner Raven. A motion on "Norse Liberty," by Governor Nelson of Minnesota, and music by the Exposition orchestra. After the exercises the procession re-formed and marched to the Norwegian building, which was formally dedicated.

Commissioner Raven gave a dinner this evening to Governor Nelson and other prominent guests, and the World's Fair grounds were illuminated by electric light in honor of the occasion.

Wednesday was also Minnesota's day to dedicate her building at the World's Fair. The dedication exercises were held in the main reception room, at the head of the grand staircase, and the richly furnished rooms on each side were filled with people. Newspaper men and women took possession of the program and monopolized it to a large extent.

A PROTEST FROM NEW ENGLAND. In the Massachusetts House Mr. Brown, of Fall River, offered a resolution, which was referred to the Committee on the World's Columbian Exposition, on the condition that the Exposition should not be opened on Sunday, has been paid over, accepted and expended, and as it appears that the directors are breaking faith with the Government and planning to open the Exposition on Sunday, that the President be requested to cause such steps to be taken as may be necessary to compel compliance with the conditions of the appropriation made by the United States.

ILLINOIS BUILDING DEDICATED. In the presence of three-score thousand people at noon Friday the grand building erected by the state of Illinois at the World's Fair was dedicated. Hon. Lafayette Funk, president of the Illinois World's Fair commission, made the formal delivery of the building to Gov. Altgeld. After remarks by Mrs. Marcia Louise Gould, president of the Illinois woman's World's Fair executive board, Gov. Altgeld responded, accepting the building. Addresses were also delivered by First Assistant Postmaster-General Jones, Mayor Harrison and Judge Collins.

WILL OPPOSE SUNDAY OPENING. In an interview yesterday Attorney General Olney said that the law governing the World's Fair and the conditions of no Sunday opening contingent upon the opening by Congress to the Fair was plainly stated, and that the Government would see that the law was enforced in case the National Commission should decide to open the Exposition on Sunday. The natural step to take would be that of filing an injunction by the Government in the District Court at Chicago.

GOVERNMENT EXHIBITS STAY CLOSED. Attorney General Olney has rendered an opinion in which he holds that the laws of Congress providing for the World's Fair prohibit the opening of the branch postoffice located in the postoffice department exhibit on Sundays. In accordance with this opinion the postoffice and other government exhibits in the Columbian Exposition will probably be closed on Sundays.

HOTEL RATES COME DOWN. As a result of the stories of extortion that have been spread through the country many of the Chicago hotel-keepers have made less than they anticipated and rates have been materially reduced. There is still considerable extortion in the matter of restaurant charges inside the fair grounds, but not so much as before.

A TOLL LEVIED ON CAMERAS. Owing to the fact that a son of President Hinshelwood has obtained the photographic concession at the fair, visitors, taking cameras are obliged to pay from $2 to $5 a day for their use inside the fair grounds.

THREE BABIES BURNED

By a Dog Upsetting a Lamp While Protecting His Master's House.
A dispatch from Buffalo says: While John Downey, an engineer on the Lackawanna, was on the road Saturday night, some one tried to effect an entrance to his house on Ganson street. His wife and five children were asleep on the upper floor. About 4 o'clock Mrs. Downey was aroused by the noise of some one trying to open the door. She got up and lit the lamp. At that moment the dog, which had been sleeping at the foot of the bed, aroused himself and sprang towards the window, growling at the intruders. He knocked the lamp to the floor and the house took fire.
Mrs. Downey, the baby and the eldest child escaped, but the other three, Alice 9 years, John 7, and Frank, 5, were suffocated before help arrived. Mr. Downey had no knowledge of the accident until he came home to find his wife sitting in the ruins of the house with the charred bodies of her babies in her arms.

Brightest Part of My Trip.

The New York fashion correspondent of a southern paper gives on the following:
A lady writes: "I have read your letters for a long time, and have often envied you the opportunity you enjoy of seeing the beautiful things you describe. I used to think, when I read of those charming dresses and parasols and hats at Lord & Taylor's, that theirs must be one of those stores where a timid, nervous woman like myself, having but a few dollars to spare for a season's outfit, would be of so little account that she would receive little attention; but when you said, in one of your letters a few months ago, that goods of the same quality were really cheaper there than elsewhere, because they sold more goods in their two stores than any other firm in New York, and that because they sold more they bought more, and consequently bought cheaper, I determined, if I ever went to New York, I would go to Lord & Taylor's.
"That long-waited-for time came in the early autumn, and I found myself standing before that great entrance, with those wonderful windows at either side. I summoned my courage and entered, as I suppose tens of thousands of just such timid women as I have done before. My fears were gone in an instant. The agreeable attention put me at my ease at once, and I felt as much at home as though I were in the little country store where my people have 'traded' for nearly a quarter of a century.
"And now, as I wear the pretty things I purchased, or see them every day and find them all so satisfactory, I think of my visit to this great store as the brightest part of my trip to New York."

AN AMERICAN PAPER PUBLISHED IN PARIS

ROYAL WELCOME TO A PRINCESS

The Infanta Eulalia Received With Plenty of Ceremony and Etiquette. The special train bearing the Infanta Eulalia and her suite, under escort of Commander Davis, U. S. N., reached Washington Friday evening.

INFANTA MARIA EULALIA.

As a matter of course, the members of the "Sporting Club" were prominent. Secretary of War Lamont sent from New York four troops of cavalry to act as escort to Her Royal Highness and President Cleveland entrance of the state in new barouche drawn by four magnificent bays, to haul the Infanta and her husband from the station to the Arlington. Secretary of State Gresham was on hand as the President's representative, accompanied by Assistant Secretary Quincy.

When the train stopped Secretary Gresham presented the Infanta to the President. He presented her to the Infanta and offered her arm to the Princess and escorted her down the carpeted platform to the carriage entrance of the station. Outside the crowd was enormous, and the Princess looked pleased at the throng that had gathered to greet her. She chatted gaily in English with the crowd, while six sergeants of cavalry acted as body guard to the princess.

The water off Staten Island was so rough Friday morning that the Infanta declined to board the Dolphin at that point, and a rendezvous was arranged in North river, where the transfer was made and all due honors paid. Lunched was served aboard the Dolphin after which the Infanta was landed at the Jersey City station of the Pennsylvania road. As she stepped out of the elevator at the station and faced the crowd that gazed in respectful silence upon the party, she betrayed the first sign of timidity and for a second clung to the arm of her escort Commander Davis. So far as her habit was concerned she might have passed for a typical young American woman, but there was a hint of the Spanish leaning toward color effect in the small turban-shaped gray cap, neatly trimmed with black lace and pronounced red and green feathers. Just a murmur of approbation by the crowd swelled into a genuine American cheer as the Infanta stepped lightly upon the rear platform of the "Wild-west" and gave a smile and bow of acknowledgment.

UNPRECEDENTED HAIL STORM.

Pittsburg and Vicinity Pelted With Great Lumps of Frozen Rain.

A veritable tornado, accompanied by one of the heaviest hail storms Pittsburg has ever known struck that city Saturday afternoon. For a quarter of an hour a rain of ice poured down upon the streets and house-tops with crushing force, damaging everything that came within its fall. The streets were so thick and heavily did the hail drops fall. Men, women and children ran in all directions for shelter. Umbrellas were broken as quickly as they were raised. Horses and vehicles were flying through the streets as if propelled by some unnatural force.

Since the early fifties nothing so had in the way of a hail storm has been known in Pittsburg. For half an hour before it commenced it hung over the city as if in prophesy of what was to follow. At 3:45 exactly the first drops fell, varying in size from 2 inch to 14 inches in diameter. Like so many hail storms they increased in number and in force, and crashed upon the roofs of buildings. The storm embraced the greater part of Pennsylvania, taking in a portion of northern West Virginia. It was much heavier in Pittsburg and the immediate vicinity than anywhere else for a radius of 18 miles.

The total precipitation in five minutes was 1.02 inches. During that time, namely, from 3:45 to 3:50 p. m., the wind which came from the northwest, increased in force from 6 to 28 miles an hour. Just as it did it subsided. Along the Ohio valley the storm center arose to a high degree and did considerable damage as far as Wheeling, W. Va. The heavy hail was attributed to the contraction of the ascending currents of the previous day's hot air coming in contact with the cooler currents of the previous three or four days. This caused the cooling of the warm strata with the existing upper strata of cold air. The abnormal low atmospheric pressure of the past week helped the storm considerably. It came and passed off in a few minutes, the hail whirling down in thousands of tons, as if in a vortex.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa.—The storm of wind, rain and hail that struck this place Saturday afternoon did an immense amount of damage. All the gardening that was in or above ground is damaged, the hail hammering all the younger growth to death. Fruit grovers are heavy losers.

HAIL FELL IN WHEELING.

WHEELING.—Nearly an inch of rain fell here in 25 minutes Saturday, accompanied by hail. In the surrounding country streams are high. Barns were burned by lightning and crops damaged.

CROPS BADLY DAMAGED.

The farmers in the rural districts suffered intensely through damage done their crops. The heavy rain did an immense amount of damage to the late crops of this city. Fruit trees and growing crops are badly injured.

SMASHED SLATE ROOFS.

BELAIRE, O.—The heaviest hail storm for years passed over this section Saturday evening. Hail as large as walnuts did great damage to the slate roofs of this city. Fruit trees and growing crops are badly injured.

Baked Ham.

Most persons boil ham. It is much better baked, if baked right. Soak it for an hour in clear water, and wipe it dry. Next spread it all over with thin batter, and then put it into a deep dish, with sticks under it to keep it out of the gravy. When it is fully done take off the skin and batter crust upon the flesh side, and set away to cool. It should bake from six to eight hours. After removing the skin, sprinkle over with two tablespoonfuls of sugar, some black pepper and powdered crackers. Put in a pan and turn up the oven to brown; then take up and stick cloths through the fat and dust with powdered cinnamon.

You can't do everything you want to do, but there are a good many things that you don't want to do that can be avoided.

Be on your Guard.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

To insure the finest cake, the most wholesome food, be sure that no substitute for Royal Baking Powder is accepted by you.
