TO CONSUMPTIVES. The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

Those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS and all throat and lung MALADIES. He hopes all sufferers will try his remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address: REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, New York.

TOPICS AND COMMENT.

As a skillful manipulator of free acrobatics, Rev. T. De Witt Talmage is "in it" right up to his eyes.

The railroads are more effectually boycotting the World's Fair than the preachers can ever hope to do.

The oversanguine Populists who expected official favors from this administration are now wiser, if not more sad.

If that story about Cleveland's wanting another term is true, he must have been constructed on the Oliver Twist plan.

SAY, suppose we let members of Congress do the fighting over the tariff and finance? They are paid for that sort of thing.

THE Free Text Book bill is now a law, and a very good one, too. It ought to make our schools better by increasing the attendance.

LONDON is going to have a new half-penny daily paper, to be called the Sun. If it turns out to be as cantankerous and as readable as Dana's Sun it will wake the Britons up.

EVIDENTLY the governments of Europe do not share the opinion, so often expressed by some people, that the days of war are over, or they would not, as the latest figures say they do, maintain 22,248,000 soldiers on a war footing.

SOME of the English papers are afraid that English visitors to the World's Fair will corrupt their language by picking up Americanisms. Great heavens! This is humiliating in the extreme, coming from a land which tolerates the cockneyisms of the London 'Arry and his provincial imitators.

THE halo that some people expected to form around the head of American ambassadors abroad has evidently not materialized in the case of Ambassador Eastis, who was detained at the door of the Mazarin palace, in Paris, the other day, until he could find somebody to identify him, because he had lost his invitation.

IT seems that the tactics of forming construction companies, which made a number of fortunes during the building of the Pacific railroads, are to be repeated with the Nicaragua canal. The money for the railway fortunes came out of the U. S. treasury, and the canal builders are probably counting upon the same thing.

THE Berlin Record is in favor of giving woman the ballot and the right to vote at all elections. The Record is on the right side of the question. May God speed the day when our wives, mothers and sisters can go to the polls with us to vote. When that day comes, politics will be made purer, better laws will be enacted and we will have reached a higher state of civilization, justice and morals. And don't you forget it, that day will come.

THE Salisbury STAR crowds a great deal of sense into a few lines about the nonsensical use of latin terms and old time phrases in drawing up deeds, transfers, sheriff sale notices, etc. What we need is a lawyer or two strong enough and bold enough to set the example for others to follow by breaking away from obsolete methods and giving us forms that are as binding as the old, yet are plain enough to be read and understood by the common run of mankind.—Berlin Record.

THIS administration has been in power less than three months, and everyday, almost, brings the report of financial failures throughout the country. The truth is that, antedated tinkering with the tariff has frightened the manufacturing industries of the country, and the prospect of "wild-cat" currency and free coinage of silver has disturbed financial circles and led to a tightening of the money market. If the powers that be do not soon brace up in their financial policy, confidence will be utterly shaken and a panic may ensue.—EX.

"You can always judge a town and its people by its newspapers," remarked a prominent business man and member of the Board of Trade, a few days ago. "Before I came to California I sent to every town of any size throughout the state and obtained copies of their local papers. I could tell more in twenty minutes about the business enterprise and character of the people in a place by looking over a copy of a regular edition of each of its home papers—advertisements and all, than I could by reading boom pamphlets, paid write-ups and big special editions of outside newspapers for a week. When I came to visit California I did not find a single town that was materially different from the opinion I had thus previously formed of it.—Pomona (Cal.) Progress.

A CITIZEN.

Hon. W. V. Lucas, Ex-State Auditor of Iowa, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family and have no hesitation in saying it is an excellent remedy. I believe all that is claimed for it. Persons afflicted by a cough or cold will find it a friend." There is no danger from whooping cough, when this remedy is freely given. 25 and 50-cent bottles for sale by A. F. Speicher, druggist, Elk Lick, Pa.

The plow which Daniel Webster used on his farm in New Hampshire is on exhibition at the World's Fair. An exchange thinks the exhibit ought to include the chair in which Daniel used to sit while his man was plowing.

Just as sure as hot weather comes there will be more or less bowel complaint in this vicinity. Every person, especially families, ought to have some reliable medicine at hand for instant use in case it is needed. A 25 or 50-cent bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is just what you ought to have and all that you would need, even for the most severe and dangerous cases. It is the best, the most reliable and most successful treatment known and is pleasant to take. For sale by A. F. Speicher druggist, Elk Lick, Pa.

The Father Mollinger, cures in Pittsburgh, last year, was a similar movement, and hundreds of people were duped by him. Crutches were thrown away by pilgrims, splints and other surgical appliances were discarded; all, it is needless to say, only to be taken up again in a very short time. This priest studied medicine in his younger days and did some prescribing in connection with the faith instilled, and after his death it was discovered that the drug store to which he sent his patients was owned by him.

The Woodworth meetings held in St. Louis, during the summer of 1890, was a similar religious excitement; likewise were the alleged cures at the shrine of Lourdes. In each and all of these instances did the credulous people discover, only too late, that they were humbugged, made into a plaything and tolerated the impostors to play upon their weak, imbecile minds to their heart's content.

For any one to think that God, at the present time, has inspired some people to heal all manner of diseases by faith alone, and they in turn being capable of inspiring others, must have a brain exceedingly shallow or entirely free from convolutions. Those times are past; we are living in a different age. Our frail bodies are subject to disease in the natural order of things; we are constantly dying, cell by cell, and in the midst of life we are in death. Not everybody is to be healed and cured of his bodily ailments. "God moves in a mysterious way, his wonders to perform," etc. He tries our faith by sorrows and afflictions. His book teaches us that there is a hell, a place of destruction, an everlasting punishment. And right here let me tell you that literature is passing through our mails denying that there is a hell and an everlasting punishment. Should this literature fall into the hands of our children and the rising generation, we will have more sceptics, spiritualists, infidels and fools than yet recorded in the history of our country. You, parents, will be responsible for this, providing you make no effort to suppress it.

Again, we are told our faith doctor does not belong to any church, yet she requests her patients to be identified with some religious organization. To be consistent, it does seem that what is good for the goslings would not hurt the goose any. If a person becomes a Christian for the sole purpose of being cured, and not for the love of God, (and we have evidences of this right in our midst, if actions speak at all) his or her Christianity and faith is an open insult to God and his people. The real care of Christian Science is hypnotism, and hypnotism is a psychical effect upon the mind, making it more susceptible for the reception of suggestions and more willing to obey these suggestions. Now, if you cloak this psychical effect with apparent religious faith and zeal, you have brought to bear the most powerful influence known to the human mind, and wavering, unsettled, flighty minds will be carried away with it.

But bear in mind that the power is not in the faith, but in the psychical effect. Hypnotism is something genuine, as decided by a medical body of men authorized to investigate the matter, but this body does not believe in "animal magnetism," which is the dominant factor in mesmerism. I will conclude by quoting from Dr. Donn: "The popularization of hypnotism by means of mind cures, Christian Science, etc., accomplishes its results at the expense of mental demoralization, and faith-healing institutes are more pernicious elements in society than gin mills."
