After Effects Cured.
Mr. Dilger writes: "I had had an attack of the Grippe; after a time caught cold, and had a second attack, it settled in my kidneys and liver, and Oh! such pain and misery in my back and legs. The physicians' medicine and other things that I used made no impression, and I was a physical wreck and given up to die. Father bought me a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's SWAMP-ROOT, and before I had used all of the second bottle I felt better, and to-day I am just as well as ever. A year has passed and not a trace of the Grippe is left. SWAMP-ROOT saved my life."

SCORES CRUSHED TO DEATH

GOVERNMENT BUILDING FALLS

At Washington, D.C. About 30 Persons Killed, and Many More Seriously Hurt. Ford's Old Theatre in Ruins.

Another tragedy, less national in character, but involving the loss of many more lives and much more human suffering, has stained the walls of old Ford's Theatre, in Washington, D. C., where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated by John Wilkes Booth in April, 1865. It is a coincidence that this second tragedy occurred on the very day when the remains of the great tragedian, Edwin Booth, whose life was so darkened by his brother's crime that he never visited Washington afterward, were being laid to rest in Mount Auburn, cemetery, Massachusetts.

The theatre, which has been used for offices by the War Department, and in which almost 500 clerks and others were at work, collapsed Friday morning, killing between 20 and 30 and injuring between 40 and 60 people. Following are those reported:

A CORRECT LIST OF THE DEAD:
The correct list of the dead is as follows:
Allen, George Q., Pennsylvania, 52 years, and married.

White, Georgia; A. G. Hount, Pennsylvania; A. Black, Indiana; Charles S. Moore, District of Columbia; F. F. Driscoll, New York; J. A. Miles, District of Columbia.
The following injured are at the Emergency hospital, their condition being too bad to permit removal:
Rev. W. Test, seriously hurt about face and arms and fractured skull; Frank Metcalf, seriously shocked from fall; A. S. Aimes, seriously hurt about face, neck and ankles; Robert Smith, fractured skull; Dr. O. P. McCormack, eyes injured and shocked by fall.
The superintendent of the Emergency Hospital says none of the men at the hospital will die.
In addition to the injured reported, many who were able to proceed to their homes were hurt more or less badly.
The work of clearing out the wreckage was completed Friday night, and it was definitely ascertained that all the dead had been found.

CAUSED BY AN EXCAVATION.
Ford's Theatre stood on Tenth street, northwest, between E and F streets, and not far from Pennsylvania avenue. It had been condemned years ago and has been repaired, propped up and renovated from year to year.
An excavation for an electric light plant was being made in the cellar of the structure, a three-story affair, and, according to the best information obtainable, the workmen had dug beneath the foundation supports in the front of the building, weakening them to such an extent that the building, way before they could be jacked, would have fallen. The cause of the accident is the only one advanced, but it seemed somewhat strange in view of the fact that the top floor gave way first.
Men who were in the building say the crash came without warning. Those on the top floor were suddenly precipitated to the floor below and the weight of falling timbers and furniture carried the second and first floors with it.
Fortunately only the forward half of the floors gave way. The outer edges of the floors and the rear part of the structure remained intact. The walls did not fall.
The hour of the disaster was very shortly after the departments had settled down for the day's work. The workmen, whose operations under the building were the immediate cause of the catastrophe, had been tinkering upon it for two hours or more. Half an hour earlier and few lives would have been lost.

HISTORY OF THE BUILDING.
USED AS A CHURCH, THEATRE, ARMY MUSEUM AND THEN AS A DEATH TRAP.
Upon the site of the ruined building years ago a handsome church was built by the Rev. O. D. Brown, who was for years chief clerk in the General Postoffice. For some reason it was marked for sale, and in 1857, John T. Ford purchased the property and rebuilt the church into Ford's Theatre. The means to do it were obtained by subscriptions of $1,000 each from 12 or 15 well-known citizens. From its opening night the theatre has been successful. All the theatrical stars of that time appeared there, and the stock company was of a most excellent character. A continued success was promised when on the fateful night of April 14, 1865, the assassination of President Lincoln occurred within its walls.
Afterward the building came into the possession of the United States and was used to store the gassy relics that constituted the Army and Navy Medical Museum. Here for years reposed the few fragments of the bones of the spine and part of the brain of Gettysburg, the assassin of President Garfield. This museum was removed to a building prepared for it and the old theatre was patched up into an office building.

ARLIFE FUND STARTED.
At a relief meeting $5,501 was subscribed, the largest contribution being $1,000, from the dry goods firm of Woodard & Lathrop. President Cleveland sent his check for $100. The newspapers will continue the work of soliciting contributions, with S. M. Woodward as treasurer.

A RECOVERY IN TRADE.
Relief from the Business Depression of Last Week.
R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: The severe depression of a week ago which culminated in very tight money and numerous failures, has been followed by some recovery. Reports that definite action by Congress on the money question has been assured have done much to cause the better feeling, which indicates that apprehension of the future rather than present difficulty causes much of the trouble. But the stringency at Chicago and elsewhere has forced realizing on the unprecedented stocks of wheat, so that the lowest prices ever known have been made here and at the West. This has helped exports and in other respects monetary conditions are distinctly more favorable.

THE TREASURY GOLD RESERVE IS GAINING.
Exports of gold have been arrested, foreign exchange has fallen, with dealer money here and reduction of bank rates at London, and banks at Chicago have rallied with success against the runs which appeared threatening. Though no radical change in underlying conditions has occurred, there is more hopefulness and some recovery from the extreme contraction of credit.
Wheat has gone below 70c here and 63c at Chicago, receipts being 400,000 bushels daily and exports 200,000 bushels. Corn has fallen 2c with large receipts, oats, 1c, 70c per bushel, and hogs 10c per 100 lbs. But oil is 5c stronger, and unchanged. Cotton is 1c higher at better foreign buying. In wool, sales are remarkably small. In low grade cottons there has been some advance, but not in finished goods, and buyers are slow.
The financial outlook is not helped as yet by foreign trade, as imports continue heavy while exports are still below last year's.
The failures for the week have been 322 in the United States, against 168 for the same week last year, and 27 in Canada, against 24 last year.

A BIRD STORY.

Will you allow me to add a touching instance of courage to your pleasant bird stories? Early one morning last summer I was called to the window by a great noise among the bird people of the garden, and saw the following scene. A young blackbird was standing fascinated by a cat, who was roused under a bush ready to spring on him. An old blackbird, on an ilex close by, was uttering loud and agitated cries, and there was a general rattle of anger and sympathy from other birds all around. After a few seconds the cat sprang on the young bird and held him down. At that instant the old bird came down on them. There was a moment's struggle, the bird beating her wings violently in the cat's face, and I think, pecking at her eyes; then the cat jumped back to her bush, the young bird made off with long steps, and the old one flew up to the ilex, amid a jubilant chorus of commendation which lasted quite some minutes. I never saw this before, though I have seen a robin come quite close to a cat stalking another bird and scold and flap her wings in her face. The ways of birds are delightful, and in a small garden you can have many by keeping earthenware saucers full of water for them to bathe in.—London Spectator.

Commerce of Long Island Sound.

"The American coast has many fair spots, but its gilt edge, so to speak, is the country bordering on Long Island Sound," said Captain Charles Hervey Townsend, of Connecticut. The captain is famous as the projector and persistent promoter of the great breakwater now being constructed by the Government at New Haven.
"It is a grand work," said he, "and will be of immense benefit to the country I have just encolized. The break water will be about two and a half miles long, and will give us a roadstead of ten square miles, in which the fleets of the world may float securely.
"At low tide there will be eight fathoms of water. About one mile of the work is finished, and to complete it will cost, according to the estimates, $2,200,000. Its great utility will be appreciated when I tell you that the value of the shipments to New York via Long Island Sound are greater than the total of that which comes in by way of Sandy Hook. The commerce that finds its way into New York through this eastern approach surpasses any other waterway traffic in America. Along this very Sound in the not distant future, it is within the bounds of reason to believe that 1,000,000 people will have homes."

The Parson's Knowing Appeal.

In a church in the north of England on a recent Sunday morning a clergyman, appealing for subscriptions for the steeple fund, addressed his congregation as follows: "Now, my dear friends, I hope you will subscribe handsomely, as we are earnestly in need of funds; but before you do so I wish to say you must be just before you are generous. Therefore, brethren, if any of you owe money, pray think of your private claims first." It is hardly necessary to add that every member of the congregation gave his quota to the collection.

Do You Wish the Finest Bread and Cake?

It is conceded that the Royal Baking Powder is the purest and strongest of all the baking powders. The purest baking powder makes the finest, sweetest, most delicious food. The strongest baking powder makes the lightest food. That baking powder which is both purest and strongest makes the most digestible and wholesome food. Why should not every housekeeper avail herself of the baking powder which will give her the best food with the least trouble?
Avoid all baking powders sold with a gift or prize, or at a lower price than the Royal, as they invariably contain alum, lime or sulphuric acid, and render the food unwholesome. Certain protection from alum baking powders can be had by declining to accept any substitute for the Royal, which is absolutely pure.
