CORRESPONDENCE.

Savage.
Weather very favorable. We had a little rain.

Jesse Holiday has traded his fast trotter on a coil 29 years old.

Our home physician is farming buckwheat and corn; he also follows trading. He traded hogs, once, but says it isn't the last time.

A. J. Folk's fox and 'coon dog died a few weeks ago, caused by carrying a load of lead; but Mr. Folk says that won't beat him out, for he is going to buy another.

Norman Christner, the buckwheat farmer, is going to cut his 1000 bushel buckwheat field, next week. He says he is going to pay for his farm with buckwheat.

"Jack of Clubs" is following a new trade—he is clearing land.

The citizens of "Rolling-pin Hollow" and vicinity expect to have a big time on the 26th of this month, at the picnic at the Big Spring.

"Raccoon Jerry" has sold his target gun to L. Durst. Louis says he is going to keep the elephants and other wild insects out of W. A. Bird's buckwheat field. Make 'em dead, Louis.

I would like to know what has become of "Old Sil" and "Timothy Flint." The drought must surely have driven 'em out.
PEACH BLOSSOM JOHN.

Do these Questions Apply to You?
They are sure to interest hundreds of readers of this paper. Nine out of every ten people are troubled with these symptoms, and really don't know what's the matter with them. Here are the questions:

Are you nervous?
Have you a cough?
Is your throat sore?
Is your appetite poor?
Do you hawk and spit?
Do you take cold easily?
Is your nose stopped up?
Is it always full of scabs?
Is your breath offensive?
Is your hearing affected?
Is your tongue frequently coated?
Is your mouth full of slime upon rising?

If you have, you have, or are getting, a bad case of Catarrh. One bottle of Mavers Magnetic Catarrh Cure is guaranteed to cure any case of Catarrh, and will last for a three months' treatment. Ask your druggist, who will give you an absolute guarantee. For sale by druggists. Remember one bottle to cure, and guaranteed by our agents. For sale by A. F. Speicher, Elk Lick, Pa., also by G. E. Pearce & Co. and A. F. Parker, Frostburg, Md.

Grantsville.
A good rain shower here, last Saturday. John Bender is making preparations to drive across to Johnstown, Pa., in a few days.

Frank Blocher and his friends returned to Pittsburg, last Saturday.

Mrs. H. Hill is making preparations to leave for her home at Wheeling, W. Va., in a day or two.

Miss Fannie Getty has gone to Frostburg to stay a few days.

Rev. Flanagan is with us at present; he officiated at the dedication of the Methodist church, in New Germany, last Sunday. We are informed that this used to be his former home.

Geo. A. Linsinger is at present engaged in manual labor at the Stone House farm.

Jake and John Bender pulled into Leonard Kurtz's yard, this evening, for the purpose of drilling a well. They just completed a well in the yard of S. Broadwater. They seem to be taking an interest in establishing a plentiful water supply for the town, and we also wish to say that we can recommend them to anyone desiring work done in their line.

The Smith brothers and W. H. Meyers paid this town a flying visit, last Sunday evening; they are all good, jolly fellows and we would like to see them come often.

The picnic held in U. M. Stanton's sugar grove, last Friday, proved to be a success. It was a very orderly affair, we must say—something unusual, and we wish to make mention of it.

Gregory Bevins and Charles Beachy had a run-away, one day last week. They had commenced huckstering and were out in the country gathering up their first load of produce. Owing to bad brakes on the wagon, the horses became unmanageable and ran away, demolishing the wagon and badly maiming one of the horses. Also, both men sustained slight scars and bruises.

Aug. 14th, 1893. ENRICA.

All that honesty, experience and skill can do to produce a perfect pill, has been employed in making De Witt's Little Early Risers. The result is a specific for sick headache, biliousness and constipation.

Savage.
The farmers of "Maple Glen" are busy cutting oats. Oats are a very good crop, hereabouts, this season.

The citizens of this place are going to have a picnic, at the Big Spring, between Glade Mountain and Cove Hill, on the 26th day of August. I suppose they will have a good time.

The people are not all asleep in New Elk Lick, although some look very drowsy.

Mr. N. B. wears a broad smile since he purchased a pile of hills for $1,000. N. B. says he is the stoutest man in Elk Lick township and will pay for those hills or burst. He also purchased a very fine horse, for $60. N. B. is a hustler, and don't you forget it. He is going to put his horse on the race track, in about two weeks, and it is safe to say that the animal will make a mile till Christmas, if the snow don't get too deep.

The Holiday brothers still make occasional trips to the Cove.

Abraham Folk and N. B. Christner have put out a very large crop of buckwheat, this season, but their harvest will not be great. The grasshoppers have cut Folk's crop short, while the ground hogs have played thunder with Christner's.

WILD BILL.

All the talk in the world will not convince you so quickly as one trial of De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve for scalds, burns, bruises, skin affections and piles.
A. F. SPEICHER.

Herkeley's Mill.
Samuel Critchfield, of Ursina, was here visiting his son Charles, last Friday.

The band was at Johnsburg attending a picnic, last Saturday. Its members report a regular back-woods picnic. About one-half of the people there never saw or heard a band before and were so dumb-founded when they began to play that they did not get over their excitement until after the band left in the evening.

James Davis and family are rusticated during the hot season at Frostburg, Md. The Bekers Bros. are here at present repairing cellar walls under some of the houses. They are good workmen.

John Davy Foust, of "Seldomseen," has heard the John Brant property here and expects to take possession of it some time this fall.

The communion service held at the Fritz church, last Sunday, was largely attended.

Mahlon Walker took a business trip to Meyersdale, last Saturday. He reports the town rather dry and dull; dry on account of no rain, and dull because of good Democratic times.

An old citizen of this village says there is little difference between Democratic times and hard times.

Maple Glen.
We had a good rain, last Saturday. Farmers are very busily engaged working at their oats, although the crop is very short and light.

The mowed meadows and pasture fields are burned red. Pasture is very short, and the prospects are for a poor corn crop.

Eli J. Egan, who has been on the sick list for seven or eight weeks, is now slowly improving, but is not able to be out of bed yet. Hope he will soon be able to get around.

W. J. Shoemaker will soon be ready to move into his new house.

Next Friday is the appointed day to cut and grade a road to the Big Spring, also to clear the ground suitable to have a picnic, which is to be in the near future. The expectations are that there will be a thousand people present on that day. It is the most suitable place for that purpose in seven states. People come a long distance just to see the spring. Hope we will all have a good time.

N. B. Christner has purchased the Anthony Shoemaker farm for one thousand dollars. He intends to plow it and sow it with pepper, which will be worth seven cents per pound, next fall.

W. J. Davis has been seen in this vicinity with a new gun. Suffer, ye pitiful little ground squirrels!

A certain young man borrowed Hershberger's wagon-saddle and Jesse Holliday's blind mule, stating that he was going to the Cove to see a certain member of the fair sex. After he had started away, Jesse suspicioned that he was on some other business, so he mounted Maud C. and started in pursuit. About two miles south from his place he found one saddle flap and a small bunch of hair. What had happened he did not know, but thought Jack had stumbled. He followed him to the National pike and up the pike as far as Pazzly run. There he found some of the young man's clothes, but found nothing of his person or the mule. It is supposed that he went to the World's Fair.

If you can afford to be annoyed by sick headache and constipation, don't use De Witt's Little Early Risers for these little pills will cure them.

War Reminiscences.
Written for THE STAR.
While waiting for a fresh supply of shoes, near Middletown, Md., Kilpatrick and Buford were engaged with the Rebel cavalry under Jeb Stuart, at Boonsboro, the latter making a desperate stand in behalf of the safe retreat of the Rebel army across the Potomac, and the former securing our coveted position at South Mountain. We next came up to the enemy at Funkstown, in sight of Hagerstown. My company was sent out on the skirmish line, and when we crossed the Antietam creek, we looked for the Rebels to open a masked battery on us; but we crossed over without any resistance. However, about a quarter of a mile beyond the creek we were fired upon by the Rebel skirmishers, from a wheat field. We pressed them back to a strip of woods and halted until the line of battle came up, when we rejoined our regiment and stacked arms near a farm house. In front of me was a bunch of burdock, and I remarked to one of my comrades that I would have some eggs for supper, and struck for the bunch of weeds, where I found a nest of 17 eggs. I fried the eggs, the boys of my mess made some coffee, and just as we were commencing to devour our luxurious supper, a volley of musketry was fired in our front, a little to our left, which brought every man to his gun ready for action. I poured my coffee into my canteen, chucked my share of eggs into my haversack and got into my place.

Company A, of the 6th Maine, commanded by Captain Furlong, was out in front of us making a reconnaissance, and seeing a lot of Rebels at a farm house, he divided his squad of 25 men, made a dash on the house and captured 35 Rebels without the loss of a man. But one of the Rebels was killed while in the act of shooting the Captain as he was running up on the porch. That was all the firing done that day, and the Rebels were allowed to cross over into Virginia without any further attempt to stop them. This was the 12th of July, and we lay there until the 14th, when we again crossed over into Virginia, and via White Plains and New Baltimore, we went into camp near Warrenton, Aug. 2nd, where we remained until September, when we again advanced as far as the Rapidan river, where we found Lee behind his fortifications. We were not there long, however, until we learned that Lee was trying to get around on our right and rear, and we were compelled to retreat back as far as Centerville, arriving there the day after the State election. Our Colonel (Wm. H. Irvin) was sick and had been in an ambulance all day. When I heard of the re-election of Gov. Curtin, I thought I would go and tell the Colonel the good news, thinking it would cheer him up a little.

After a good deal of hunting around among the ambulance corps I found him stretched out, sound asleep. I woke him up and asked him if he had heard the good news. "No," said he, "what is it?" I said the news just came in that Gov. Curtin was re-elected by an overwhelming majority. "To h— with Gov. Curtin!" was his reply to me, whereupon I left him, realizing that I had done the old fellow a great injustice and caused him to feel bad instead of good. He and Curtin were on bad terms, so much so that he resigned a few days after.

On the 7th of Nov. the army of the Potomac again made a forward movement, and by noon of the same day we came to a halt within a mile and a half of the Rappahannock river, in sight of the Rebel fortifications at Rappahannock Station. Near the railroad the Rebels had a redoubt with four guns mounted. They had a strong natural position and the whole north side of the river was fortified with much labor and care; and from 1 to 5 o'clock there was a regular duel between our batteries and that of the enemy. But notwithstanding the siege guns playing upon their works, we were unable to silence the enemy's guns or drive them from their works. About dusk an assault was made by our brigade and two regiments of Union's brigade, led by our division commander, Gen. Russell. Our brigade numbered 1,549; Second brigade, 568. The 6th Maine and 5th Wisconsin were deployed as skirmishers, and the 49th and 119th Penna., and 121st N. Y. and 5th Maine followed close in their rear as support. The Rebels held their fire until we got within about 100 yards of the works, when they belched forth death and destruction by the bushel. The 6th Maine and 5th Wisconsin made a drive for the redoubt, and in they went. We were right at their backs, and such a time as we had for about two minutes, striking right and left, blood and brains flying in every direction! But we put a stop to the fighting for that day, and with our 2,117 men we captured and killed 1,950 Rebels, captured four pieces of artillery, eight flags and over 2,000 stand of arms. Gen. Wright in his report says that this was the first case during the war of an entrenched position of importance being carried on the first assault, and Gen. Sedgwick called attention to the fact that the enemy's intrenchments were defended by a force numerically equal to the attacking force.

Next morning we crossed the river and went into camp in a large piece of wood land, the property of John Botts, a strong Union man. Here we built winter quarters, doing picket duty, and on one occasion we were sent out on a reconnoitering expedition, passing through Culpeper. We marched south about 10 miles and went to camp for the night, and next day returned to our winter quarters.

Looking Backwards.
'Twas all serene some months ago when Grover took his seat, And Democrats went marching 'round with measured tread and beat; Oh! how they prophesied "good times" that they declared were dawning, But—somehow didn't calculate the difference in the morning!

And now, when Grover goes to fish, the silver-ites combine, And say he's after gold-fish with his little hook and line; Some time ago the sky was clear, but now it's dark and strange, And even in his pocket Grover Cleveland feels the change.
