Democracy Below Par!

The People Show Their Disapproval of Democratic Blundering. The Administration Rooster Sicks.

People Have Repented.

Less Than a Year of Democratic Rule Made Them Heartily Sick of the Change Voted For, Last Fall.

About Everything Ours.

Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Iowa, Massachusetts and Other States Speak in Thunderous Tones For a Continuance of a Protective Tariff.

Last fall we Republicans had to stand back like whipped dogs, while our Democratic brethren rent the air with cheers, and illuminated the heavens with fire works. But it is different now, much different. We are the people, this time, and don't you forget it. A few months of Democratic blundering caused a change of sentiment all along the line, and there hasn't been another such a Republican victory since the war. The people have already grown sick of the change they voted for last fall, as the returns plainly show. Laboring men have grown tired of getting their meals at public soup kitchens, which they never had to do under a Republican administration, hence the mighty landslide. They asked for bread, but they were given soup, and mighty thin soup at that. In fact they were in the soup, but they voted to get out of it.

At the hour of going to press it is impossible to give complete returns, but Ohio's about 50,000, while in New York the state is conceded to the Republicans by from 45,000 to 75,000. Iowa is Republican by about 30,000, Massachusetts is Republican by a large majority, South Dakota and Kansas are all right and Republicans are rejoicing everywhere.

A very tight vote was polled in our own county, but about 1,300 of a majority was rolled up for the G. O. P. just the same, and our whole county ticket is elected, as usual.

In Salisbury borough only 134, or about two-thirds of the full vote was polled. The Republican majority in the borough is 60, while the township (Elk Lick) went up four better and gave a Republican majority of 64, which is the largest majority we have had in that township for many years.

HOW THE GLORIOUS NEWS WAS RECEIVED
 Yesterday when the Pittsburg daily papers arrived here, there was a great rejoicing and the town was livelier than it has been for a long time. Tin horns, bells and other noisy instruments were brought forth, and pandemonium reigned supreme. A great bonfire was kindled in the evening, around which hundreds of people gathered and rent the air, time and time again, with cheers and sounds of victory. It was the biggest time gotten up on short notice that was ever had in this town. The Democrats seemed to enjoy the sport almost as well as the Republicans, and in the main, took their defeat modestly and good-naturedly. Furthermore, some of them "flopped" and came over and swore allegiance to the Republican party, which is the best news of all. Republicanism is away above par and will likely remain there, for the Democratic object lesson is more than the people, especially those in the North, can stand.

TOPICS AND COMMENT.

It has been wisely suggested that Cleveland ought to publish a diplomatic price list.

THERE isn't very much consistency in praying for better times and then voting the Democratic ticket.

MR. CLEVELAND will now have a chance to play with the baby a little, as he no longer has Congress on his hands.

THE Republican party seems to be getting its second wind in great style. The people of the country who were led astray, last year, are returning to their sober senses.

McKINLEY is a name that is unquestionably growing in the esteem of Republicans, every day. It is a name, too, that has been almost constantly associated with victory.

SOME of the Democrats still argue that content and plenty rule the land and that we have no panic whatever. Where content and plenty rule the land is under Grover's belly-band.

GROVER CLEVELAND is better than his party, but that doesn't make much of a man of him, after all, for it must be remembered that the only party he is superior to is the Democratic party.

Not a few Southern Senators are anxiously asking themselves "where they are at?" They have been snubbed by the man they made President and they fear that they may be "turned down" by their constituents.

THE St. Louis Globe Democrat says: "It must be said to Cleveland's credit that he is the only man who ever caused a Democratic majority in Congress to march to Republican music." The Globe Democrat is right.

THE late Sam J. Tilden, according to Mr. McClure's Magazine, once said of Mr. Cleveland: "This man is of somewhat coarse mental fibre and disposition, but of great force and stubbornly honest in his convictions."

It is well that Mr. Cleveland should say a good word for the poor and needy in his Thanksgiving day proclamation. He and the Democratic party have caused thousands who were charity-givers, last Thanksgiving day, to join the ranks of the poor and needy.

It is not generally known that Herreshoff, who planned the Vigilant, the yacht that recently defeated England's brag yacht in a race, is totally blind. But such is the case, nevertheless. It's rather tough on "John Bull" that even a blind Yankee can beat him building boats.

HELLO there! If Senator Voorhees knows what he is talking about, the new tariff is to be merely "a careful, fair and honest revision," instead of the radical free trade measure that Democratic editors and speakers have been demanding. Can it be possible that the administration has seen a new light on this subject?

A WASHINGTON preacher said in the course of a sermon on the assassination of Mayor Harrison: "In all the jails and penitentiaries in America, I consider that there are not two greater criminals than Henry George and Robert G. Ingersoll." Surely this man mistook some other noise for a "call" to preach the gospel.

DON CAMERON finds himself much in the situation of the man without a country. The Repeal Senators will not recognize him as of their family, and the Silver Senators doubt his sincerity, and treat him with coolness. He is reduced to the necessity of keeping the most wearisome company imaginable—his own.—St. Paul Globe.

THE day after Cleveland was elected it snowed, and the day he was inaugurated, the elements raged like an angry demon, and it snowed and it blowed. It was different after the great Republican sweep, this fall, for the day after the glorious news was proclaimed throughout the land, the sun shone brighter than it had shone for many days, the running brooks sang a merrier song, all nature smiled and seemed to be keeping time, time, time, in a sort of merry rhyme, to the music of the spheres, and the victors' lusty cheers, cheers, cheers, cheers, cheers, cheers, to the music and the victors' lusty cheers. But what is the use of dropping into poetry, when a plain statement that Providence smiles on Republican victory will express the truth just as well?

THE Sherman silver purchase bill is one of the valuable legacies left us by our Republican friends, and its repeal will be one of the many benefits the Democratic party has bestowed the country. Every Republican in Congress voted for its passage, or at least every Democrat voted against it. Even Senator Sherman, the man who fathered it, now wants to deny its parentage.—Somerset Vindicator.

Our friend, the Vedette, is aware by this time that repeal has taken place, but can the country count on it as a benefit derived from the Democratic party, as the Vedette said would be the case? Well, no; for 23 Republicans voted for and 7 voted against repeal, while the Democrats voted only 20 for and 23 against. Dear Vedette, will you now explain to your readers why the majority of the Democrats voted against repeal?

McKINLEY and his cohort of robber-tariff barons are badly frightened in Ohio. They are yelling fraud and corruption, while they amare plans for stealing the state.—Somerset Democrat of last week.

"How now, my lord?" What have you to say now? Badly scared, indeed! And they had plans to steal the state, eh? That would be startling, if true, but the returns show that no deception was necessary to get the state solidly in the Republican column. The whole thing in a nutshell is just this: The fight in Ohio was a straight fight between the great Republican tariff champion and the great Democratic free trade champion, and as the laboring men of the state of Ohio could not keep the wolf from the door with free trade staring them in the face, they cast their votes in favor of McKinley, protection and the old-time jingle of the dollars on Pay day. That is all there is to it, dear brother, and it's devilish well you know it.

WHEN Mr. Reed said in the House on Wednesday that the Democrats do not know their own policy in regard to the tariff, he said the truth. Policy means a settled method by which a great interest is managed. Nothing could be further from that than the views which are entertained by the gentlemen charged with the framing of the tariff reform bill. Chairman Wilson announces that it will be impossible to report that by November 20, and the reason is that the committee is divided not only on the matter of rates, but on the whole scope of the proposed measure. What one wants the other will not have, and meanwhile they are distracted by the fear that whatever is done or left undone will work to the disadvantage of the party. That is another proof of the incompetency which the Democratic party has shown time and again, an incompetency which has its origin in a lack of vital principle, in a lack of sincere conviction. It is its fate to be given over to subterfuge, to trust in tricks and schemes which may succeed for the moment, to put its reliance upon shams and false pretense rather than upon candor, sincerity and courage. It is a party effective only when in the minority, when it has nothing to do but criticize, condemn and abuse. It has no creative power, because it has no abiding faith in itself, in truth, or in lofty citizenship. Its whole aim is to win something for itself.—Pittsburg Times.
