TOPICS AND COMMENT.

The next President of the United States will be—a Republican; his name is a secondary consideration.

If the party intended as a successor to the populists can find no better wet nurse than Jerry Simpson, its grave should be prepared at once.

The Earl of Warwick made kings for an existing kingdom, but Grover Cleveland goes him one better and makes a queen for a defunct kingdom.

WONDERS will never cease. They have actually arrested seven men in Arkansas for taking part in a lynching; but they are, of course, all negroes.

SYMPATHY for the striking trainmen of the Lehigh Valley railroad cannot blind one to the fact that this is a very inauspicious time for a strike of any kind.

RESTORATIONS are becoming epidemic in European cabinets. The country would feel grateful if the disease in its worst form would strike the Cleveland cabinet.

If the report made by Paramount Blount is all the excuse Mr. Cleveland has for deciding to restore the Hawaiian monarchy he is to be pitied as well as condemned.

INSTEAD of finding himself the administration candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, Walter Q. Gresham may ere long find himself out in the cold.

The $65,000,000 of surplus reserve—the largest ever known—now lying idle in the New York banks, is a silent, but significant protest against Democratic tariff tinkering.

WHEN the administration undertook to help Gresham "get even" with General Harrison it did not probably expect the task to be so dangerous as it has already proven to be.

A. U. S. JUDGESHIP is understood to be the price of Chairman Wilson's agreement to put coal and iron ore on the free list. Crippling his home industries is not the best preliminary occupation for a judge.

It was the restraint of the republican Senate which gained Mr. Cleveland the reputation for conservatism during his first term which he has entirely lost before one-fifth of his second term has been served.

The section of the Democratic tariff bill that will, unless present information is wrong, provide for the imposition of an income tax, ought to be headed: "For the promotion and encouragement of the crime of perjury."

MURAT HALSTEAD says Cleveland's election was accomplished by "a combination of flukes, fads and frauds," which is largely true; but the people are already disgruntled, disgusted and determined to make amends.

AFTER all the Democratic abuse of the sugar bounty it is to remain on the statute book for eight years more. How about those democrats—Gov. Hogg, for instance—who have denied the constitutionality of the sugar bounty?

It now costs $5 and one hour in jail to send a challenge to fight a duel, in Virginia. Reforms move slowly, but the time may come when even Virginia will be controlled by a majority of the legal voters within her borders.

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY condensed a whole volume of political economy into a short sentence when he said: "The more there is to do, the better wages will be paid; the less there is to do, the less wages will be paid for what is done."

Isn't a bit of consolation to the fellow who has to wear the hair off the top of his head trying to think how he can get the four or five tons of coal required to carry his household through the winter, to be told that the cruiser Columbia consumes 570 tons a day.

It does seem as though some newspapers were over anxious to make conspicuous the fact that the death rate among the old soldiers is increasing. They are careful, however, not to mention one of the factors in the increased death rate—their treatment by this administration.

It is folly to say that an income tax will not be felt by the poor. The rich are never lacking for ways to shift their burdens to the shoulders of the poor. It is like expecting a tax upon usury to be paid by usurer, when everybody knows that it is always the unfortunate borrower who has it to pay.

EVEN the free trade New York Herald has at last discovered that the new tariff "must be moderate and framed with careful regard to the interests of trade and industry," and that "any reckless tariff legislation, any sudden or sweeping changes, would unsettle business and industry and bring on a panic." Still it lacks the courage to advise the Democrats to let the tariff alone.

GOV. MCKINLEY has been asked to make a protective tariff speech at Birmingham, Ala. It is not apparent, however, what benefit such a speech can be at this time. It does not require the eloquence of Gov. McKinley to tell the Alabamians that the future prosperity of their state is dependent upon a protective tariff; they know it, and knowing it still support a national free trade party.

THE McKinley magnetism is spreading and working wonders throughout the land. When Morris Lamb, of Hillsdale, Mich., who had been a helpless invalid for several months, heard the news from Ohio, last week, he shouted: "That's good enough to make any man well." Then he got up, dressed, and is now sound as a dollar. Take the Protection faith cure. It is good for every ill.—South Bend (Ind.) Tribune.

THE industrial revival which was to follow silver repeal has not struck Philadelphia. Of the 90,000 hands employed in the 500 textile factories a year ago, only 17,500 are at work, and only ninety in August only seventy-five per cent. of the workmen in the city were idle and this number has increased to ninety per cent. All are waiting for the development of the tariff policy of the administration.—Troy times.

NEVER before now has an American executive undertaken to stamp out republicanism and to set up a monarchy in any part of the world. Never before, we believe, has an American president issued orders for the assassination of a free and successful government. Never before has any officer of this government undertaken, upon his sole responsibility and without consulting congress or the people, to decide the destiny of a foreign country in diplomatic relations with ourselves. Never before has a president invited or commanded his cabinet advisors to assist him in the odious business of setting up again a rotten and broken throne. Was there no American spirit in the cabinet when this policy of infamy was decided? Walter Q. Gresham would have done well to tear his commission into pieces and fling the pieces in the face of his master, rather than to sign his name to the document which carried to the nation the announcement of the nation's shame.—New York Sun (Dem.)

WE gather from the convention which met in the First United Presbyterian Church, of Allegheny, last evening, that this country is in a very bad way. Indeed, one of the members authorized to speak for the convention declares that the country is threatened with destruction by evils which are steadily rising to supremacy. "They are assuming the control in the administration of Government, national, state and municipal. They are corrupting the currents of our national life at their very fountains. The slightest glance at the moral condition of our land discloses these facts."

That is grievous, or would be if true. That there are evils in the land, no one denies; that they must be combated no one denies; that they are combated, and successfully, is not denied by any one who remembers the last elections and is candid enough to acknowledge the meaning of them. Saying nothing about the result of the elections in this country in two notable instances in which a lawless class was crushed in a way which astonished some others not less than itself, how was it in other places? In New York all party distinctions seemed lost to sight while the people united to defeat a man whose presence in the highest court of the state they thought dishonored it. In Chicago they united to vindicate a judge who had the courage to do his duty. In New Jersey they united to put down a band of gamblers who imagined themselves securely established in power. Wherever there was a moral issue raised the people subordinated all party and material interests to maintain the supremacy of righteousness. In the face of all this to denounce the great mass of the people as corrupt, as encouraging evils which imperil the life of the nation, is slanderous.

WE say that this is successfully combating evil, because it is moral progress. The convention will not agree to this, because the convention believes that there is no hope of such progress until the people have given in their subscriptions to certain religious dogmas and have had these incorporated into law. These gentlemen have a perfect right to labor to that end. That there is nothing except death more certain than that their labor will be in vain, is wholly their business. If they are satisfied everybody else ought to be. But those who do not accept their theory of reform object to being described as yielding to and encouraging vice and disorder because they do not accept this theory, and especially in the face of the truth which may be read of all men in the last elections, that they are willing to subordinate every party and material interest when necessary to preserve and perpetuate the great principles of morality.—Pittsburg times.

No better aid to digestion. No better cure for dyspepsia. Nothing more reliable for biliousness and constipation than Dr. Wirt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills.
