IN MISERY WITH DYSPEPSIA
I was in misery with dyspepsia. Some times I had no appetite, and when I did eat a hearty meal I felt much distress for hours after. I did not seem to have any ambition; was restless at night, and in the morning tired and nervous. My digestion was irregular and unsatisfactory. My wife urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the result is that I have never felt better in all my life than now. I

"German Syrup"
My acquaintance with Boschee's German Syrup was made about fourteen years ago. I contracted a cold which resulted in a hoarseness and cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a physician, without obtaining relief I saw the advertisement of your remedy and obtained a bottle. I received quick and permanent help. I never hesitate to tell my experience. Rev. W. IRON AND STEEL.

A Weekly Review of the Market, By W. W. HARRIS.

The "Iron Trade," Cleveland, O., says: "An increasing volume of business in raw iron and in many departments of the finished material market, is still attended by the lowest prices, and there is no longer any disposition to speculate as to how far down absolute bottom is to be found. Wherever any considerable tonnage is to be purchased—and in finished iron 100 tons seems to count for as much as 500 tons in normal times—sellers have come to expect to make prices a shade lower than the last transaction called out. In the pig iron it is noted that in some markets consumers are asking for the same quantity of iron at lower prices than they were willing to pay some time past. Sales are consequently confined to the year's deliveries, however, the expiration of coke contracts with the year being a factor in the calculations in some furnaces. The steel rail reductions continue to be a fruitful topic, especially among iron men and furnacemen. Much is expected from the opening of rail buying by railroads, which is confidently counted on. Railroad officials in several instances are quoted as to the larger contracts they will now place and as to the replacement of light rails with heavier ones. The building of electric railways will be given an impetus, moreover, and the practice of using heavy rails on these lines will increase, with the inter-town lines that have for some time used the T rails in part are likely to be larger customers than ever of the rail mills. Later reports substantiate the two former views, but have been mentioned in connection with recent sales.

The large pipe contracts in the East heretofore have increased by considerable tonnage in the week, Cincinnati reporting the best week the pipe trade has seen in months. Prices were the lowest, however, the effort evidently being to fill up the foundries for the winter. There is nothing assuring in the pipe trade and prices are very uncertain. The movement may be up or down with the iron, in addition to the round sales of southern iron made to cover pipe contracts, there have been some goodly transactions in the valleys in the Pittsburgh and Wheeling districts particularly in Bessemer iron and in several sales made under special conditions. In finished iron and steel the demoralization continues; prices depend altogether on the size of the order and the competition to get the business. The resumption of several iron works, however, may be a stimulant, but will not relieve the tension any, and the struggle for business in support of steady winter operation promises to be keener.

STRIKERS GROW RIOTOUS.

They Stone a Lehigh Station and New Train Hands.
The strike on the Lehigh Valley railroad is still far from settlement. At Sugar Notch, three miles from Wilkesbarre, there was more or less excitement Sunday. A motley gang of men and boys gathered and made all sorts of threats against the men who were at work. The most unruly of the crowd threw stones through the windows of the station and compelled the operator to leave for his life. As Sugar Notch is an important junction of the road this episode delayed the running of trains for quite a while.

The strikers held a large and enthusiastic meeting in the afternoon. No desertions were reported, but four non-union men realized that this is a battle to the death. If they cannot win this contest with all the brotherhood ranks, they will have to continue the various organizations. Brotherhood men from all over the country are pouring in money to the local treasury, and the strikers will be well provided for for some time.

An attempt was made by an unruly crowd to drive a shifting crew from their engine and to break up the engine house near the Hillman vein breaker. The excitement ran high for a time and stones and clubs were thrown at them until a police force of about 100 men, armed with clubs and batons, drove the crowd away and joined the strikers.

The 7:10 clock passenger train due here from the West was stopped north of this city the same evening. The train was held closed for fear of violence; new men are coming in and others are leaving. The outlook at present is anything but encouraging for the strikers.

The Pennsylvania market freight from Jersey City bound South on the Central railroad collided with a Lehigh coal train at the crossing street crossing to Port Amboy, N. J., and engineer Malory, of the Lehigh, who had taken the place of a striker and who was making his first trip was killed.

A number of the deserting crews who were seen at Wilkesbarre said they had been subjected to an almost continuous fusillade of stones and coal from Sugar Notch to Wilkesbarre and most of them were so thoroughly frightened that they were glad to quit on the spot.

THE SILVER PURCHASE.

Under the Sherman Act 168,674,500 Ounces Have Been Bought and $38,007,325 Paid.

Director Preston of the mint has prepared for Secretary Carlisle a statement showing the amount and cost of the silver purchased under the Sherman law, the following extract from which he furnished the president: "The amount and cost of silver purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, from the date the act went into effect, August 31, 1890, to the date of the report, November 2, 1893, was 168,674,500 fine ounces, costing $38,007,325, the average cost per ounce being 84.924. The present market price is about 70 cents per ounce."

It is certain that of the purchase $38,007,325 worth was coined into standard silver dollars leaving 140,689,750 ounces on hand. This amount will coin $181,915,000. It has not yet been determined whether to authorize the coinage of the bullion, but in anticipation of any possible order the mints have been authorized to prepare the ingots and blanks from which the dollars are made so as to proceed with the coinage promptly should notice to that effect be given.

Minister Willis' latest reports received in Washington did not have the least doubt regarding the restoration of the queen on the appointed day.

Caught in Wrecked Cars.

A southbound freight train on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway ran into an open switch at Long Bell lumber mills near Van Buren, Ark. The freight collided with a switch engine and a string of cars, demolishing both engines and several of the cars. Four men were caught in the wreck and badly mangled, two of them meeting instant death. The dead are J. W. Brown and W. T. Swin. The injured are W. T. Spoon and W. H. Bennett.

WAS HANGED IN THE COURT.

SWIFT RETRIBUTION.

Follows the Commission of a Dastardly Deed at Ottumwa, Iowa.

At Ottumwa, Ia., Frederick Gustavson was hanged by an excited mob to the stair railing of Justice Truitt's court room for assaulting the 4-year-old daughter of Jonas Sax.

On Wednesday Gustavson was taken quietly to Justice Truitt's office for arraignment. The news that the man was in the court spread with rapidity and in less than 20 minutes a crowd of perhaps 1,000 was surging around the stairway leading to the court room trying to get at the prisoner. The mother made the girl receive final getting to the top of the stairs and from the platform in front of the court room swung a rope. Then, with her aged father, she speared at the crowd below to hang Gustavson. Sheriff McIntyre and Mayor Force appealed to the crowd for peace and silence but in vain.

A number of men, after a great effort, succeeded in gaining admission to the court room, which is on the second floor. No sooner were they on the inside than they sprang to open the doors and admit their friends. This precipitated a fight with the court officers, which was carried on with desperate determination for several minutes. The superior number of the mobbers finally won the battle, the doors were opened, and the mob poured in. The leader of the mob seized the rope from the hands of Mrs. Sax and, as the court attaches were powerless to interfere, placed it about Gustavson's neck in a twinkling.

With a yell of rage the mob was seized by a hundred hands and the quaking wretch was dragged from his chair across the floor to a window, where he was lifted out and when the rope had been made secure to the stair railing, he was dropped. He hung suspended above the principal street of the city for fully ten minutes, the contortions of his body being extremely revolting. Suddenly the rope parted and the body dropped to the street below and a concerted rush was made by the spectators for its possession. The police, however, were first to reach the prostrate figure and hastily throwing it into a farmer's wagon, near by, drove rapidly to the jail, followed by the mob. The Lynchers agreed that the body of Gustavson, nor would they permit it to be buried until the man was dead. A trace was patched up by the appointment of a coroner, who examined the body and pronounced life extinct.

The little Sax girl is in a precarious condition with the chances of life greatly against her.

LATEST BRAZILIAN WAR NEWS.

The New York "Herald" has received the following dispatches from the Brazilian front: "The Brazilians have captured the ironclad Javara, rebel ship, carrying their heaviest artillery, was sunk in the fort by loyal forces of the Brazilian navy. The ironclad Javara, rebel ship, carrying their heaviest artillery, was sunk in the fort by loyal forces of the Brazilian navy. The ironclad Javara, rebel ship, carrying their heaviest artillery, was sunk in the fort by loyal forces of the Brazilian navy.

Brazilian Minister Mendonca said concerning the sinking of the Javara: "Its importance lies in the fact that the Javara was the second best vessel in the possession of Mello. He could carry nine miles. She has been doing most of the destruction in the city of Niteroi, near Rio. She had done damage to the extent of millions."

Word comes from Rio that the situation there is critical. Peixoto has again been mounting guns on the hills within the city limits contrary to his understanding with the foreign diplomats.

General bombardment of the capital seems inevitable, and the fighting with small arms is almost incessant. The diplomatic corps has removed to Petropolis. Heavy artillery fire continues daily. Fort Yaguajay and Fort Lage were greatly battered. A heavy gun at Fort San Joao was struck by a rebel shot and dismantled. During the bombardment on Saturday, a shell fell at Fort Lage, killing an officer and seventeen men. Parts of the city, owing to the fusillade of rifles and machine guns, are in peril. There have been many casualties in the streets.

The foreign diplomats consider it impossible to take further steps for the protection of life and property, and that naval commanders concur in the general opinion, which favors letting both sides proceed without any further interference. Admiral Mello is inclined to bombard the city after forty-eight hours notice.

It has become known to Peixoto's administration that Mello intends to make an effort to get out of the city with his flagship Aquidaban in order to meet Peixoto's warships, which are coming down from New York, and give them battle on the open sea. Preparations to give him a hot reception as he tries to run the gauntlet of the forts at the harbor's entrance are being accordingly made, with all haste. General bombardment of the capital seems the inevitable and the fighting with small arms is almost incessant.

QUEEN LILI' VERSION.

She Writes Blount of Her Woes in Hawaiian.

The correspondence of Queen Liliuokalani with Commissioner Blount was given out by the State department and forms the fourth volume of papers on the vexed Hawaiian question. The queen details all of the events of her reign. She claims she was warned on December 17, 1892 that the American representatives were preparing for annexation. She advised with the British minister on the subject and he told her to lay the matter before the diplomatic corps.

She claims the people had demanded the new constitution and they had elected a new legislature for that purpose. Early in January the queen told her household she was going to promulgate the new constitution and asked them to be ready to quell any uprising. She claims they pledged their officers to support her. She claims Mr. Colburn acted the part of a traitor by consulting a lawyer, Mr. Hartwell, on January 14 and telling him her intentions.

She informs Blount that Colburn's "treason" set the cabinet against her and gave the revolutionists the chance they were after. The cause of the revolution is much the same as that given by Blount.

$2,000,000 Conflagration.
The most destructive fire known in Springfield, Mass., for years started in the block owned by J. K. Dexter and Henry S. Dickinson, at 93 Worthington street. The flames when discovered had gained considerable headway from the fact that the fire seemed to have started in the center of the building some time before it appeared on the outside of the block, and the flames soon spread beyond the control of the firemen.

John Doolen's building, next to the Dickinson block, went next and then the Mayor block. The Abbe block was then attacked and soon the Hotel Glendower was completely surrounded by fire and speedily consumed. The probable loss is estimated at $2,000,000.

A BILL providing for state aid for parish schools will be introduced in the New York legislature at its next session. It will be accompanied by a petition signed mostly by Catholics.

Portuguese Characteristics.

The men of Portugal are as fond of show as are the women. Their fingers are nearly always loaded with rings, and about their bodies hang chains as thick as ropes, from which are suspended bunches of trinkets.

The Portuguese dandy is fond of anything that draws attention to his high-esteemed person. Above his showy vest he wears a cravat of rich colors, and in his buttonhole a full-blown rose. I know I am safe in saying that most of the promenaders whom I have seen on Sundays in the chief thoroughfares with riding whips in their hands have never set foot in a stirrup. The spur is to them a sort of sign of nobility which they arrogate to themselves, a relic of the privileges of the old chivalry. Where is the Portuguese, be he mulatto or calker, whose ancestors did not wear golden spurs at the battle of Ourique or of Aljubarrota? I have noticed that a good many officials work in spurs as if about to go to battle, and when these knights of the quill peacefully render up their fine, bureaucratic souls to God, I have no doubt that their spurs will be laid on their tombs.

But have we any right to dwell so long in a half mocking spirit on a people of such numerous and trustworthy moral qualities, and who, but for their unfortunate indolence and their exaggerated egotism, might be held up as a model to other nations? For the Portuguese are naturally good, hospitable, honest in their dealings, generous and brave, and we are very certain that in the event of any threatening of the independence of their country we should once more see this heroic nation, in whom slumbers a powerful national spirit, rise as one man against the invader, as in 1388 and 1800.
