Dragging Music Into a Play.
"I once saw a raft scene in an English play," says a noted play actor, "Suddenly one of the shipwrecked party cried out: 'What's that I see floating toward us on the waves?' 'A grand piano,' shouted another. Then the piano was hauled up on the raft and one of the famishing castaways played a 'Rhapsodie Hongroise' by Liszt. That cured me of 'dragging in music by the hair'."

The Oyster.

The sentiment which annually greets the return of the oyster from its summer vacation may not be of an esthetic sort, but certainly it is as remote as possible from mercenary considerations of commerce. And yet the oyster not only stands for a great delicacy, but for a great industry that will in time be vastly greater. It is shown by Government statistics, for instance, that of the 35,000,000 bushels of oysters consumed throughout the world each year 30,000,000 bushels are supplied by the United States, and that the oyster fishery excels any other fishery in importance. Add to this that the industry is especially important in the States of New Jersey and Maryland—the latter alone producing one-third of the world's crop—and it will be seen that there are special reasons why Philadelphia should be cordial to the oyster, and should greet its advent with a degree of enthusiasm not extended to any other thing in the edible list with the possible exception of the Thanksgiving turkey.—Philadelphia Record.

RELIEF FROM PAIN.

Women Everywhere Express their Gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham.

Mrs. T. A. WALDEN, Gibson, Ga., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before taking your medicine, life was a burden to me. I never saw a well day. At my monthly period I suffered untold misery, and a great deal of the time I was troubled with a severe pain in my side. Before finishing the first bottle of your Vegetable Compound I could tell it was doing me good. I continued its use, also using the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, and have been greatly helped. I would like to have you use my letter for the benefit of others."

Mrs. FLORENCE A. WOLFE, 515 Nuberry St., Lancaster, Ohio, writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years I was troubled with what the local physicians told me was inflammation of the womb. Every month I suffered terribly. I had taken enough medicine from the doctors to cure anyone, but obtained relief for a short time only. At last I concluded to write to you in regard to my case, and can say that by following your advice I am now perfectly well."

Mrs. W. R. BATES, Mansfield, La., writes: "Before writing to you I suffered dreadfully from painful menstruation, leucorrhoea and sore feeling in the lower part of the bowels. Now my friends want to know what makes me look so well. I do not hesitate one minute in telling them what has brought about this great change. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough. It is the greatest remedy of the age."

Eyes Not Necessary.
Eyes are popularly considered to be quite necessary to sight, but this is an error, if we are to believe Dr. Nagel, a recent German experimenter. Many creatures without eyes can see; at least they can distinguish perfectly well between light and darkness and even between different degrees of light. This is the lowest degree of seeing, to be sure, but still it is really sight, and differing scarcely more from the vision of some insects that possess eyes than this does from our own clear sight.

Creatures that see without eyes see by means of their skins. All skins, says Dr. Nagel, are potential eyes; that is, they are sensitive to light. In animals that have eyes the sensitiveness has been highly localized and greatly increased—so that man, for instance, has a retina very sensitive to light, and an expanse of ordinary skin which possesses a sensitiveness to light so slight that it is hardly conscious of it. Yet his skin is sensitive in some degree, as is proved by the fact that it sunburns—that is, light may cause a disturbance in the pigment of the skin just as it does in that of the eye. In the eye the disturbance is accompanied by a nervous change, which sends a telegraphic message along the optic nerves, and there are messages, also, but their tidings imprint no image on the mind; they simply express discomfort—cry out "sunburn."

But in many eyeless creatures the lack of eyes is in part made up by increased sensitiveness of the whole skin surface to light. Darwin long ago noticed that earth worms, although they have no eyes, will suddenly withdraw into their holes at the approach of a lighted candle. Some creatures seem most sensitive to sudden increase of light; others to sudden diminution.

A Home-Grown Experience.
A man went into an icehouse to cool off.

An abrupt and impetuous hired man closed and locked the door and went away. The next day was Sunday and the hired man did not come back. While the man who yearned to cool off waited for the return of the hired man his object was accomplished in a very thorough manner. He cooled off. The muffled door gave back but echoes to his blows, and his voice could find no place to escape and sound the alarm.

When he grew tired of walking and swinging his arm to keep warm the chunks of ice that were piled around him did not offer a tempting bed. Hunger gnawed at his vitals and refused to be satisfied with diet of raw air. Darkness settled down like a six months' Arctic night, and the only sound which broke the profound stillness was the man who wanted to cool off trying to swear.

The hired man opened the door on Monday morning, and the man who wanted to cool off crawled out more dead than alive.

When his tongue had thawed out he began to abuse the hired man. "Fool!" retorted the hired man. "Fool, you are a lucky dog and do not know it. Don't waste your time in abusing me, your benefactor, but go and write a book of impressions on Alaska."

Then the man who wanted to cool off saw that his fortune was made.—Chicago Record.

Pork Dangerous—Veal Unwholesome
"Pork is the source of trichina; for this reason it should be cooked thoroughly. Hogs are almost always fattened so as to be actually diseased before killing, and we find here also a common source of tuberculosis; it is also generally believed that pork eating is a common source of scrofula," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer in the Ladies' Home Journal. "Certainly know that persons who indulge freely in pork have very unhealthy, rough and easily irritated skins. Veal (equally indigestible with pork) may not contain the dangerous germs of the mature ox; the fibre, however, is dense and difficult of digestion. Unless it be thoroughly boiled and chopped rather fine it had better not be eaten at all. It should never, under any circumstances, be given to children."

GOSSIP MESSAGES.

"Striking Folks Up"—Fourteenth Sermon in the New York Herald's Committee Series by a Pennsylvania Minister—Dr. Talmage On Ordinary People.

"Ahab, whom Jezabel his wife stirred up"—I. Kings, xxi., 25.

A large part of the evil and a larger part of the good in the world would never be done but for the doors being stirred up to it.

Life is much like the sea; there seems always some wind to smite the surface or some stealthy undercurrent to send its restlessness up from the depths.

The lesson is many-sided; if fully considered it opens the complex question of life's relationships. It is not one part of the world against the other; part of the world giving, the other ever receiving impressions, for one who is stirred up by evil may be a constant impulse to another's good.

No matter how weak one may be or how dependent on others, there is still some power going forth—consciously or unconsciously—which makes more positive the good or evil of the world's conflicting forces.

We find ourselves pressed by life's impulses or irritations. Its attractions and repulsions find ready allies in our inclinations and we are drawn to the one or the other, whichever he needs it, and happy is the man who never stirs up his wife to anything but good.

We are ready to condemn Jezabel for stirring up Ahab to evil, but we often lose sight of how Ahab influenced Jezabel. His negative weakness provoked her positive badness. We sometimes comfort ourselves that we are not bad because we do not stir up our wives, but our very weakness may provoke some one else into sinning.

Ahab wanted a piece of ground that was near the palace. It was the property of Naboth, his neighbor, and he refused to sell it. Naboth's refusal, Ahab went to bed, turned his face to the wall and refused to eat. Ahab, the king, peevish as a child because he could not have his own way. It was then Jezabel's malicious plans were formed. Ahab's peevish sulking stirred up the wickedness of Jezabel. Had he been noble she could not have been so evil.

When Jezabel his wife stirred up, stirred up the power he had turned to good even weak Ahab might have been one of the world's helpers.

The power for great evil reveals the possibility of great good; the power in the direction of wrong is the measure of benefit if turned in the opposite direction.

Who can estimate what the world would have lost had not Wendell Phillips heard his true-hearted wife say, "Wendell, don't let me stir up an end to possible vacillation." Was Lady Palmerston stirring up worth while? She spent her life in "placing and keeping" her husband in his proper position.

At a rare tribune was paid by General Charles H. Taylor to the memory of Eben D. Jordan when in a Boston Globe editorial he said, "No man of my acquaintance ever possessed a rarer gift of developing the gifts of another man than Wendell Phillips. He stirred up to their best possibilities those whom he met; he made them by his help what, possibly, they never could have been without him."

Are those who are near you weak and sinful because you have not stirred them up to be their best selves?

The world will ever be grateful to Dr. W. Robertson Nichol for his persistent stirring up of the world to the "Bonnie Brier Bush," which, like the bush Moses saw, is aglow with God.

We repent we sometimes are because all that seems against us. If we put ourselves in right relations with God He will give us His power and we shall be masters, not servants, of fate. Most happily it has been said:

As we journey through life;
'Tis the set of a soul
That decides its goal,
And not the calm or the strife.

How are you using the forces which come to you? Have you "set the sails" that the very winds which are intended to drive you far out on the tempest tossed sea shall help you into a harbor of safety? Are the conditions so numerous and the temptations so many that you are weary of the world? Do you feel that you are weary of the world? Do you feel that you are weary of the world? Do you feel that you are weary of the world?

A Vigorous Battle.

From the Net Era, Greensboro, Ind.
The following is a straightforward statement by a veteran of the late war. No comrade will need further proof that their friends' own words, as here given, Squire John Castor, of Newport, Ind., is the narrator, and an honest, respected citizen he is too. He said: "I have been troubled with rheumatism in all my joints ever since I went to the war. It was brought on by my exposure there. It came on me gradually, and kept getting worse until I was unable to do any work. I tried several physicians, but they did me no good. They said my trouble was rheumatism resulting in disease of the heart, and that there was no cure for it. Nevertheless I had lived and fought the disease for thirty years, and did not intend to die simply because they said I must, so I hunted up some remedies for myself, and finally happened on Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I asked some of my neighbors about the medicine, for it had been used by several persons in the community, and they recommended it very highly. I procured a box. The pills helped me right away, and I continued taking them. I commenced taking them last fall, and finished taking the sixth box a few months ago. I am not bothered with the rheumatism now—the medicine has cured me. I can most certainly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

These pills are not only good for rheumatism, but are valuable for any disease that arises from impoverished or bad blood. They do not act on the bowels.

Now, what is wanted is grace—divine grace, the ordinary business man, who are harnessed from morn till night and all the days of their life—harnessed in business, but grace to lose ten dollars. Not grace to supervise two hundred and fifty employes in a factory, but grace to supervise the bookkeeper and two salesmen and the small boy that sweeps out the store. Grace to invest not the eighty thousand dollars of net profit, but the twenty-five hundred of clear gain. Such a grace as thousands of business men have to-day—keeping them tranquil, whether goods sell or do not sell, whether customers pay or do not pay, whether the tariff is up or is down, whether the crops are luxuriant or a dead failure—calm in all circumstances, and amid all vicissitudes. That is the kind of grace we want.

There are all the ordinary farmers. We talk about agricultural life, and we immediately shoot off to talk about Cincinnati, the politician, who went from the plow to a high position, and after he got through the dictatorship, in twenty-one days, went back again to the plow. What encouragement is that to ordinary farmers? The vast majority of them—none of them will be patriots. Perhaps none of them will be Senators. If any of them have better things to do, they will be forty or fifty or a hundred acres of the old homestead. What these men want is grace, to keep their patience while plowing with balky oxen, and to keep cheerful amid the tediousness that destroys the corn crop, and that enables them to restore the garden the day after the neighbor's cattle have broken in and trampled out the strawberry bed, and gone through the Lima-bean patch, and eaten up the sweet corn, and left large quantities that they must keep from the water lest they swell up and die.

Grace in catching weather that enables them, without impression, to spread out their corn the third time, although acorns, and again, and again, it has been almost ready for the mow. A grace to doctor the cow with hollow horn, and the sheep with the foot rot, and the horse with the distemper, and to compel the unthrifty acres to yield a livelihood for the family, and schooling for the children and little extras to help the older boy in business, and something for the daughter's wedding outfit, and to keep the surplus for the time when the ankles will get stiff with age, and the breath will be a little short, and the swinging of the cradle through the hot harvest field will bring on the old man's vertigo. Better close up about Cincinnati, I know five hundred farmers just as noble as he was. What they want is to know that they have the friendship of that Christ who often drew His smiles from the furrows of the soil as when He said, "A sower went forth to sow," as when He built His best parable out of the seeds of a farmer boy coming back from his wanderings, and the old farmhouse shook that night with the stormy winds of his companionship, and said that the eternal God is a farmer, and who said that "My Father is the husbandman."

Come, now, let us have a religion for ordinary people in professions, in occupations, in agriculture, in the household, in merchandise, in everything. I salute across the centuries Asyncretus, Philegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermas, Philologus and Julia.
