How Are You SERMONS BY EMINENT DIVINES.

Tired, nervous? Can't get rested? Tostured with boils, humors?

That is not strange. Impurities have seen accumulating in your blood during winter and it has become impoverished.

This is the experience of most people. Therefore they take Hood's Earsaparilla to purify their blood in spring.

"My daughter was run down and tired while in school, and I have been giving her Hood's Earsaparilla, which has purifications and should be the been giving the Hood's Earsaparilla, which has purifications to the second support to the second support the second su ned her blood and built her up, and she is now getting well and strong. Novel Use for X Ray.
Spurious mummies have from time to time been palmed off on the public, and a doubt arose in a Vienna museum as to the validity of one daughter of the Pharaohs in their collection. It oc. curred to them, in view of the general hollowness of life, that the young lady might have been manufactured in Birmingham. So they turned the Roentgen rays upon her and saw at once through her many folded wraps the amulets which the Egyptians placed upon the bosoms of their dead, thus roving the genuineness of their speci-

A Good Dictionary Fer Twe Cents.

A dictionary containing 10,000 of the most useful words in the English language, is published by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y. While it contains some advertising, it is a complete dictionary, concise and correct. In compiling this book care has been taken to omit none of those common words whose spelling or exact use occasions at times a momentary difficulty, even to well educated people. The main aim has been to give as much useful information as possible in a limited space. To those who already have a dictionary, this book will commend itself because it is compact, light and convenient; to those who have no dictionary whatever, it will be invaluable. One may be secured by writing to the above concern, mentioning this paper, and enclosing a two-cent stamp.

A Klondyke "Clean-Up."

In the Century John Sidney Webb describes "The River Trip to the Klon-dike." In telling of his visit to the El Dorado mines, the author says: The sluice-boxes are made of boards, machine or ship sawed, and roughly nailed up into troughs or boxes, and fitted to-gether like stovepipes. Cleats are naildinto the last boxes, called "riffles," or, in some instances, shallow auger-holes are bored into the bottom boards. The boxes are then set up in line on a gentle slope, and the pay dirt is shoveled in at the top, and a stream of water, controlled by a dam, sluices over the dirt and gold. The weight of gold is so great that it falls, and the dirt and useless gravel washes off, the gold being caught upon the cleats or in the holes scattered about. In the last boxes scattered about. In the last boxes quick-silver is put in to eatch the very fine gold. When the gold is taken from the boxes it is called a "clean-up." On the day I was there (Aug. 17), at No. BO El Dorado twenty thousand dollars was "cleaned up" in twenty-four hours, with only one man shoveling in the dirt. Such wonderful results may mean, however, months of expensive work; but "when it comes, it comes quick," as the saying is among the min-

GOSPEL MESSAGES.

Subject: "Herding the Sheep"—Prays That His Flock May Listen to the Pip-ing of the Good Shepherd, Bidding Them to Renounce Sin and Ask Pardon.

TEXT: "The Lord is my shepherd."—Psalms xxiii., 1.

What with post and rail fences and our pride in Southdown, Astrakhan and Flemish varieties of sheep, there is no use now of the old-time shepherd. Such a one had abundance of opportunity of becoming a poet, being out of doors twelve hours a dabundance of opportunity of becoming a poet, being out of doors twelve hours a don't he had abundance of opportunity of the sun or the flowers had anything to say, he was very apt to hear it. The Ettick Shepherd of Scotland, who afterward took his seat in the brilliant circle of Wilson and Lookhart, got his wonderful poetic inspiration in the ten years in which he was watching the flocks of Mr. Laidlaw. There is often a sweet poetry in the rugged these Scot the become sheeperd. One of the said of the seath of the seath of the work heard to say, "O Lord, it has seemed good in Thy providence to take from me the staff of my right hand at the time when to us sand blind mortais I seemed to be most in need of it, and how I shall climb up the hill of sorrow and auld age without it Thou mayst ken, but I dinna!"

David, the shepherd how, is watching his very hills where afterward and on the worth with the same of the word. The word was beautiful, brave, musical and poetic. I think he often forgot the sheep In his reveries. There in the solitude he struck the harp string that is thrilling through all ages. David the boy was gathering the material for David the poet and David the sheap her and the said. "The trees of the Lord are full of sap." David the boy, like other boys, had been found in the fightened the rud deer into said. "The trees of the Lord are full of sap." David the boy, like other boys, had been found of hunting the birds' nests, and he had noticed the exuding of the injers of divine embroidery, the divine fighers working in the thread of light and the beads of sturs, and he head and he said, "The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds to calve." David the boy had been fond to have been and he said, "The voice of the Lord maketh the hinds of all the preparents of his father

Here is a man who is making too much money. He is getting very vain. He says: "After awhile I shall be independent of all the world. Oh, my soul, eat, frink and be merry!" Business disaster comes to him. What is God going to do with him? Hus God any gradge against him? Oh, no. God the world. Oh, my soul, eat, drink and be merry!' Business disaster comes to him. What is God going to do with him? Has God any grudge against him? Oh, no. God is throwing over him the shepherd's crook and puiling him back into better pastures. Here is a man who has always been well. He has never had any sympathy for invalids. He calls them coughling, wheezing nuisances. After awhile sickness comes to him. He does not understand what God is going to do with him. He says, "Is the Lord angry with me?" Oh, no. With the shepherd's crook he has been pulled back into better pastures. Here is a happy household circle. The parent does not realize the truth that these children are only loaned to him, and he forgets from what source came his domestic blessings. Sickness drops upon a those children and death swoops upon a little one. He says, "Is God angry with me?" No. His stepherd's crook pulls him back into better pastures. I do not know what would have become of us if it had not been for the shepherd's crook. Oh, the mercies of our troubles! You take up apples and plums from under the shade of the trees, and the very best fruits of Christian character we find in the deep shade of the trees, and the very best fruits of Christian character we find in the deep shade of treather.

When I was on the steamer coming across the ocean, I got a clinder in my eye, and several persons tried to get it out very gently, but it could not be taken out in that way. I was told that the engineer had a facility in such cases. I went to him. He put his large, sooty hand on me, took a knife and wrapped the lid of the eye around the knife. I expected to be hurt very much, but without any pain and instantly he removed the cinder. Oh, there come times in our Christian life when our spiritual vision is being spolled and all gentle appliances fail. Then there comes some giant trouble and, black handed, lays hold of us and removes that which would have ruined our vision forever. I will gather all your sorrows together in one regiment of ten compa

How to Rice Early.
Thomas and Simms live opposite each other in a narrow street. They were going on a fishing excursion the other day, and as they wanted to be sure to wake in time to catch the early train, they ran a bit of clothesline across the and each tied an end to his leg, so that if one awoke the other would immediately feel a pull, says Tit-Bits.

The scheme was an excellent one and we know of no reason why, under ordinary circumstances, it should not have worked well.

But about five o'clock that morning come laborers assembled in front of Simms' for the purpose of erecting a telegraph pole. When the hole was dug they began to put the pole upon end. But, unfortunately, it slipped down with tremendous force upon the

Mrs. Simms was very much surprised to see Henry go over the foot of the bed and shoot feet foremost out of the window; but even she was not more amazed than Mrs. Thompson was when Archibald performed the same feat.

They met in the middle of the street clustering as it were, round the pole but each with a broken leg. The wake themselves now with alarm clocks. It is safer-and less exciting.

Guard Pupils' Emotions

"The Board of Education out in Alameda, Cal., has a tender regard for the sensitive feelings of children," remarked Edward J. Holland, of San Francisco, at Willard's. "A recent order by board forbids the wearing mourning garb on the part of any public school teacher. The chairman of these wise officials, in explaining the order, said it was in the interest of boys and girls whose spirits became weighed down through casting their eyes on the habiliments of grief, and were thus unable to attend properly to their studies.

"As an instance of ultra consideration for the young, I think this action of the Alameda School Board beats the record, but how about the feelings of some young lady teacher, who might desir to clothe herself in black as an evidence of family bereavement?"—Washington

The Cause of Dyspepsia.

From the Republican, Scranton, Penna.
The primary cause of dyspepsia is lack of vitality; the absence of nerve force; the loss of the life-sustaining elements of the blood.

No organ can properly perform its function when the source of nutriment fails. When the stomach is robbed of the nourishment demanded by nature, assimilation

When the stomach is robbed of the nourishment demanded by nature, assimilation ceases, unnatural gases are generated; the entire system responds to the discord.

A practical illustration of the symptoms and torture of dysopsia is furnished by the case of Joseph T. Vandyke, 440 Hickory St., Scranton, Pa.

In telling his story, Mr. Vandyke says:
"Tive years ago I was affilioted with a trouble of the stomach, which was very agravating. I had no appetite, could not enjory myself at any time, and especially was the trouble severe when I awoke in the morning. I did not know what the allment was, but it became steadily worse and I was in constant misery.
"I called in my family physician, and he diagnosed the case as citarrh of the stomach. He prescribed for me and I had his prescription filled. I m. Misery, took nearly all of the medicine, but still the trouble became worse, and I fielt that my condition was hopeless. I tried several remedies recommended by my friends but without benefit. After I had been suffering several months, Thomas Campbell, also a resident of this city, urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.
"He finally persuaded me to buy a box and I began to feel relieved, and after taking a few more hoxes, I considered myself restored to health. The pills gave me new life, strength, ambition and happiness."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure dyspepsia by restoring to the blood the requisite constituents of life, by renewing the nerve force and enabling the etomach to promptly and properly assimilate the food. Thespils are a specific for all diseases having their origination in impoverished blood or disordered nerves. They contain every lement requisite to general nutrition, to restore strength to the weak, good health to the alling.
