CAVALRY DASHES INTO THE ENEMY

13 AMERICANS KILLED.

Superior Force of Spaniards Routed by Mounted Sol diers United States Troops Scorn Ambush Methods-On the Threshold of Eantiago.

Dismounted American cavalrymer forced their way over the rough mountain trail Friday morning, encountered the Spanish infantry in a dense thicket on a high plateau almost over-looking the city of Santiago, and rout-ed them after a sharp battle lasting one hour.

American cavalry is now reported as having moved into the lines of the enemy. They scorned the methods of the Spaniards who were hidden in ambush but rode openly to the attack, losing more than a dozen men in the resulting conflict. The American loss was 13 dead, at least 50 wounded, including six officers. Several wounded will die. Twelve Spaniards were found dead in the bush. The loss, doubtless, is greater. The Spaniards had every advantage in numbers and positions.

Four troops of the First Cavalry, four troops of the First Cavalry, four troops of the Tenth cavalry and eight troops of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, less than 1,000 men in all, dismounted and attacked 2,000 Spanish soldiers in the thickets within five miles of Santiago. The Americans beat the enemy back into the city, but they left the following dead upon the field:

General Young commanded the expedition and was with the regulars, while Colonel Wood directed the operations of the rough riders, several miles west. Both parties struck the Spaniards about the same time, and the fight lasted an hour.

The Spaniards opened fire from the thick brush, but the troops drove them back from the start, stormed the blockhouse around which they made the final stand, and sent them scattering over the mountains.

The cavalrymen were afterward reinforced by the Seventh, Twelfth and Seventeenth infantry, part of the Ninth Cavalry, the Second Massachusetts and the Seventy-first New York.

Practically two battles were fought at the same time, one by the rough riders, under the immediate command of Colonel Wood, on the top of the plateau, and the other on the hillsides several miles away, by the regulars, with whom was General Young.

The Americans now hold the position at the threshold of Santiago, with more troops going forward constantly, and they are preparing a final assault upon the city.

Edward Marshall, correspondent of the New York "Journal," was seriously wounded in the small of the back.

There must have been nearly 1,500 Spanlards in front and to the sides of us, said Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt Sunday when discussing the fight. They held the ridges with rifle pits and machine guns, and had a body of men in ambush in the thick jungle on the sides of the road over which we were advancing. Our advance guard struck the men in ambush and drove them out. But they lost Captain Capron, Lieutenant Thomas and about 15 men killed or wounded.

"They Spanish firing was accurate, so accurate, indeed, that it surprised me, and their firing was fearfully heavy.

"I want to say a word for our own men," continued Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt. "Every officer and man did his duty up to the handle. Not a man diinched."

Already 38 Spaniards have been found and buried and many others undoubtedly are lying in the thick underbrush and in the gulley where the main body of the enemy was located.

With the exception of Captain Capron all the rough riders killed were buried Saturday morning on the field of action. Their bodies were laid in one long trench, each wrapped in a blanket. Palm leaves lined the trench, and were heaped in profusion over the dead heroes. Chaplain Brown read the beautiful Episcopal burial service for the dead, and, as he knelt in prayer, every trooper, with bared head, knelt around the trench. When the Chaplain announced the hymn, "Nearer My God to thee," the deep bass voices of the men gave a most impressive rendering of the music.

Reason's for Not Releasing Hobson

Resro's for Not Reiessing Hobron.
The reasons why the Spanish government, after much discussion, has finally decided not to release Hobson and his colleagues of the Merrimac were that the result of their return to the United States would be a popular demonstration, resulting in strengthening the jingo party. Further, they had seen the fortifications of Santiago and it was therefore impossible to let them out.

The Suez Canal Convention of 1855, expressly lays down that principle.

Whether the battleship Indiana will lead this expedition, as it did the last, is not definitely settled. There will be several heavy warships, however, as well as lighter craft to give safe conduct to General Snyder's division.

Simultaneous with this, General Henry's division will be moving along the Atlantic coast and thence to Santiago. In all, the reinforcements from Tampa and Newsport News will be in the neighborhood of 12,000 or 14,000. Drafts on Chickamauga are likely to follow soon, as the hurry orders recently given have led to the full equipment of several commands.

The entire army was landed at 1 o'clock Thursday morning.

breaking out of the war, was received by Senor T. Estrada Palma. It was as follows:

"Playa del Este, June 22, 1898.

"On our part we had two killed and three wounded. We captured twenty-eight Mauser rifles and 3,000 cartridges. To-day the forces of Gen. Rabi and Brig. Castillo took Daiquiri with the aid of the American vessels. Spanards set fire to the town on retreating. Sixteen thousand American troops disembarked at Daiquiri. Gen. Garcia is on board the cruiser New York.

Gen. Shafter's troops just arrived at Santiago must—be—reinforced. The Spaniards at that place may at any time receive aid from other Spanish camps which would be too much of an overwhelming force for Shafter to contend with. To this end the first expedition left Newport News Thursday morning, carrying Brig. Gen. Duffield's separate brigade of the Second army corps, made up of the Ninth Massachusetts, the Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Michigan and the Third Virginia regiments, in all about 4,000 men. Expeditions will follow rapidly by way of Tampa.

The next forces to go will include those of Brig.-Gen. Garretson of the Second army corps, embracing the Sixth Illinois, the Sixth Massachusetts and Eighth and Ninth Ohlo regiments. This division, comprising 8,000 men, to be for the speedy reinforcment of Gen. Shafter, It will at once swell the American forces at Santiago de Cuba to about 24,000 men. But the expeditions will not stop at that number, as there is a determined purpose to send forward a sufficient force to crush any Spanish command which can be concentrated at that point.

The reports from Santiago that about 44,000 Spanish troops are in and about 44,000 Spanish troops are in and about 44,000 Spanish troops are in and about 44,000 Spanish troop Spanish command which can be concentrated at that point.

The reports from Santiago that about 41,000 Spanish troops are in and about the city do not agree with the reliable estimates in the possession of the war department. According to the latter figures there are not to exceed 14,000 Spanish troops at Santiago de Cuba, while 100 miles away to the northwest at Holguin, the Spanish corps commander, Gen. Pando, has 10,000 men. The war department is satisfied that the Cuban forces under Garcia can keep Pando from reinforcing Santiago. Should this not be accomplished, the Spanish forces at Santiago would be augmented to about 25,000 men. They are well armed, well disciplined, seasoned to the climate, know the fighting grounds of that locality, and are probably as good an all-around fighting force as the Spaniards can bring to bear. There is no purpose on the part of the authorities to leave Gen. Shafter with an inadequate force to meet these seasoned Spanish soldiers. It is for this reason in part that a division probably under Gen. Henry will reinforce Shafter, followed by such additional troops as the needs of the situation seem to demand.
