Ever Have a Dog Bother You

When riding a wheel, making you wonder for a few minutes whether or not you are to get a fall and a broken neck? Wouldn't you have given a small farm just then for some means of driving off the beast? A few drops of ammonia shot from a Liquid Pistol would do effectively and still not permanently injure the animal. Such pistols sent postpaid for fifty cents in stamps. ## Opening a Wife's Letters.

Jenks—Has a husband the right to open a wife's letter? Blinks (a lawyer)—Certainly, sir, certainly; open all you please. Jenks—Well, here is a letter my wife has written your wife and handed me to deliver. I feel pretty sure there's something unpleasant in it about me. I wish you'd open it, and if there is, just burn it up. Blinks—Humph! Does my wife know your wife is going to write to her? Jenks—Yes, Blinks—And if my wife doesn't get this letter she'll find it out, won't she? Jenks—Of course. Blinks—On second thoughts I believe there is a new law which makes it a criminal offense for a man to open his wife's letters. I couldn't take the risk, sir; indeed, I couldn't.

OPEN LETTERS FROM

Jennie E. Green and Mrs. Harry Hardy.

JENNIE E. GREEN, Denmark, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:
 "I had been sick at my monthly periods for seven years, and tried almost everything I ever heard of, but without any benefit. Was troubled with backache, headache, pains in the shoulders and dizziness. Through my mother I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has done me so much good. I am now sound and well."

Mrs. HARRY HARDY, Riverside, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham the story of her struggle with serious ovarian trouble, and the benefit she received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This is her letter:

"How thankful I am that I took your medicine. I was troubled for two years with inflammation of the womb and ovaries, womb was also very low. I was in constant misery. I had heart trouble, was short of breath and could not walk five blocks to save my life. Suffered very much with my back, had headache all the time, was nervous, menstruations were irregular and painful, had a bad discharge and was troubled with bloating. I was a perfect wreck. Had doctored and taken local treatments, but still was no better. I was advised by one of my neighbors to write to you. I have now finished the second bottle of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am better in every way. I am able to do all my own work and can walk nearly a mile without fatigue; something I had not been able to do for over two years. Your medicine has done me more good than all the doctors."

CHESTNUT GROWING.

Experiments With Japanese and European Trees That Promise Well.
 Systematic chestnut growing promises to be an important industry in this country. It is now about a century since the emigre ancestor of the powder-making Du Ponts imported from his native France some varieties of the European chestnut. He lived on the banks of the Brandywine, near Wilmington, Del., and thence distributed European chestnuts to his friends and to others interested in tree culture. To this day there are more European chestnuts in the region within 100 miles of Philadelphia than anywhere else in the country.

It was quite three-quarters of a century after Du Pont's importation of European chestnuts that Japanese chestnuts began to attract attention in this country, and again the region about Philadelphia became the centre of interest. Probably the largest grove of Japanese chestnuts in America is situated near Clemington, N. J., eighteen miles from Philadelphia. Here a tract of land 500 acres in area is given over to the culture of these trees. The tract was originally a forest of native American chestnut trees. They were all cut down, and after the young shoots from the roots of the felled trees had grown two years they were grafted with the Japanese chestnut. In from two to three years the grafted tree began to bear, and at the end of ten years they were yielding as much as ten bushels of chestnuts to a tree. The orchard, if such it may be called, is crudely cultivated with a rough barrow, and the fallen leaves are permitted to rot and enrich the ground.

The European and the Japanese chestnuts are vastly larger than the native American chestnuts, but by no means so sweet in the raw state. When cooked, however, they are very palatable. They are used not only for the enjoyment of Halloween parties, but also for the Thanksgiving turkey, and boiled as an ordinary vegetable. The Italians in this country convert them into meal, from which they make a rich and nourishing cake. The Japanese chestnuts ripen about the middle of September; the European chestnut two or three weeks later. When the former first come into the market they fetch from $10 to $14 a bushel. When the European chestnuts come into market the price falls to $6 or $8 a bushel, and at the height of the season the native American chestnuts fetch only $3 or $4 a bushel, in spite of their excellent flavor. The higher price of the foreign varieties seems to be due solely to their great size.

The Spanish Character.

Emile Ollivier, formerly prime minister of France, contributes to the Century an article on "America, Spain, and France." M. Ollivier says:

The Spanish nation has brilliant qualities. It is chivalrous, intrepid, and never wanting in patience and courage. It is never astonished at its misfortunes, and never doubts its ability to triumph over them. To blustering indolence it joins immeasurable pride and pitiless hardness of heart. Nothing that has existed is comparable to it, and it considers itself superior to everything. Whoever disputes its supremacy is held to merit suppression, and its whole history is but an incessant extermination. It blotted out the Moors and the Indians, and at home, in order to go on exterminating, it became the people of the Inquisition, of the auto-da-fé; it exterminated the heretic as in no other Christian land. In this passion for destroying, striking, ravaging, even the capital of its faith was not respected; so that when the hordes of Charles V fell upon Rome, they committed more spoils and sacrileges, caused more ruin, than did even the barbarians of the North. Rome still bears the marks of this abominable devastation; for it has not been possible wholly to obliterate the marks of the nails driven in the frescoes of Raphael at the Vatican, on which halberds were hung. Now, proud exterminators cannot be civilizers. They do not assimilate peoples. They only make them suffer, and exploit them till they exasperate them and force them to revolt.

Exercising on a Man-o-War.

Walter Russell, an artist with the fleet, contributes to the Century an illustrated article entitled "Incidents of the Cuban Blockade." Mr. Russell says: During quarters the various exercises and emergency drills are gone through with, including sword practice, bayonet drill, physical exercises for straightening the figure and expanding the chest, boarding drill, fire drill, collision drill and many others. A huge mat, weighing perhaps 500 pounds, is brought up on deck, heaved over the side and held there within 60 seconds after the order is given. Should a Spanish ship ram one of ours, this mat would be thrown over the aperture made in the side and held there by the pressure of the water. Again, lines of hose are run out and connected, a wheel is turned and a strong stream of water floods the deck immediately. In a very few seconds 20 streams of water can be directed upon any part of the ship.

Suddenly the band plays a lively march, and the order for the run around is given. Jackie likes this. It is his exercise. It is to him what wheeling is to a landsman. It is his opportunity of moving a little faster than usual. In double quick time each section runs in an ellipse for five minutes, the line of sailors being usually barefooted at this time of the day. They dodge in out of the sunlight and shadow, laughing and showing their gaily feeling.

TRADE REVIEW.

England Manuevers to Have Other Nations Pay the Enormous Demand of America for Gold.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade reports as follows for last week: With growing foreign demand for American products, exchange is influenced mainly by political uncertainties abroad. While Europe waits for the outcome between England and France over the Upper Nile, the financiers of all European countries are trying to force upon each other the burden of providing cash for the enormous demands of the United States. England has so managed as to make France and Germany generous contributors of gold, and the resulting wave of exchanges between foreign nations checks for the moment the movement of gold this way. Yet these and all other causes do not so far outweigh business as to prevent an excess over the most prosperous of previous years. The exchanges through all clearing houses for the past week have been 6 per cent. larger than in 1892, and 17 per cent. larger than in 1892, but outside New York for the week transactions were smaller than in 1892.

The outgo of wheat staggers all prophets of dooms, but while the West has advanced 2 cents at the West, the rise would have been much greater but for the feeling that the enormous foreign demand may not last. Exports, flour included, have not for the past week exceeded 3,369,236 bushels at Atlantic ports, against 3,575,607 bushels last year, and 923,278 bushels from Pacific ports, against 1,295,914 bushels last year, making for the three weeks 11,954,538 bushels against 14,227,390 bushels last year.

While cotton spinners are said to have agreed upon a selling agency and a curtailment of production, there is a better demand for staple goods in the prospect of a better demand in future. In woolen goods also there has been a marked improvement during the past week, and better sales, with extensive inquiry. This is reflected in the larger transactions in the woolen market, sales having amounted for the past week to 4,656,400 pounds, of which 2,714,400 pounds were domestic, making for the past three weeks 13,380,000 pounds, against 31,162,790 pounds for the same week last year, 20,765,500 pounds for the same week in 1896, and 19,481,550 pounds for the same week in 1892. Sales in Boston have been the largest for nearly two months, but at some concessions in price, which are not reported in published quotations. With few orders as yet for the next season the manufacturers are altogether encouraged by the increase, and have reason to believe that the expected demand has set in. But there is yet the fact that the current demand is largely for low-priced goods.

There is much hesitation in the iron and steel trade, partly because the outcome of various combinations in Bessemer pig, steel rails, bars, wire mills and the like cannot yet be definitely anticipated. If general buying was expected to result from these movements, it has not appeared thus far. Yet prices of domestic products have not declined, and although the price of iron ore has advanced, and plates, quotations are in part sustained by considerable orders for export. The plate mills have received orders for 25,000 tons from the government for ship purposes, and the bar and sheet mills have a very encouraging demand.

Failures for the week have been 221 in the United States, against 224 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 36 last year.

Hope Adams, colored, candidate for sheriff at Fort Worth, Tex., was killed a few days ago by white opponents.

Picture of George Elliot.

George Elliot was at this time about fifty, but looked years older. She wore, as she always did, a plain silk dress, tonight having a white shawl about her shoulders and light gloves in her hand, being indeed dressed for the opera. Some people have talked and written of the ugliness of this great woman; in this sort of criticism recall a famous scene in "Middlemarch." "Mr. Casaubon has a wart on his nose," said pert little Celia to her sister. "I dare say he has," was Dorothea's dignified rebuke, "when certain people look at him." And thus George Elliot in some eyes was ugly because, forsooth, she lacked dimpled cheeks, round eyes, and pretty mouth! If hers was ugliness, would we had more of it in the world! When in speaking her large, usually solemn features lighted up, a positive light would flash from them, a luminous irradiation, not her own person only, but her surroundings. A sovereign nature, an august intellect, had transported us into its own atmosphere. —Miss Betham Edwards' Reminiscences.

The Companion for the Rest of 1893. The following is a list of the remaining weeks of 1893 provided a complete set of the good things to follow in the new volume for 1894. The issues in November, December, and January will contain a number of special articles, entitled "Some of My Days," and in the issue for the week of November 27th will appear a beautiful and thrilling story of the heroism of soldiers in the ranks, "The Burning of the Sarsaparilla." In the several issues to follow there will be contributions by Lord Dufferin, William D. Howells, J. E. Campbell, the American war correspondent, Mary E. Wilkins, Hon. Thomas B. Reed, the Marquis of Lorne, Mme. Lillian Nordica and L. Zanwill. Those who subscribe now for the 1894 volume will receive every November and December issue of THE COMPANION from the time of its publication to the end of the year. ## OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Probably owing to the fact that the duchess of York's wedding jewels were largely composed of turquoises—her favorite stone—the turquoise has been coming more and more into fashion. One of the latest developments is to carve heads and initials on them.

It has become quite the fashion now for bridesmaids to carry baskets of flowers instead of bouquets. Special baskets are made, generally of white chip, with tall, slight handles. A bow of ribbon can be added at the top and the flowers are securely fastened in position by means of needle and thread.

American ladies, says an English writer, have a new fad. They carry about with them a living "mascot," or charm, in the shape of a black kitten, the idea being that it will avert catastrophe to friends or relatives taking part in the war. The kitten is sometimes carried in a bag. It is absolutely necessary that the animal should be black. How the idea originated we are not at present informed.

The duchess of Portland is very keenly interested in temperance and has done some good work to the cause, though, no doubt, her natural reserve would make her shrink from the publicity it involves. In spite of being the wife of one of the richest men in England and mistress of one of its finest mansions, Lady Portland does little entertaining. She is, however, well calculated to shine as a society hostess, for she has a great charm of manner and a stately sort of beauty. She is tall and graceful, with dark hair and a lily and rose complexion. Her maiden name was Miss Dallas York, and she is the daughter of a Yorkshire squire. It is said that the duke of Portland first saw her at a railway station and was then and there captivated with her dignified beauty and her charming manner. Afterward, meeting her by chance in a London drawing-room, he began that acquaintance with her which led to marriage.

COMFORTING WORDS TO WOMEN.

The Surgical Chair and its Tortures May be Avoided by Women Who Heed Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

Woman's modesty is natural; it is charming. To many women a full statement of their troubles to a male physician is almost impossible. The whole truth may be told to Mrs. Pinkham because she is a woman, and her advice is freely offered to all women sufferers.

Mrs. O. E. LADD, of 19th and N Sts., Galveston, Texas, whose letter is printed below, was completely discouraged when she first wrote to Mrs. Pinkham. Here is what she says: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I wrote to you some time ago, telling you of my ills, but now I write to thank you for the good your remedies have done me. I have used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three packages of Sanative Wash, and one box of Liver Pills, and to-day I call myself a well woman. I suffered with backache, constant headache, whites, sick stomach, no appetite, could not sleep, and was very nervous. At time of menstruation was in terrible pain. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I never can say enough in praise of it. I have recommended it to many friends. If only all suffering women would try it, there would be more happy homes and healthy women. I thank you for the change your medicine has made in me.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice, have saved thousands of women from hospital operations.

The lives of women are hard; whether at home with a ceaseless round of domestic duties or working at some regular employment, their daily tasks make constant war on health. If all women understood themselves fully and knew how exactly and soothingly Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts on the female organs, there would be less suffering.
