White Shonen Seed Oats for Sale.
Entire new oats in this country. So full of vigor and productiveness that no farmer should neglect to plant. Seed sold in 12 bushels, last season, with 20 bushels of these oats sent to me from Farmington, Minn. The result was 94 1/2 lbs. to the pound sowed, or 73 1/2 bushels to the acre, which was a very small yield for White Shonen Oats, being an enormous stover. Prof. W. A. Henry, of the Wisconsin Experiment Station, says of these oats in Bulletin 16.

"For productiveness, stiffness of straw and thinness of husk, White Shonen stands at the head of them all."
Price per bushel, 80 cents. In lots of 10 bushels or more, 75 cents per bushel. Anyone desiring can see samples of these oats at S. A. Liehler's store. I also have two A's. 2-22

HORSES FOR SALE.
About 6 years old. A Sorrel that weighs 1200, a good single-line horse, and a Red, both of the best quality. These horses will be sold on a guarantee if desired. N. B. KEM, Elk Lick, Pa.

A Standard Among Newspapers.
Reflecting in its widening circulation and increased advertising patronage the prosperity that marks the opening of the new year, the Times more than ever impresses upon its readers the excellence of its high standard and the success of its efforts to make a model paper for the individual and for the family. The Times is a newspaper, sparkling with news, and its expense to cover the world thoroughly every day, that its current page of history may be compared with no longer range overlooking nothing that occurs at home. It is clean, dignified and reliable, certain that no lack of these features can be made up in offensive sensationalism. It can be taken into the family circle with confidence, and its columns are filled with wholesome instruction and entertainment. Wherever known the Times is recognized as the best type of a concise, crisp and complete newspaper, and among newspaper men it is the publication which compares of excellence are made. While the Times is Republican in politics it realizes that others have a right to be on the earth, and that politics are not everything. When one cent a day will buy a morning paper, it is foolish to be without one. The Times is Three Dollars a year or Six cents a week, and worth the money. 1-12

This Paper—Farm Journal, One Year, 5 Years.

PAY UP AND GET BOTH PAPERS AT PRICE OF ONE.
We want to get 500 new subscribers to our paper by New Years, and are going to do it if we can; we therefore continue our arrangement with the Farm Journal by which we can send them free and the Farm Journal 50 cents, both for $1.25. And we make the same offer to all old subscribers who will pay all arrears and one year in advance.

You know what our paper is, and the Farm Journal is a non-practical, progressive—a clean, honest, useful paper—full of gumption, full of sunshine, with an immense circulation among the best people everywhere. You ought to take it.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.
This is Birthington's wash day, and poor old Matt is still in the cold.

Stewart Smith, manager of Elben Brothers' store, went to Baltimore, on business, yesterday morning.

Read Hartley's new "ad" in this issue. It is set in small type, but it contains some wonderfully large bargains.

Messrs. A. J. Colborn and A. C. Holbert, of Somerset, have been drawn to serve as jurors in the U. S. Circuit Court at Scranton, next month.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled for piles, injuries and skin diseases. It is the original Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of all counterfeits. Sold by medicine dealers.

Preaching in the Evangelical church, next Sunday morning and evening, by Rev. S. M. Baumgardner.

Miss Alberta Baumgardner has the editor's thanks for a couple of desirable news items, this week. Such favors are always appreciated.

DeWitt's gum were not famous until they made themselves heard. A business man is not successful until it is heard from in the newspapers—Ex.

Jasper Augustine, formerly of Addison, but now of Uniontown, recently purchased 275 acres of Fayette county coal land, for which he paid $7000.

We notice in the Gazette, of Lanark, Ill., that J. M. Glatfley, who has several brothers residing in this county, is just recovering from a severe attack of fever.

W. S. Philpot, Albany, Ga., says, "DeWitt's Little Early Risers did me more good than any pills I ever took." The famous little pills for constipation, biliousness and liver and bowel trouble, sold by medicine dealers.

We are glad to note that Miss Kate Smith has recovered from a long and severe siege of typhoid fever. Her many friends are glad to see her out again.

Morris Wagner went to Akron, Ohio, a few days ago after a team of fine horses for Dr. A. M. Lichty. The purchase was made by Mr. J. M. Hay, we are informed.

Confidence is soon to have a National bank, according to rumor, and it is also reported that a newspaper to be conducted by O. S. Reed is soon to be established there. Confidence needs both.

Geo. Barbe, Mendota, Va., says, "Nothing did me so much good as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One dose relieved me, a few bottles cured me. It gets you what you eat and always cures dyspepsia." Sold by medicine dealers.

Brother Marshall of the Berlin Record, still publishes the Court Proceedings under the name of ex-Sheriff Hartzell. Editor Marshall evidently hasn't heard yet that "Slick Jim" is now Sheriff.

We insure 365 days in a year, for we do not know any particular day that the house may be destroyed by fire. We insure 365 days a year, for you do not know on what day you may supply one's wants—Ex.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martin of West Salisbury, gave a delightful evening of entertainment to a number of their young friends, Wednesday evening. Those who were present report a delightful time.

Mrs. J. K. Miller, Newton Hamilton, Pa., writes, "I think DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the greatest salve I know of. It cures piles and heals everything. All fraudulent imitations are worthless." Sold by medicine dealers.

Mr. Harvey Fogel has sold his business interests near Accident, Md., and will again become a citizen of this town. Harvey is a very fine young man, and his return to the old town will be welcomed by his many friends here.

Some one has suggested that the oyster and strawberry are the greatest of modern evangelists. They have built and furnished more churches, paid the salaries of more preachers and helped agencies in the world than any other agencies in the world.

Do you know why Sam Livengood and George Blake wear such pleasant smiles? We will tell you. Sam is the proud father of a new daughter, while George is rejoicing over the arrival of a new son. Oh, our population is increasing, and there are several streets to bear from yet.

"I had dyspepsia for years. No medicine was so effective as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It gave immediate relief. Two bottles produced marvelous results," writes L. H. Warren, Albany, Wis. It digests what you eat and cannot fail to cure. Sold by medicine dealers.

The Pittsburg Press of Feb. 17, contains a portrait of Hermann Baer, a Somerset young man, who, according to the Press, is engaged to be married to Miss Mabel McKinley, daughter of Abner and niece of President McKinley. The Press describes young Baer as being a man of both brains and muscle.

Our July friend, George Boucher, was married last Sunday to a Miss Greer, of Garrett county, Md. At any rate George told us that the event was to take place last Sunday, and we believe he meant it. Well, we extend our best wishes to the couple. George is a most excellent young man, and it goes without saying that he got a very good wife.

Mr. David Glatfley, whose death was recorded in our issue of last week, was born Feb. 22, 1814, on the Green Park farm, on which his father, Solomon Glatfley, located in 1778. He died Feb. 14th, 1900, aged 85 years, 11 months and 22 days. He was the father of nine children, viz: Tunison, Marion, Richard, Gurney, Samuel, George, Mrs. Ambrose Deal, Mrs. Nelson Garlitz and Mrs. Nevin Newman.

The Maist Lumber Company recently purchased a valuable tract of timber in the Emanuel Grange heirs. The tract comprises 155 acres along Shade run, in Garrett county, Md., and the price paid was $22 per acre. The same company recently sold a large tract of timber which they owned in this part of the county.

John Ditt, Potosyville, Ind., says, "I never used anything as good as One Minute Cough Cure. We are never without it." Coughs, colds, croup and colds. Cures all throat and lung troubles. It is used with prevention. Pleasant to take. Sold by medicine dealers.

If you want a good, clean, honest, straightforward paper that already is welcomed in thousands of rural homes throughout the country, then let us send you Farm Journal. Its editor knows what to print, but better yet, knows what to leave out. We will send the Farm Journal the remainder of 1900 and all of 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904 to everyone who will pay up promptly his subscription to The Star; both papers at the price of ours only.

Since our Town Council has voted in favor of granting a franchise to S. D. Livengood for an electric light plant, Mr. Livengood has asked for so many more concessions than he first wanted that the matter is again tied up. Well, there is just this about it: This town needs electric light, and it is going to have it sooner or later. The people of this town will patronize a light company very liberally, no matter who puts the school house, March 10th, 1900.

Following is the program for a teachers' institute to be held at the N. D. school house, March 10th, 1900:
Song—"Massa's in the cold, cold ground."
Opening address—N. D. Hay, Essay—Edith Liechler.

Reading—Katharine Thompson. Literature—W. H. Eggle. Current topics—Eli J. Egan. Solo—E. E. Barelay.

Discussion—"Should trusts be abolished?"—Charles Butler, D. J. Engle, Louis Peck.

Recitations—Nellie Dom, Aleda Alexander, Elizabeth Stein. Manual training—H. G. Lopley.

Debate—"Resolved that the United States should control the Nicaragua canal."—Affirmative, John P. Vogel, W. B. Stevanus. Negative, P. M. Speicher, D. H. Boudler.

Closing song—"God be with you till we meet again." COMMITTEE.

Sand Flat.
Feb. 20—This is surely a nice day for an election. To-day is the day again when all tax-paying men are, as it were, on a common level. The rich and the poor are both at the head, the learned and the illiterate, all can exercise that high privilege, namely, to declare their sentiments and wishes through the ballot-box, and one man's vote will count as much as any other.

Prof. P. M. Speicher spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Meyersdale. Dennis Stevanus is nursing a badly bruised finger.

Sherman Davis is attending school at Brentsville, Va. He is taking a course in Surveying, and informs us that he likes the school and the country, the climate being delightful at this time of the year.

Henry J. Livengood is working in Simon Miller's coal mine, W. J. Davis, having quit.

Our famous young trappers of "Mink Run" are doing a booming business this season. They are reported to have secured a fine lot of mink.

Let us hear from the Niverton scribe once in a while. TIM.

How Ho Got Cut the Paper.
"Talk about newspaper work. Why, you fellows who work on modern papers, it's a real exciting job. You get hundreds of thousands of dollars don't know anything about it," said a superannuated editor.

"Let me tell you something about early enterprise. It was during the latter part of the 19th century, I was running a weekly, and Grant kept everything out. There wasn't a sheet of paper in the town, and our Washington hand press had broken and the new casting necessary to make it work was not to be had. I had to get a new press between us. But I got there. A fellow smuggled a wagonload of four down in paper bags. The rest was easy. There was a stranded circus in town. It had been there a year, and I used the elephant for a press. I put the form on the ground and placed a four bag over it. The elephant's keeper then caused the brute to sit down on it, and we got 23 first-class impressions, two more than our circulation required."—Best (M.) Herald.

Skipped With His Trencher.
Samuel Tressler, a farmer near Ursina, spent several days last week in the vicinity of Dunbar, Fayette county, Pa., on a new plan of planting corn. He was in search of his young wife and child, who fled from her home with Ira Tressler, a son of the searcher.

The story told by Tressler is a romantic one. Several years ago Tressler, who is a typical Somerset Dutchman of about sixty years, sold his farm and moved into a Western state. Not liking his new home, he resolved to return to his native county. He purchased a farm near Ursina, where all went well. He fell in love with a comely girl who lived on an adjoining farm. Love conquered, and they were married, the bride being only seventeen years, while the groom was fifty-six.

All was well until Tressler's eldest son, Ira, who is just twenty-one, is said to have become enamored of his step-daughter, a young girl who had just been carried out successfully. After returning home from a hard day's toil one evening about three weeks ago, the Ursina farmer learned the young wife and child had mysteriously disappeared from that place. The eldest son was found missing, and was also the cash box, which contained over $500.

Tressler has made diligent search all over the county, but has been unable to locate them.

Time to Rise and Shine.
It is about time newspaper men exerted and lifted themselves, says Editor Murray, of the Woonsocket Call. The modern journalist has too long allowed himself to be kept in the background. This has been owing to pure selfishness, of course, but nevertheless his question is wisdom.

Congressmen have been elected, grocers created and lawyers lifted to the bench by newspapers everywhere. Yet in many cases the first to stir the press and to advance restrictive laws for the latter have been the very men who were lifted to the press arm.

Newspapers and newspaper men have been ultra loyal to others and not loyal enough to themselves.

Much of the silly talk about yellow journals emanates from people who have been reported to the press arm, when cornered, have got out of the dilemma by terming the lie only "news-paper talk."

An office holder will sometimes make a statement to a newspaper, which will accurately and faithfully reproduce the same—yet the next morning, it may be the office holder will get scared over the interview after his friends have tackled him and he will brazenly lie out of the whole business.

He will plead that he was misunderstood or was incorrectly reported, etc. Every journalist of experience will recognize that this picture is not at all accurate, and that it applies also to other people who are neither politicians or office holders.

It is time for newspaper men to get together, as in South Carolina, for mutual protection and advancement.

The New York World, Thrice-a-Week Edition.
ALMOST A DAILY—AT THE PRICE OF A WEEKLY.

The most widely circulated "weekly" newspaper in America is the Thrice-a-Week edition of the New York World, and with the Presidential campaign now at hand you cannot do without it. Here are some of the reasons why it is easily the leader in dollar a year journalism.

It is issued every other day, and is to all purposes a daily.

Every week each subscriber receives 15 pages, an often during the "busy" season 25 pages each week.

The price is only $1.00 per year. It is virtually a daily at the price of a weekly.

It is usually every known part of the world. No weekly newspaper could stand alone and furnish such service. The Thrice-a-Week World has at its disposal all the resources of the greatest newspaper in existence—the wonder of modern journalism—"Americanized" Journalism, as it has been justly termed—The New York World.

Political news is absolutely impartial. This fact will be of especial value in the Presidential campaign coming on. It is the only one of the reasons, there are others. Read it and see them all.

We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE SOMERSET COUNTY STAR together, one year for $1.50.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

Sizing up the Country Editor.
Ralph in Somerset Standard.

There have been a great many men who after having made different kinds of business and failed have come to the conclusion that they had been practically called to publish a paper.

After a short experience in the editorial chair they have concluded that some other line had been called upon by the angels. A man may plead or preach the gospel successfully with less brains than it takes to conduct a paper. The man who expects to edit a paper with a pair of shears and a bottle of mangle will make an ignominious failure.

The editor must be a living encyclopedia. He must know something about everything. He must be able to discuss the affairs of the government, religion, education, society, books, amusements, men, institutions, everything, and Underwear. 200 Handkerchiefs.

He must have strong ideas of his own and be able to discuss them forcibly and fearlessly. He must be able to meet and withstand criticism and ridicule. He must succeed in this country without being well cursed. In addition to this the editor must be a good business manager and financier. We know of no way in which a fortune can be made to disappear more quickly and leave less trace of its former existence than to crush it under the cylinder of a mismanaging printing press.

The successful editor must stand out on every page of his paper. He must strike fearlessly and law for himself a path through the forest of journalism. If he attempts to follow beaten paths and retail second-hand ideas, the most interesting part of his paper will be the advertisements for patent medicines and hair dye. During his life the personality of Horace Greely was photographed on every page of the New York Tribune. "Nicholas Nickleby" would be flat without the editor's personality. To become popular and successful a paper must have a policy and fearlessly adhere to it. The neutral paper usually dies of cholera infantum.

The editor is the hardest worked man in the community. He is constantly at it. While the best is leaning back in his easy chair, leisurely regaling himself with the good things provided in his last issue, the editor is pounding away hammer and tongs and cudgeling his brain to prepare the next feast.

But with all the hard work and poor pay connected with it we do not wonder that men have an ambition which aims at the editorial chair. All other means employed for the dissemination of knowledge are weak compared with that of the newspaper press. It is the mightiest lever that moves the world. The battering ram that breaks down the walls of ignorance and sin, letting the light of intelligence, civilization and Christianity.

And what does the editor get in return for all this expenditure of brain and energy and perseverance? The things that he does not get are so numerous that we have not room to specify them here.

A Cat and Its Peack.
You have noticed, little friends, that cats don't wash their faces. They rub their eyes, and clean their ears, but they don't wash their faces. Well, years ago, a famous cat, the paragon of feline grace, was taken to a certain fine young mouse, who said as he ceased squealing:

"All gentle folks their faces wash before they think of eating." And, wishing to be thought well bred, Pass behind his ear, and clean his face. But when he raised his paws to wash, Chance for escape affording, Me, the young mouse, saw his gooby, Without resort to washing.

A feline comit met that day, And passed in solemn meeting, A law forbidding any cat To wash till after eating.
