Mr. S. C. Hartley recently had a new front put in his clothing room, which improves it greatly in appearance. It is rumored around the street that the miners will go to work again in a few days at fifty cents per ton.

Now is the time for the candidate to get in his work, and they are beginning to hustle.

The Kind of Trash You Find in Every Town.

Every town has its workers and its drones. Go where you will, into any town you please, and you will find several classes of people. You will always find some people trying to improve the community in which they live. They speak well of their town to strangers, and they patronize their local paper and the other legitimate business institutions of the community. Such people are the bone, sinew and life's blood of the communities in which they live, and but for them their respective communities ould be fit only for the beasts of the field and the birds of the air.

But there is also another class to be found in nearly all communities, and the extent to which this class some times handicaps and retards the progress of a town is equaled only by the tontempt the better class of people have for such trash.

For instance, there are the croakers that are always cursing the trusts, but have for such trash.

For instance, there are the croakers that are always cursing the trusts, but who nevertheless encourage the trusts all they can by buying their goods from the city catalogue houses. They do not patronize home merchants, because they are afraid the home merchants might squander their money paying local taxes, supporting the churches, maintaining public improvements, etc. And whenever strangers are around they delight to tell what a poor town they live in, and how much

Speer's New Jersey Vineyards are situated in the Passaic valley below the mountain range and the grapes are carted to the winery in the town of Passaic where they are mashed between rollers made of rubber, which do not break the seeds, and made into wine.

These grand wines of Speer's that have mellowed in flavor in the course of years of ripening, are the choicest wines in this country and can only be obtained by paying a price that is higher than new wines from western vineyards. Mr. Speer deems it necessary for a healthy wine that it be allowed years to mature in wood to get rid of its coarse parts; with this object he keeps his wines several years in fumigated cellars and frequently racks before bottling or offering for sale. The reputation of Speer's wines as a valuable medicinal and family wine extends around the world.
