

WELL-ATTEMPT TO REGAIN PEKING

BOXERS MOBILIZED.

Force of Imperial Troops and Boxers Preparing to Attack the Allies—Capital Cleared of the Enemy.

Telegrams from Shanghai, dated Thursday, say the flags of the allies are now flying over the imperial palace. Street fighting, however, continues. The walls of the city were blown up with dynamite.

Considerable assistance in the capture of Peking was rendered by 4,000 armed native Christians. The legations were enabled to get out by purchasing ammunition from the Chinese. The foreign envoys are proceeding to Tientsin.

The dowager empress fled from Peking with treasure amounting to $50,000,000. She is believed to have fled to the interior. The Chinese government is said to be in a state of confusion. It is reported that the Chinese army is being reorganized into districts for police supervision. The Chinese army is being reorganized into districts for police supervision.

LATEST NEWS NOTES.

A Boer commando has blown up railroad tracks near Krugersdorp.

Boers led the English into another trap at a place called "The Boer Trap." Three Hungarians were crushed to death by a cave-in near Shoshone, Pa.

Pedro Calvo has been appointed Nicaraguan consul-general at Santiago de Cuba.

A dozen people were injured by the overturning of a trolley car on Chagrin Falls, N. Y.

The British government has bought 1,000 tons of American coal for the British navy.

At Muncie, Ind., window glass workers have received notice to go to work next Saturday.

Four weeks' drought was broken in Oklahoma by a soaking rain. Cotton will be benefited.

Eighty men are beginning to learn of general mismanagement of South African affairs by their officers.

The land grant of the Union Pacific railroad, amounting to $100,000,000, is being sold in lots of $100,000.

The battleship Oregon has come out of retirement at Puget Sound, and will be ready for sea in a week.

Western Union College, at Le Mars, Iowa, was burned Friday at a loss of $200,000.

A boulder falling upon a locomotive near Connelville, Pa., fatally crushed Engineer Swearer in his cab.

The United States has received a hostile letter from a committee of one army and two naval officers has been assigned to work of the preliminary stage.

A great hailstorm in Rock county, Wis., on Friday, has killed the tobacco crop, valued at $300,000.

Two Australian natives have killed the tobacco crop, valued at $300,000.

A block of business buildings were destroyed at Chicago, Pa., Thursday, causing a loss of $100,000.

Exports from this country in July, 1900, amounted in value to $100,447,470.

At Raleigh, N. C., a monument to the late United States Senator Z. B. Vance was unveiled Wednesday.

Steamer Mariposa, from Sydney, Australia, Friday arrived at San Francisco with over six million specie.

At Milwaukee, Wis., Friday, a fire destroyed a large building, causing damage to $100,000.

At Prairie du Chien, Wis., in a riot Thursday, a man was killed and several others injured.

The Russian army, 12,000 strong, is reported advancing on the last stronghold held by the Chinese rebels in Manchuria.

Lightning destroyed Bethel Baptist church at Fairview, Ky., built as a memorial to the site of Jefferson Davis' home.

An official dispatch from Korea says 1,000 rebels have attacked Song-Ching, the headquarters of the government buildings located there.

Two Bethlehem (Pa.) Steel Company workmen were fatally and several others seriously injured by an explosion of molten metal.

A farm hand near Canton, Pa., sustained a severe injury by a masked mob, but refused to confess.

A passenger on a railroad locomotive plunged down a bank near Greenville, Pa., killing an engineer and a fireman.

The United States transports Crook, McPherson, Rawlins and Sedgwick, having the 1,300 Cuban school teachers from Cuba, are en route to Havana.

The transport Strathely left San Francisco Wednesday for China. She is expected to arrive in Shanghai in a few days.

Russia has placed an order in Chicago for 600,000 pounds of beef on the hoof for the army and navy.

The French government has expressed its regret over the death of the late Gen. DeWet and other Boer generals who were killed in the Boer war.

Gen. DeWet and other Boer generals were killed in the Boer war.

The Mosquito coast delegates threaten to appeal to the United States if Great Britain does not protect their country.

A massive iron furnace is to be built at Rose Hill, Va., near Middleburg.

At Astoria, Ore., business men have secured 700 acres of land at Knappa, near Astoria. Experts have declared it a very valuable coal and petroleum field.

Judge White at Indiana, Pa., sentenced to death Martin Fleming, who was convicted of robbing a bank.

At San Francisco the Building Trades Council, representing 38 trade organizations, has ordered a general boycott of the city.

Sam Fields, a young negro, was shot to death by a mob of white men Thursday night near White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

The official census figures show that the population of Pittsburg, Pa., is 22,676, and that of Allegheny 129,894. This is a gain of 82,000 for Pittsburg and 246,000 for Allegheny.

Marjory has been ravaged by terrific electric wind and rain storms. Several lives have been lost, five or six persons injured and the estimated aggregate loss to property is about $75,000.

The Kentucky Oil and Pipe Line Company, with headquarters at Somerset, Ky., has been ordered to pay $75,000 to the National Trust Company of Oil City, Pa., for $75,000.

The American Window Glass Company has leased an immense amount of territory for a glass mill.

The Pittsburg corporation has been granted a franchise to lay a gas pipe in the city.

At Fort Worth, Tex., Gabe and Cicero Copeland were instantly killed by a falling log.

The English Statistician Mullhall makes an estimate of 70,000,000 of the population of the United States in 1900. The late Gen. Francis W. Walker estimated it at about 75,000,000 and the present successor, as president of the Institute of Technology, Prof. Pritchett, made an estimate in 1891 that the 1900 figures would be 77,472,000.

The total to reach 77,000,000.

Will take a Normal Trip.

Henry R. Clowes has started from Springfield, Pa., on a houseboat voyage down the Allegheny and Ohio rivers and thence along the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, from where he will return overland by wagon. The object of Mr. Clowes' trip is primarily one of pleasure and he expects to be gone two weeks.

TO BECOME A STRONG NAVAL BASE

OUR PACIFIC GIBRALTAR.

The United States Will Fortify the Island of Guam With All the Panoply of Modern War.

The Navy Department has taken the initial steps in the preparation of a complete and comprehensive system of fortifications and harbor improvements by which it is intended to make the island of Guam a thoroughly protected base for our naval vessels in the Western Pacific.

The United States has but two stations on the line of travel across the Pacific between San Francisco and Manila. One of these is Honolulu and the other is Guam, 3,500 miles westward. There is another stretch of over 1,000 miles west of Guam before Manila is reached.

Southward from Guam we are flanked for 2,500 miles by a chain of islands containing 131 islands, all of them potential bases of hostile powers. Some of them are equipped and fortified. These islands are included in the Marshall and Caroline groups, while the northern islands possess several of the modern warships of the United States.

It has been determined to make Guam a great naval base, thoroughly equipped with supplies for our squadrons, and as a hostile base against the other islands which are under our control. It is deemed that the Chinese government is not likely to be able to maintain its position in the Western Pacific.

The United States places itself in the position of being ready at the proper time to take up peace negotiations, but in the present unsettled condition of affairs in the Pacific it is deemed that the time has not arrived for pursuing the negotiations.

The government takes the position that negotiations are impossible with a government which cannot prevent hostilities against the forces of the powers which are under our control. It is deemed that the Chinese government is not likely to be able to maintain its position in the Western Pacific.

The United States places itself in the position of being ready at the proper time to take up peace negotiations, but in the present unsettled condition of affairs in the Pacific it is deemed that the time has not arrived for pursuing the negotiations.

AMERICA'S FIRM REPLY.

Peace Talk May Begin When China Exhibits Some Goodwill—No Authority Visible to Negotiate With.

After a long conference at the White House, the reply of the United States to the application of Li Hung Chang for the appointment of peace commissioners is complete and a copy of the reply was sent to the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu, to be forwarded to Earl Li.

The American reply is chiefly characterized by its firm tone and its brevity. It is a firm and friendly to the Americans, the Filipinos are very clear.

Li Hung Chang was killed at Dinajpur, and I do not think there was a man that had fewer bullets in his body than he had in his mind. He was also stabbed in the neck and breast with bayonets. Here is another example of their cruelty. Harry East, of Emporia, and MacDonald, of Iowa, two of my company, were killed by the Chinese. Harry East was shot in the back of the head. Only about 20 of our company were with them, and they were attacked by about 250 Filipinos.

The Americans fought them an hour and forty-five minutes. They had to leave the dead, and when they came back they had to pick up the bodies of their dead. They pulled up grass and sticks and built a fire on their backs. They were done to them. We got Easter and the other man away before they were burned.

CHAFFEE HAS ENOUGH TROOPS.

His 5,000 Deemed Sufficient for All Emergencies—Orders Issued to Manila.

The War Department has issued the following bulletin:

"The government has decided that unless required by future developments, no more troops are to be sent to China. The 5,000 troops now in China are sufficient for all emergencies. Orders are issued to Manila to this effect."

The report comes from the Consul General at San Francisco, and gives a detailed account of the situation in China. It states that the 5,000 troops now in China are sufficient for all emergencies. Orders are issued to Manila to this effect.

THE WORK OF A BARBAROUS ENEMY

SAVAGE FILIPINOS.

A Returned Soldier Tells of Atrocities Perpetrated Upon American Soldiers—They Mutilated the Dead Bodies.

Lieut. William Weaver, of the Thirty-second United States Volunteers, who resigned in the spring on account of illness, and has just returned to his home at Emporia, Kan., from the Philippines, tells of barbarities practiced by Filipinos upon American soldiers. He said that the Filipinos were very friendly to the Americans, the Filipinos are very clear.

Li Hung Chang was killed at Dinajpur, and I do not think there was a man that had fewer bullets in his body than he had in his mind. He was also stabbed in the neck and breast with bayonets. Here is another example of their cruelty. Harry East, of Emporia, and MacDonald, of Iowa, two of my company, were killed by the Chinese. Harry East was shot in the back of the head. Only about 20 of our company were with them, and they were attacked by about 250 Filipinos.

The Americans fought them an hour and forty-five minutes. They had to leave the dead, and when they came back they had to pick up the bodies of their dead. They pulled up grass and sticks and built a fire on their backs. They were done to them. We got Easter and the other man away before they were burned.

SIX ARE KILLED.

DR. TALMAGE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE.

Subject: Children of a King—The Royal House of Jesus, and the Sun, the Moon, the Stars, and All Nature Are Its Heritage—Cross Us Heraldic Sign.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage, who during his journey homeward has seen much of the royal and imperial splendor, passing through the capitals of Europe, shows that there is no child of God, but Jesus, who is the only one who resembles the children of a king.

Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a king." That description of people is not correct. There are still many who have this appearance. Indeed, the man and woman who were with Zelph and Zalmina had been off to look out for their father's estate. As they walked near the gate, they saw a man who was dressed in a royal apparel; "each one resembled the children of a