"Alice of Old Vincennes." Another enchanting interesting story is delighting readers of the Sunday North American. "Alice of Old Vincennes," by Maurice Thompson, is both thrilling and pathetic, a word picture of the life of the early settlers in Indiana, which portrays the lights and shadows of pioneer days with the skill of the expert. Love making in those days was apt to be interrupted by the sudden crack of the rifle and the ping of a bullet on the door post. They were exciting days of danger, stern hardship and frequent tragedies.

Through this border life, with its shooting affrays and fierce fights, Alice of Old Vincennes moves like a being from a world of her own. She is a fascinating character to those who compare her with the modern girl. And yet her prototype could be readily found in those strenuous pioneer days. Here is a synopsis of the opening chapters of the book:

Alice Rousillon is introduced to the reader. She is described as a tall, lithe girl at play beneath a cherry tree with her foster brother, Jean, the hunchback. They are interrupted by Pere Beret, the parish priest.

Gaspard Rousillon, the adopted father of the children, a stalwart French immigrant, had taken the two girls and had given them a home. The wife was of Protestant parentage, but her guardian, a devout Catholic, had refused to interfere with her religion, much to regret of the good priest.

After chiding the children for their rough play Pere Beret was told that a quantity of alcoholic liquor had just reached Vincennes. He made no sign of approval or disapproval, but as he sat on the doorkill of his home thinking of it, a letter was handed him.

The continuation of the story will be found in the Sunday North American.

Unscrewing His Head. Mr. Romily, the British Commissioner for the Western Pacific, tells this story of the early days of the Fiji settlements:

"A white man, wandering over one of the islands, was taken prisoner by the natives. He had a cork leg. He didn't like the looks of his captors, and liked them still less when he noticed that they were fixing up a neighboring oven. Trying hard not to show his agitation, he called for something to eat. Food was set before him, and he used his large jack-knife to cut it.

"With every mouthful or two he stuck his jack-knife into his cork leg with such force that it stood erect. The natives looked on with great astonishment and evident alarm. After the meal was over he began to unscrew his leg. That was too much for the savages, who did not seem to have any curiosity to see what he would do next, but opened a passage and let him walk away.

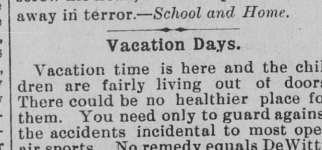

"When he reached his horse, some little distance away, the natives began to gather around, but after mounting, the man made a motion as if to unscrew his head, and the spectators ran away in terror.—School and Home.

Vacation Days. Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most open air sports. No remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds "I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sores cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. E. H. Miller.

Of Course It's True, This Fish Story. Uncle Dan'l Conaway caught three hundred mountain trout on a recent fishing trip to the headwaters of Blue Devil creek. Quite a number of them were over a foot long. Another member of the party caught a Missouri River pickerel about four feet long. It lapped three times around the fish basket and its tail sticking in the bait can. It flopped out of the basket and fastening its teeth in the man's hunting shirt, jerked him backward over Black Water Falls and got away in the Whirlpool Rapids. The man swam out and still lives to tell the story, says a Garrett county exchange. We are now ready to hear from John Hawn.

The Speer Wine Company, Passaic N. J., have their vineyards stocked of the same grape, the only vineyard of the kind in this country, the vines were imported and planted here over forty years ago. The Speer Port wine and Burgundy are now regarded the finest in the world, their rich full body and high character is unexcelled. The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

The Only Genuine Bears This "SWALLOW."

Polk, Pa., June 20th, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros., New York. Gentlemen:—Your medicine has helped me very much, it has cured me of the Asthma. I am very thankful that I saw your advertisement. I tried every kind of Asthma medicine I could think of and could get no relief until I tried Dr. Taft's Asthmalene and it helped me directly.

Yours truly, Mrs. Mary Adams. Uniontown, Pa., January 17th, 1902.

Dr. Taft Bros., New York. Gentlemen:—It gives me great pleasure to let you know that I received your trial bottle of Dr. Taft's ASTHMALENE and received more relief from it than from any other medicine I have tried. Enclosed find money for a large bottle of Asthmalene. Please send immediately to, N. H. Barnes, No. 9 Church St.

Dr. Taft Bros., New York. Gentlemen:—I received your Asthmalene in good shape and in due time. I must say that it is an elegant medicine and has done all you claim for it. I was not able to walk up hill on account of my breath. After taking your medicine one day I went to chopping timber and have been working right along every day that is fit to work; this is a very bad climate and this has been the worst kind of a spring, hardly two days alike. I am sending an order enclosed in this to be sent at once.

Yours gratefully, William A. Bradley. Lilly, Pa., April 7th, 1902.

The wholesale drug houses in the United State and Canada unhesitatingly say, "ASTHMALENE is and has been our standard remedy for the cure of Asthma for more than thirty years; we can offer nothing just as good."
