BUILT A TOWN

And Can Now Sell Liquor to His Heart's Content.

C. D. Gillespie, of Hendricks, Tucker county, W. Va., has come out a victor, after vainly trying for six years to get a liquor license. The corporation authorities of Hendricks invariably turned down his application. He offered them $1,000 a year and was still refused. Thereupon he bought five acres of land across Cheat river, directly opposite Hendricks, and built twelve large houses and moved in families enough to represent 103 souls. All this has transpired since January 9th. In the June term of court at Parsons, the county seat of Tucker county, he had his town incorporated under the new name of Brooklyn Heights. On June 12, at the instance of Mr. Gillespie, a mayor and council were elected, and right after he applied to the county court for a license to sell liquors in the corporation of Brooklyn Heights, which was granted. He immediately started to erect a saloon building and in forty-eight hours he was distributing the beverage gratis. He has now contracted for a cable foot-bridge across Cheat river at an expense of between $450 and $500, and has also built a village lock-up. He is now selling liquor in his own town and under his own mayor and council.—Ex.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by E. H. Miller.

Opening Up New Coal Tract.

Work has been begun on a heading into the coal property recently acquired in this county by Johnstown capitalists, consisting of Dr. G. E. Conrad, Horace R. Rose, Esq., H. M. Lowman and others. The entrance will be six feet square and in the nature of a drift. The tract is located between Garret and Pine Grove and contains 3,000 acres.

Fortune Favors a Texan.

"Having distressing pains in head, back and stomach, and being without appetite, I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes W. P. Whitehead, of Kennedale, Tex., "and soon felt like a new man." Infallible in stomach and liver troubles. Only 25c. at Miller's drug store.

THE PROHIBITION TRICK.

A Scheme to Deceive Voters Being Worked by Somerset County "Prohibs."

The pledge scheme being worked by Somerset county Prohibitionists is a delusion and a snare. Even the old "Bolters' Bazaar," the Somerset Herald, denounces it. Editor "Timmie" Scull recently delivered himself of the following sensible size-up of the pledge scheme, through the Herald, and for once we can agree with "Timmie":

"The Prohibition County Committee has introduced a novelty in local politics in the shape of a pledge, voters of all parties are asked to sign, promising to vote the Prohibition county ticket so long as it shall stand committed to the total prohibition of the liquor traffic, the promise to be binding as soon as bona fide notification is given that 2,000 signatures have been obtained.

With 2,000 votes at their disposal the Prohibition leaders hope to land some of their nominees in fat county offices.

Following is a copy of the pledge:

Somerset County 2,000 Voters' Pledge.

Believing that political corruption, largely made possible by the influence of the liquor traffic in politics, is the most dangerous element in our political life today, I, the undersigned, a citizen of Somerset county, do hereby pledge myself to vote the Prohibition Party Ticket, in county affairs, so long as it shall stand committed to the total prohibition of the liquor traffic. This pledge to be binding as soon as bona fide notification is received that two thousand genuine signatures to this pledge have been obtained. This pledge to be null and void unless 2,000 signatures as above outlined are secured.

Many persons who have received copies of the pledge are already inquiring what reform can be expected in the management of county offices by the elevation of Prohibitionists. Aside from the court, which is charged with granting liquor licenses to such persons as in its discretion are entitled to engage in the occupation of selling liquor by retail or wholesale, it does not appear that any other county officers are concerned with the liquor business, and the voters might keep on electing members of the Prohibition party to county offices until the end of time without furthering the suppression of the liquor traffic.

It is true that licensed houses have multiplied in the county, but if every officer in the county, save the members of the bench, were Prohibitionists, the case would not and could not be altered.

The pledge trick is an alluring one from a strictly political standpoint, but it is not likely to catch many voters, at least none who are able to see through the scheme of those who are engaged in circulating the pledges.

The Prohibitionists it seems are more interested in securing control of county offices than they are in the suppression of the liquor traffic. Prohibition can only be affected through the legislative and judicial branches of the State government."

Doctors Could Not Help Her.

"I had kidney trouble for years," writes Mrs. Raymond Conner, of Shilton, Wash., and the doctors could not help me. I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and the very first dose gave me relief and I am now cured. I cannot say too much for Foley's Kidney Cure. E. H. Miller.

WON HER SUIT.

Miss Cora Keim Soaks Prof. Harvey Brumbaugh for $9,250.

The suit brought against Prof. I. Harvey Brumbaugh, acting president of Juniata College, at Huntingdon, Pa., for breach of promise, was tried this week in the Huntingdon county court and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff, Miss Cora Keim, the jury awarding her the amount named above. A number of Salisbury people, the editor included, were present at the suit as witnesses, and all regard the verdict a most righteous one.

The case lasted nearly all week, and the editor could not reach home until Friday afternoon, that accounts for the lateness of our issue this week.

Brumbaugh, it is said, will apply for a new trial, but we think if he gets it he will be sorry that he spoke.

Next week we will try to give you a more detailed account of the trial and our impressions of the same.

Feet Swollen to Immense Size.

"I had kidney trouble so bad that I could not work," says J. J. Cox, of Valley View, Ky., "my feet were swollen to immense size and I was confined to my bed and physicians were unable to give me any relief. My doctor finally prescribed Foley's Kidney Cure which made a well man of me." E. H. Miller.

MILLER NOMINATED FOR STATE SENATE.

Congressional Conference Fails to Nominate.

THE STATE COMMITTEE MUST NOW TAKE A HAND.

Additional Conferee will be Appointed from Each County.

Doctor William C. Miller, of Hyndman, was nominated for State Senator, for the Thirty-sixth district, composed of Somerset, Bedford and Fulton counties, at the senatorial conference at Hyndman on Tuesday afternoon. It required twenty-one ballots before an agreement was reached, when Dr. Miller's nomination was made possible by the votes of the conferees of Somerset county.

Mr. J. W. Endsley, of Somerfield, Somerset county's choice for State Senator, made every honest effort possible to land the nomination, but when he realized that that could not be done he released his conferees to act on their own judgment. The Fulton county candidate acted arbitrarily in the matter. He was there for nomination, and unless the conferees would give it to him he was content to let the State Committee decide it.

If the selection of a Senator had been left to the State Committee, the chances favored Dr. Miller, who has served two years in the Legislature.

Mr. Miller was born January 3, 1868, at Neosho, Mo., and when but two years old he moved with his parents to Arizona, where his father was killed by the Indians. Later his mother removed to her former home in Missouri, where he was educated in the common schools. He attended Lafayette college two years, studied medicine at the University of Virginia and the University Medical college of New York City, from which latter institution he graduated. He took up the practice of his profession at Hyndman, where he has been very successful. Mr. Miller was elected to the House of Representatives in 1898 and re-elected in 1900.

NO CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATION.

The conferees of the Twenty-third Congressional district—Somerset, Fayette and Greene counties—adjourned yesterday without making a nomination. Several fruitless efforts were made at meetings held at the Monongahela House, Pittsburg, since Monday evening, at which thirty or more ballots were taken, each of the three candidates receiving the votes of his own conferees.

A rule of the State Republican organization provides that where the conferees are unable to reach an agreement 55 days before the election, the State Committee shall first appoint an additional conferee for each county, and then, in the event of a failure to agree upon a candidate, the State Committee shall appoint an umpire, whose vote shall decide the contest. Under the rule Tuesday was the last day for making a nomination, but after remaining in session until midnight the three candidates agreed to waive the rule and make a final effort Wednesday to reach an agreement. A telegram last evening stated that no nomination had been made, that the conference was adjourned, and that the conferees were on their way home.

If the Republican State leaders are awake to the situation, and we believe they are, the nomination will be given to J. A. Berkey. Greene county is hopelessly Democratic and Fayette at best is uncertain. Somerset must be relied upon to furnish the majority. Last year she ranked fourth in the state in the size of Republican majorities, and if fair treatment is meted out the majority this year will be large for the entire ticket.

Fayette county, it is understood, is to have an office under the next Republican administration, and will probably get the State Senator from that district. What more can she expect? The senatorial conferees from this county nominated a Bedford man and under all the circumstances the congressional nomination should come to Somerset.—Somerset Standard.

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more rapidly than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it is seldom needed. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures quickly and permanently. Unequaled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with bleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says J. C. Phillips, Paris, Ill. "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me in a short time." Soothes and heals. E. H. Miller.

Some Things a Western Editor Knocks At.

Will A. Campbell, editor of The Knocker, a small magazine published at Blair, Neb., mentions a few things in a recent issue of his journal that he knocks at, as follows:

I knock on the social rule that permits a woman to cover indiscretions of other days with a sealskin cloak. A woman has a right to "live it down," but a rich woman should have no shorter probation than a poor one.

I knock on the man who tells children there is no Santa Claus. The tragedy of life begins when faith departs, and the man who will hasten the departure is related to the devil.

I knock on the knocker who knocks on his wife. A man who respects not the mother of his own children respects not himself. His plait that she has not kept up with him fools nobody. He has his eye on another woman. In Greek, "for better or for worse" means "take your medicine."

I knock hard on the bum—the legitimate offspring of hoodlumism, the curse of modern civilization. He never pays taxes, but makes a monthly tour in search of a soft snap, where wages are higher. He knows the road to every joint and his example artistically escorts the youth to damnation. He defiles good citizenship and ruins the community. The man who will not work heads the excursion to hell. May the Lord have mercy on his soul.

I knock on the man who knocks on this magazine. He is an intellectual dwarf, a parody on manhood, and is in for a roast in the next issue.

I knock on public osculation. A man should have more sympathy for bystanders—even if he does not know they are by. Such offenses are against the noble in man and the modest in woman. These osculatory demonstrations of esteem should be reserved for the holy of holies and not be permitted in well regulated parlors. We know a young man whom we would like to take out behind the smokehouse and cause him to pass to the untimely borne where all faces stand ajar in everlasting singing.

I knock on the modern song writer. He balls up the English language and his verses are without rhythm or sense.

I knock on trying to reform fallen women by turning them over to the police a la Parkhurst. Better put some lucre into the work instead of supporting missionaries to peddle saving grace in pagan lands, who incidentally extend the market for tobacco, snide jewelry and forty-rod bug juice.

I knock on the "philanthropist" who tosses a million or so to some conspicuous charity and the next day corners a human necessity. He don't fool God.

I knock on the subjects of puppet kings and dukes who come to this country and breed discontent and anarchy by kicking on the Government. To live in America is to be a king.

I knock on the woman who nags her husband. More men have gone to hell by this route and picked up correspondents along the way than by any other.

I knock on the American girl. The girl who has been raised in a cultured home; who possesses both talent and accomplishment; who has grown into a womanly woman and is too worthy for any young man, but who casts her life by her own choice with a smooth guy, whose brains are worth two cents a pound for soap grease—a descendant of a long line of half-wits; a dizzy young dude too lazy to work and too cowardly to steal, too everlastingly "ornery" to raise a respectable crop of wild oats; a young lolipop ribbon clerk on $2 per day and a monopoly on the gall of the globe—that is the kind of Apollon American girls admire, and it would give a buzzard a bilious attack.

I knock on the mother-in-law who goes loaded with advice. She is not so many as some make out, but, like the bad egg in the dozen, it is tough on the man who gets her.

His Life Saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"B. L. Byer, a well known cooper of this town, says he believes Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved his life last summer. He had been sick for months with what the doctors call bilious dysentery, and could get nothing to do him any good until he tried this remedy. It gave him immediate relief," says B. T. Little, merchant, Hancock, Md. For sale by E. H. Miller.

A Recall Notice.

I, the pastor of Grantsville Circuit, desire hereby to recall the announcement made for a camp-meeting at Mt. Zion, to be held Sept. 18-28. There will be no such meeting.
