PENNYPACKER'S SPEECH

What the Republican Leader in His Centre Hall Speech.

FEW HINTS TO EX-GOV. PATTISON

The Policies of the Republican Party in State and Nation Outlined—Some Facts For the "Man With the Hoe." Great Crowds Listen.

Following is the speech in full of Judge Pennypacker, delivered at Centre Hall, on the opening of the present campaign:

"Some time ago I was the president judge of one of the courts of common pleas in Philadelphia, but that situation has disappeared, and now I have no other vocation in life than that of a farmer.

"As the owner of a farm in Montgomery county and of another in Chester county, to that extent at least I may claim to have a community of interest with you and a place in this large assemblage.

"I also appear before you as the candidate of the Republican party for the office of governor of this grand and exceptionally great Commonwealth, and I know of no class in the community who are more vitally interested in the maintenance and furtherance of those principles and the support of that party which has brought about the present prosperous condition of affairs than the owner of and workers upon the farm.

"The only way to judge of parties and of men is by their fruits and not by their promises alone.

"For 60 years prior to 1861 the Democratic party had control of the affairs of this state and in the main those of the country. It was the same state, with the same glorious early memories, the same wealth which the Lord had given to it in its deposits of iron, coal and oil, the same beautiful streams and green meadows for the pasture of cattle which have made Lancaster county the richest agricultural county in America, and the same industrious and God-fearing people that we have now anxious and willing to turn the soil with labor that they might be gladdened with the returns or harvest.

DEMOCRATIC DEBT $40,000,000.

"From 1837 to 1842, under the operation of the anti-tariff legislation of 1833, a cow and a calf sold in the spring of the year for $8, and corn and potatoes only brought in the market 12½ cents a bushel. In 1857 a railway company in Philadelphia advertised for 250 men at 60 cents a day wages, and there were 5,000 applicants. When the Democratic party surrendered control of the state in 1861 there was a state debt of over $40,000,000.

"To meet the exigencies of that debt and the necessities of the state government taxes were imposed not only upon farm land and horses and cattle, but upon all trades and occupations. The only real disgrace which the history of Pennsylvania discloses was when, under Democratic management, in 1843, there was a temporary repudiation of the state debt.

"During the 40 years in which the Republican party has conducted our state affairs that debt has been reduced at the rate of a million dollars a year, until at the present time it practically no longer exists. The taxation of the farmer's land and herds of cattle for the purposes of the state have been brought to an end, and the revenues necessary for the annual expenditure have been imposed upon the corporations. There are in the treasury over $12,000,000.

PATTISON SHOULD ANSWER.

"The distinguished gentleman who leads the opposition said in his speech at Reading the other day that taxation is unequal and that a greater proportion of the burden ought to be laid upon personal property. If he means by that suggestion that a greater burden ought to be imposed upon horses and cattle, corn and wheat, it would be a return to the old order of things, and not an advance. If he means that a greater burden ought to be imposed upon the earnings of corporations, it is certain that the principle was discovered and applied not by the Democratic but by the Republican party.

"The reason for the taxation of land is historical rather than logical. If you were to read the Commentaries of Coke upon Littleton you would find that the whole law at that time was devoted to questions arising out of the ownership of real estate. At the time of the settlement of Pennsylvania there were no other investments than those in land, and even in the days of our grandfathers an increase in individual wealth meant an accumulation of one farm after another and perchance a mill.

"The leaders of the Republican party were the first to get away from the traditions of the past and practically to perceive that the conditions of life had changed. The principle adopted by them ought gradually and wisely to be extended further, so that the expenditures necessary for the maintenance of roads, county improvements and county expenses should be provided for not by relieving one class and imposing the burden upon another, but by a system under which all property, corporate as well as individual, should contribute according to its value.

PERIODS OF DEPRESSION.

"The history of the world shows that every once in a while occurs a period when such a spirit of unrest seizes upon the people that they have been willing to abandon their homes and their lands in quest of other and better fortunes. Time and again there have been great depreciation of the value of lands in England and in all other countries. Somewhat similar causes produced in earlier ages the inpouring of races into Europe, the emigration to and settlement of this country and the flow of people from New England to the far West. About 1790 land fell very much in value and there were during the next few years extensive emigrations from Pennsylvania to Canada, to the Genesee country in New York, and to the Shenandoah Valley and Kentucky. During the last twenty-five years we have been going through a period in which the conditions were such that in the East at least the value of farm lands was decreasing, the amount of farm mortgages were accumulating, and the farmers were unrewarded for their toil, unhappy and discontented.

"The general cause of this condition of things is easily to be seen. The opening of numerous railroads throughout the country affording facilities for the transportation of grain from the interior to the seaboard, has brought the Eastern farmer with his high priced lands into competition with the West, where a rich soil hitherto unused, and, therefore, productive without fertilizers, could be secured for a nominal consideration. It was a temporary condition, and it is rapidly passing away.

"The governmental and railroad lands of the West are occupied, with each year they become less productive, and great centers of population like Chicago, St. Louis and Denver are calling upon the territories surrounding them for food.

THE MAN WITH THE HOE.

"When the world catches up with its supply of wheat, and the time is sure to come, and is not far distant, the man with the hoe, or if you choose with the plow and reaper and binder, will have his grip on the situation.

The great revival of business which began with the return of Mr. Cleveland to private life, which has given the manufacturer wealth and his employes abundant and well paid labor, is now beginning to affect the farmer. Every wave which influences for good or ill financial affairs reaches first the stock market, then the mills and marts, and last of all, the farmer, who represents the most conservative and stable of all classes in the community. Already we feel the zephyrs which precede the blast, already we have the ripple which is the forerunner of the great wave. Within the last two years corn, oats, horses and cattle have all enhanced in value, and it is inevitable that with the increase of the value of farm produce, unless we do something to interfere with existing conditions, there must be an advance in the value of farm lands.

"Like every one else the farmer reaps a benefit from the general prosperity, but he has a double reason for being interested in the success of the Republican cause.

THE REPUBLICAN POLICY.

"It has ever been the policy of the Republican party to build up and maintain the manufactures of the country, and around every mill for the making of iron, steel, carpet, silk and even tin, which latter we were told only a few years ago could not be produced in this country, are gathered the homes of the laborers and their family. Since that party came into power the population has grown more than in the century before, and all are consumers of beef, corn, wheat and potatoes. All must live upon what the farmer has to sell them. That policy is now doing even more. The success which has followed upon it has developed strength and courage upon the part of our manufacturers and merchants, and they are reaching out in all directions for the trade of the world. Everywhere the American products are being introduced, and not only the wealth which is created at home, but that of farther India is being poured into our lap.

A PICTURE OF THE FUTURE.

"It means, unless we are unwise enough to interrupt and interfere with the tide which is carrying us forward, that this is in the near future to be a country of immense wealth, teeming with happy and prosperous people. The great centres of population which have arisen along the Thames and Seine will be dwarfed in comparison with those which will be found along the Hudson and the Delaware. The development we have seen within the last few years around Pittsburg and on the Pennsylvania Railroad outside of Philadelphia, where farm lands have risen in a brief period from a hundred to thousands of dollars per acre in value, is but a manifestation of what is sure to happen in many other localities, unless we ourselves by unwise conduct prevent it.

"The Democrats themselves participate in the welfare which everywhere exists, and are enjoying the benefits which have resulted from the administrations of McKinley and Roosevelt. It is doubtful whether they, unless it be the few who are only anxious about the offices, really want a change, and if they do, they ought in all kindness to be protected from the consequences of their want of good judgment. For the Republicans of Pennsylvania to fail would be in the present, as it has been in the past, the first step in a career of disaster which would inflict immeasurable injury upon the whole American people, Republicans and Democrats alike."
