Operated on for an Abscess on the Leg Caused by the Trolley Car Accident

President Roosevelt's Western trip came to an untimely end at Indian-apolis, Ind., Tuesday. He was found to be suffering from a swelling in the left leg between the knee and the ankle, which required immediate surankle, which required immediate surgical attention, and, instead of being taken to the train to continue his journey, he was conveyed to St. Vincent's hospital, where he was operated on. The operation occurred at 4:30 o'clock, and lasted only a short time. Then he was taken to a private room in the hospital to rest. After taking a light luncheon at 7:30 p. m. he was conveyed on a stretcher to his train, which had been backed up on a "Y" near the hospital, and the train left for Washington. The use of the knife was brief and did not involve any important consequences to the President's general health. The first public knowledge of the affair came in the form of a bulletin issued by Secretary Cortelyou. After the President entered the operating room he sat down and waited for instructions from the physicians and surgeons, watching their preparations with keen interest. "I am awfully sorry I cannot continue my Western trip" said he. "Can't you let me go ahead with it after this thing is over?" Several of the surgeons turned to him and one said: "It is my opinion that you would be very indiscreet to continue on your feet, as would be necessary in your speechmaking trip, after the operation. This is by no means a serious thing, and there is absolutely no danger of serious consequences from it if you are careful and stay off your feet until the trouble is over. But you should by all means, Mr. President, discontinue your trip." "Very well, then, it will have to be that way," said the President resignedly. "I will do as you gentlemen say. Now, what do you want me to do?" The President was told to remove his shoes and stockings and nether garments. He also removed his coat and vest. A moment later he was told simply to remove his shoe and the physicians would be required to bare the leg only. This done, the President walked to the operating table, and as he lay down he remarked with a smile: "Gentiemen, you are formal. I see you have your gloves on." The operation was begun without delay. The gical attention, and, instead of bein taken to the train to continue his jou "Gentiemen, you are formal. I see you have your gloves on." The opera-tion was begun without delay. The pain caused the President to mutter pain caused the President to mutter several times in a low voice, but he said nothing that was distinct except to ask for a glass of water before the needle had been removed. After the operation was over he made several laughing remarks concerning trivial matters and asked if he would be allowed to use his leg long enough to walk upstairs himself. He was conveyed to the special car and started on his return trip to Washington, D. C.

PENSIONS DECREASED.

Applications Rejected Than Were Granted, but 339,436 Were Under Consideration July 1.

The annual report of the commissioner of pensions, Eugene F. Ware, shows that the number of names on the pension rolls still is under the million mark, despite a net gain of 5,732 pensions since 1898. The total enrollment on July 1, 1902, was 999, 446, against 997,735 last year. The total comprises 728,809 soldiers and 260,637 widows and dependents. The death rate among pensioners for the coming year will be about 40,000, and the losses to the rolls from other causes will be about 6,000. The total amount paid for pensions during the fiscal year was $137,504,268, and the yearly cost of operating the bureau and the agencies aggregates $3,590,529. The pension system since the beginning of the government has cost $2,392,509,019, exclusive of the soldiers' home. Payments on account of the various wars were: Revolutionary war, $70,000,000; war of 1812, $45,025,297; Indian wars $5,814,209; war with Mexico, $31,861,339; civil war, $2,744,874,276; Spanish war, $3,275,184. Camp equipage and canvas were shipped from the State arsenal in a special car, which was attached to the troopers' train at Tyrone. The Governor's troop, of Harrisburg, and the Second Philadelphia city troop will remain on duty at Shenandoah. Sheriff Knorr, of Columbia county, says he did not sign nor authorize his name to be signed to the telegram which was sent to Governor Stone asking that troops be sent to Centralia. General Gobin says that the sheriff's call for soldiers was authentic, and that Knorr had sent his deputy to him (Gobin) for troops. Shots were fired by soldiers at strikers for the first time since the troops went afield. At Grassy Island colliery, near Scranton, half a mile from the Thirteenth's camp, two soldiers from Company A were stationed in a patch of underbrush as part of an outpost to the camp. A volley of stones descended 'all about them, and one of them striking Private Charles Edwards felled him to the ground.

He used the funds to run four wildcat companies, for each of which he maintained separate elaborate city offices. The company has secured the best legal talent, and will push the case to the limit. Scotland Yard detectives at work on the case promise the greatest sensation in years. Greig, who was remanded on the charge of forging checks amounting to $9,500, purporting to have been signed by Colonel Hunsiker, was given a second hearing and again remanded. Counsel for the prosecution said that probably others were implicated in the case, which promised to develop largely. The information disclosed that not only had forgeries been committed, but embezzlement and theft of correspondence from Pittsburg to the Carnegle Company. Counsel handed in forged checks for $90,000 and $50,000, respectively. He said the forgeries were all of great magnitude. The prisoner, he declared, kept up a lavish establishment at Kingston-upon-Thames, and steps were being taken to prevent the removal of his handsome furniture. Counsel also handed the magistrate a letter from a prisoner in Exeter fall, which, the magistrate said, threw quite a new light on the case. Counsel added that an examination of the books showed not only that Greig's forgeries rooks, associated with Lawrence H that an examination of the books showed not only that Greig's forgeries were for a very large amount, but that there had been an extensive fal-sification of the books. In the meantime National bank circulation has been increased about $7,000,000, largely induced by the distribution of deposits, and the further increase to the amount duced by the distribution of deposits, and the further increase to the amount of $8,000,000 is assured. All rumors of experiments have been unauthorized by the treasury department.
