

BIG STEEL COMPANIES COMBINE

$50,000,000 CAPITAL.

Union and Sharon Corporations Merged—It Means a New Railroad to Lake Erie.

An agreement has been entered into for the consolidation of the Union Steel Company, whose works are at Tonawanda, Pa., and the Sharon Steel Company, under capitalization of $50,000,000. The proposed capital investment contemplates, at an early date, the construction of an independent railroad from Elk Creek Harbor, on Lake Erie, to the works at Sharon, Pa., 60 miles away, and thence to Tonawanda, over twice that distance from the lake. To cover the present assets of the two steel concerns and the improvements already under way, $33,000,000 in stock of the reorganized Union Steel Company is to be used at once. The consolidation combines the two greatest independent steel concerns of the country, outside of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company. The assets of the two concerns, figured at $33,000,000, is regarded remarkably low. The two interests have in the great ore fields of the northwest properties estimated to hold 70,000,000 tons of ore. This, figured as the United States Steel Corporation estimates its ore in ground, is alone worth $70,000,000. This ore lies in the Mesabi and the Old Range regions. The two interests have already included in their assets an important start in an ore fleet on the lakes. In a recent purchase made of over 2,000 acres of ground at Elk Creek harbor in Pennsylvania, carrying with it a charter for a terminal railroad there, the Lake Erie Terminal Railroad Company, provision is made for the most important part of a new lake line. Surveys have already been partly made for this. The new Union Steel Company will in the near future have in operation seven blast furnaces, with aggregate daily capacity of 4,200 tons. To feed these monsters with ore, limestone, coal and coke, and the steel works with fuel, the new railroad will be an important factor. The two great independent interests have now arranged for terminal lines at their works and the railroad links from their coal properties. At Tonawanda there is to be terminal railroad system, with a bridge over the Monongahela river. For this new railroad from the mills to the lakes there are now only tentative plans. When construction is taken up the additional $17,000,000 of stock will provide for the investment. The officers of the new company are: W. H. Mellon, president; W. H. Donner and John Stevenson, Jr., vice presidents; Robert B. Mellon, treasurer.

DECREASE BY ROOT.

Secretary's Budget Shows Lowering in Estimates of $31,000,000. Amounts in Detail.

Secretary Root just completed his estimates for the next fiscal year and he has succeeded in effecting a marked reduction in the amount of money required for the support of the army and navy department. Excluding river and harbor appropriations over which the department has little control, as they are directed largely by Congress, the secretary says that the estimate for each of the last five fiscal years shows an average annual increase from the estimates of the previous year of about $44,300,000. The estimates for the next year show a net decrease of $31,420,400 compared with the estimates submitted for the current fiscal year, and the decrease as compared with the current appropriations is $29,947,960. The estimates for the military establishment, which include all items for the support of the army and the military academy, show a net reduction of $21,862,921 from the estimates for 1903. The pay of the army is reduced more than $5,000,000 as a consequence of the reduction of the force. The cost of subsistence is reduced more than $3,500,000, and the expense of barracks and quarters in the Philippines is reduced a million for the same reason. The cost of army transportation has been reduced $9,000,000 as a result of the peaceful conditions now existing in the archipelago. It is explained at the department that the increase of $149,800 asked for the signal service is largely to enable the signal corps to provide proper installations and maintenance of artillery fire control in our seacoast defenses. The increase of $1,400,000 for barracks and quarters is due to resumption of work on new and reconstruction of many of the old posts rendered necessary by the increase in the regular army. An increase of $750,000 will be required in order to provide a full year's supply of clothing and equipment during the next fiscal year. Increased estimates are submitted to procure an annual supply of ammunition for target practice and to provide for an accumulation to meet emergencies which must be anticipated. The estimates under the head of "Public Works," show a reduction of $9,738,770, as compared with the estimates for 1903 and of $6,407,088, as compared with the amounts appropriated for 1903. The more important items embraced in the appropriations that come under this general head are river and harbor improvements, fortifications and seacoast defenses and military posts.

BENEFIT ORDER LOSES SUIT.

Rule That All Funds on Hand Are Subject to Taxation.

The Illinois supreme court has decided that all cash in the hands of the treasurer of a benevolent insurance society is subject to taxation regardless of whether a part of the fund is subject to payment to beneficiaries. The opinion was rendered in the case of the State Council of the Catholic Knights of Illinois versus the board of review of Effingham county. The treasurer of this society refused to list the money in his hands for taxation because there were outstanding orders payable to beneficiaries of deceased members. The supreme court says that the fact that orders have been drawn upon a benefit fund prior to April 1 to pay beneficiaries of deceased members does not exempt the fund from taxation to the amount of such orders, if no part of the fund has actually been paid out before April 1. This decision will affect every fraternal insurance society with its head office in the state of Illinois.

GREAT FLEET WILL FOLLOW FLAG.

DEWEY IN COMMAND.

Most Effective Naval Force Ever Assembled by the United States. Formidable Showing.

When, about three weeks hence, Admiral Dewey steams into the Caribbean sea with the four-starred flag of an admiral flying from the peak of the Mayflower, he will assume command of the most powerful fleet the United States ever sent to sea. It will be more powerful than the combined squadrons which fought the battle of Manila Bay and Santiago. In fighting effectiveness it will be the superior of all the squadrons and single vessels that in the past fought the fights that made glorious the history of American naval achievements. The admiral will have six battleships of the first rate in his force and 13 cruising vessels. The tonnage of the former will be 66,471 and of the latter 53,334. Among the cruisers will be the Olympia, which was the admiral's flagship in the action which raised him from the grade of a commodore to that now held by him, and the Brooklyn, the flagship of Admiral Schley in the fight off Santiago. Dewey's flagship during the maneuvers which have tempted the admiral to again go to sea is the Mayflower, the luxurious yacht which at other times is the vessel reserved for the use of the President. She is one of the large number of ships bought during the war with Spain, when the United States was acquiring everything that would float at enormous prices. In comparison with the squadrons which gave the American navy the fame it has the fleet which Dewey is to command is as a leviathe to a speckled brook trout or a six-inch rifle to a toy pistol. The squadron which Commodore Perry had when he defeated and captured the British squadron on Lake Erie was of a tonnage not much greater than the smallest ship in Dewey's fleet, the torpedo boats excepted. Perry's ships had a displacement of about 1,200 tons. Captain Barclay's ships had a tonnage slightly in excess of that of the American ships. But combined they had less than 2,500 tons. Dewey will have the following ships: Illinois and Kearsarge, 11,525 tons each; Iowa, 11,340; Indiana and Massachusetts, 10,288 each. Cruisers—Atlanta, 3,000; Albany, 3,437; Buffalo, 6,888; Olympia, 5,870; Chicago, 5,000; San Francisco, 4,098; Cincinnati, 3,213; Dixie, 6,175; Prairie, 6,888, and Mayflower, 2,690. When General Grant went campaigning in Kentucky he took with him a fleet of 175 gun boats. The combined tonnage of those vessels was less than one of the new battleships. The fleet of Admiral Farragut when he passed the forts on the Mississippi was not equal to two of the battleships. The power of all the guns Perry, Grant and Farragut had was not equal to the guns on one of the battleships. And yet the fleet which Dewey is to drill is inferior to the channel squadron which Great Britain maintains in order to notify France and Germany that the light little island is to remain so.

MUST ACCEPT OR QUIT THE UNION.

MINE WORKERS' CHOICE.

President Mitchell Declares Fate of Miners Who Refuse to Abide by Verdict of Arbitrators.

After being on the stand for four and a half days, President Mitchell, of the Miners' union, completed his testimony at Scranton before the anthracite strike commission Wednesday. One of the most important things brought out during the cross-examination of President Mitchell was his emphatic declaration that the miners were opposed to separating the bituminous miners from the anthracite workers, thus creating two organizations. He made this reply to a question of ex-Congressman Simon P. Wolverton, counsel for the Reading Company, as to whether it would be better to have separate organizations. Mr. Mitchell's answer was that "it would not be possible or desirable. The anthracite mine workers have had independent organizations in the past. They have had several. They have gone. They are not here now, and the men do not want any more of their organizations to go the same way." The non-union men, that is, those who remained at work during the strike, were made a party to the arbitration plan by their counsel agreeing to make public the names of the men who petitioned the commission. When the attorneys for the "non-striking" workmen, as Chairman Gray designated them, and who number about 2,000, made a demand to the commission for a 20 per cent increase in wages with no reduction in hours, their attorneys desired to withhold the names of the persons they represented. The commission, however, decided they could not be a party to such a plan of secrecy. In connection with the non-union feature of the investigation, Mr. Mitchell announced that he is also representing thousands of non-union men who struck with the unionists, and that all the workmen would abide by the award of the arbitrators, "or get out of the union." At one point in his testimony Mr. Mitchell, in answer to a query by Judge Gray, said: "I think the understanding is that, pending the consideration of the questions by this commission, the strikers were to return immediately to work, and I think the further understanding is—don't let me be misunderstood—is that the non-union men should not be interfered with nor displaced from employment generally by the return of the union men." Mr. Burns was examining the witness regarding unlawful acts, committed during the strike, and had asked Mr. Mitchell if he approved of them, when Judge Gray stopped him and said that nothing could be gained by asking the question because the commission had a moral sense of its own, which he presumed agreed with the moral sense of the community and society.

YAQUI WAR STATUS.

Junta Issues Report Showing 6,200 Men in the Field—Losses in Six Months.

The seventh semi-annual report of the council of war of the Yaqui revolution has just been issued by the Yaqui junta, and first received at Prescott, Arizona. It is stated that the number of Yaquis actually in the field is 6,200. There were 18 Americans in the service. It is stated that the funds at hand in the council of war amount to $450,000. Three years ago the council had but $200,000. These funds are obtained through contributions and by the looting of Mexican towns. The Yaqui junta declares that the Yaquis hold absolutely 25,000 square miles of productive territory, known as "the Push" and "the Sierra." In this region they raise all that they require, such as cereals and vegetables and cattle and horses. From their brothers at peace they obtain all the clothing that they need. They manufacture their own gunpowder when necessary. During the last six months the Yaquis lost 500 soldiers, including 18 officers. Of these 488 were killed in battle. The rest died of disease. No mention is made of the women who were killed at Uvala, but in a note the council of war states that it is safe to say that more than 200 Yaqui women and 100 Yaqui children suffered death at the hands of Mexican soldiers. The junta states that four Americans were killed on the Yaqui side.
