Miss Maggie Welch, Secretary of the Betsey Ross Educational and Benevolent Society, writes from 328 North State street, Chicago, Ill., the following glowing words concerning Peruna:
"Last fall I caught the most severe cold I ever had in my life. I coughed night and day, and my lungs and throat became so sore that I was in great distress. All cough

"I toid him that I would certainly try it, and immediately sent for a bottle. I found that relief came the first day, and as I kept taking it faithfully the cough gradually diminished and the soreness left me. It is fine.'—Maggie Welch.

The Regulation of Clocks.

The Regulation of Clocks.

The remarkable pendulum experiment in the Pantheon at Paris to prove the rotation of the earth, strikingly illustrates the majestic uses of the familiar clock-maker's device. It seems almost impossible of belief, in an age of well-regulated watches, that the clocks of Galileo's time could not be kept going at a uniform speed. Clocks went by means of a dragging weight, but the pendulum had not been thought of as a regulator. It occurred to Galileo to make a clock with the pendulum only, but of course, the work of turning the wheels stopped it. It was left to Huygens, in 1656, 14 years after the great astronomer's death, to combine the pendulum with the dragging weight and thus solve the problem of reckoning astronomical time with exactitude.

It is proposed to cut a railway tunnel through the mountain known as the Faucille, in the Jura Alps, and so shorten the journey between Paris and Switzerland by two and a half hours.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Gure, menufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional ure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drocs to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in my back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. In the Stone Age.

In the Stone Age.

Near Marlow, England, has been discovered a quarry whence men of the stone age got fiints to make their knives and weapons. In it was found, among other relics of the old workers, a pick of stag's antlers, used by the prehistoric miner in making his gallery. The site was called locally "Grimes's graves," and consisted of a number of holes or pits sunk in the ground. It was found that these Norfolk pits were made by miners in search of clear and large flints, the ready-made material for cutlery chipped from stone. These ancient workers had quite as keen an instinct for finding the best bed of flint as a modern prospector has for a bed of gold-bearing quartz, and somehow found out that about thirty feet below the surface there was a bed of the largest silicious pebbles in England. They therefore sunk the "graves" and ran galleries from them. In these galleries were found not only the fiints they had dug but rough lamps, cut in chalk, for them to see by and the picks which they had used to work with. The implements were all made of deer's horn, and it was noted that these old antier tools are exactly the same shape as the picks of wood and iron used in the flint quarries of England to-day.

POLICE DOGS IN GHENT.

Trained Collies Supplant Officers and Chase Burglars.

Chase Burgiars.

The distinction of the bloodhound of the Southern and Western states as being the ony dog policemen in the world is gone. The city of Ghent has recently supplemented its regular police force in the suburbs by a corps of trained collies, whose duty it is to run down burgiars and other evil-doers who might prove too swift for capture by the human custodians of the peace. The step has been taken by the Ghent commissioners of police as the result of an alarming increase in burgiary, robbery, with violence, and other crimes committed by night in the suburbs. The vigilance of the police proved unequal to cope with the evil, although their numbers were considerably augmented. The police dogs are of the breed of Swiss-Belgian sheep dogs, and are trained most carefully. They accompany the policemen on their nightly rounds, and not only protect them from being attacked by surprise, but by the quickness of their instinct in scenting the presence of men they make it impossible for any evil-doer to lurk in the darkest corner undetected. Great precaution, however, is taken that the dogs may do as little harm as possible, and to this end their management and diet is carefully regulated. They are kept in kennels which are cleaned daily and disinfected weekly, and they are frequently examined by a veterinary surgeon. That the pangs of hunger may not tempt them to take a slice out of any of their victims, they are given two good meals a day, one at 12:30 and the other at 7 o'clock, each consisting of bread, rice and meat, and at midnight they are given to show the application of their victims, they are given two good meals a day, one at 12:30 and the other at 7 o'clock, each consisting of bread, rice and meat, and at midnight they are given to show its identity.

Asthma

Ayer's Cherry Pectora certainly cures many cases of asthma.

And it cures bronchitis, hoarseness, weak lungs, whooping-cough, croup, winter coughs, night coughs, and hard colds.
