THE New Orleans "Picayune" yearns for a distinctively "Southern" maga-zine, all of whose writers and artists Rev. A. D. Gnagey, who for eight years edited the Brethren Evangelist, shall come from below Mason and Dixsn's line and whose topics shall relate ehiefly to the South. The "Pica-mer" is one of the for Southern news. In the second down and out to make the second down and the south of the second down and the second d relate chiefly to the South. The "Plat-yune" is one of the few Southern news-papers which still cling to the notion that the folks down that way are a class and a law unto themselves, who class and a law unto themselves, who should have a stake-and-rider fence built around them and be allowed to run things their own way inside of it. That theory has long been "busted." and one of the proofs of it is that several magazines which were started along the lines suggested by the "Pica-yune" have been dismal failures.— Johnstown Tribune. people who believe or profess to be-Johnstown Tribune lieve in the same brand of religion

THE warm spot in William J. Bryan's heart for Populistic doctrines blossomed forth in last week's issue of his Commoner wherein he remarked that the movement now waning not only "has en of great benefit to the Democratic party and to the country," also teaching economic truths to Republicans, but that it "helped to save the Democratic party from annihilation." Mr. Bryan evidently does not have in his mental machine any peg on which to hang recent political history. If he had he would remember that before the Democracy formed a partnership with the Populists it was a formidable and frequently a dominant power in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut, and that it even carried Massachusetts. In return for the loss of these states it gained a few western mining camps and thinly populated prairie common wealths, and was beaten overwhelm. ingly in two successive Presidential elections. Now that Populism is dead, it has lost the West, which, with one or two insignificant exceptions, is today as solidly Republican as the South is solidly Democratic. It is true that Populism has been a benefit to the country, but not in the way Mr. Bryan -Johnstown Tribune

Set Aside Unless Plaintiff Accepts Reduction.

HUNTINGDON, PA., JANUARY 5. President Judge Bailey this after-noon disposed of the matter of the motion for a new trial in the breach of promise suit of Cora A. Keim, a pretty girl of Elk Lick, Somerset county, against Professor I. Harvey Brum-baugh, acting president of Juniata College, Huntingdon, by decreeing that the verdict be set aside and a new trial granted unless the plaintiff accepts a judgment of $5000 as against the $9250 verdict awarded by a jury. The Court stipulates that if the plain-tiff, by a paper filed within twenty days, remits all the verdict in excess of $5000, the motion for a new trial is overruled. In the opinion filed with the decree, the Court sets forth that in the church papers are supposed to be practically all Christians; but judging integrity of the jury, the verdict must be sustained, although he expresses the belief that there was ample evider in the case to have warranted a verdict for the defendant. Much Truth in This.

The Windber Journal in a recent ssue gets off a great deal of truth in the following:

"People who reside in coal towns are generally regarded as spendthrifts. This may be true of some towns and cities, but it can hardly be said of Windber people, and particularly of that class designated as "foreigners." Hundreds of dollars each pay day are sent through the post office at Windber and Scalp Level to banks in New York City, Pittsburg and elsewhere. The Italian who lost his life at the Paint borough crossing about a month ago had in his possession nearly $400 which he intended to take with him to his home in southern Italy where his mother lives. While the average American would not care to imitate the manner of living practiced by the economical foreigner, his saving methods are worthy of consideration, We Give Coupons For 25c., 50c. and $1.00.
