Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflames the mucous membranes lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure relieves all inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the stomach, protects the nerves, and cures bad breath, sour risings, a sense of fullness after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles.

Kodol Digests What You Eat Make the Stomach Sweet.

THE NEW FIRST READER.

Veracious Account of the Artist and the Dairy Maid.

"Ah! What have we here?"
 "It is the United States sun rising on a farm scene in New Jersey. The grass sparkles with dew, the songs of the lark gladden the heart, and the cows in the barnyard chew their cuds in peace as they wait for the dairy maid to appear with her pail."
 "Is that the dairy maid tripping lightly down the path toward the bars?"
 "Oh, no. That is an artist from New York, who has arranged to spend two weeks on the farm to study animal life according to nature. He is going to paint a picture with seven or eight cows in it, and he will call it, 'The Morning Milk-Stool; or, How We Worked the Racket on the Innocent Cows.' It has been his ambition for years, but he just got around to it."
 "But why does he carry a pail and a stool?"
 "Oh, he's going to begin on the ground floor and work his way up. He never milked a cow, but always thought it would be so romantic. He will carefully study the hind legs of Bossy as he fills the pail. If any critic gives him a roasting on his painted cows he can get back at him by saying he has milked a cow and ought to know which way her legs crook."
 "He seems undecided which cow to begin on."
 "He's studying attitudes and wishing he had his sketch book at hand. There is far more grace in a cow than he ever dreamed of. Now he approaches a cow and takes a graceful position on the milk stool. The cow looks at him queerly, as you will observe, but that's because she's farrow and being fattened for market. It's about a year since any one sat down within reach of her hoof."
 "I can no longer see the artist, for the cloud of dust. Is he still there?"
 "Oh, no. He left ten minutes ago and brought up against the old wagon box under the shed. He has a corn cultivator down the back of his neck, an old fanning mill jabbed into his ear, and his legs are tangled up with a patent drag and a potato planter. The kick won't kill him though. He will continue lying there until fully rested, and then go to the house to arrange his canvas."
 "Will he ever be a blithe and happy artist again?"
 "Oh, yes, but not in the cow line. He will probably turn to mules or hogs and give cows the go-by, and in due time he will be able to get the porous plasters off his back and call up nerve enough to approach a cow within half a mile without being sea-sick in the knees."—Detroit Free Press.

Our Friend the Pirate.
 The pirate laughed gleefully as he hoisted the Jolly Roger.
 "Ha! ha! ha!" he cackled.
 "What's the matter?" we nervously inquired, wondering meanwhile whether he had just hatched some fiendish and diabolical plot regarding our immediate future.
 "Ha! ha! ha!" he repeated.
 "Mabe he's an Englishman and has just seen the point of a joke that he heard on his last cruise," muttered Jabez, (Jabez would crack Old Nick himself over the pate with a joke.)
 "Ha! ha! ha!" the pirate continued.
 "What is it?" we begged.
 "See that Jolly Roger?" inquired the pirate. "That belongs to my mother-in-law. It's (ha! ha!) her petticoat. And she can't come out of her cabin till the cruise is over because it's the only one she has on board."
 Whereupon we all laughed boisterously, although we noticed that our friend the pirate blanched fearfully whenever he chanced to hear the outraged cries of the old lady rising shrilly above the pealing ebullitions of our mirth.

QUALIFIED FOR THE POSITION.

Conscience Would Not Allow Him to Rob the Widowed of Bread.

A merchant advertised for a stenographer with a knowledge of Spanish who could correspond in that language as well as English. By mistake the newspaper printed the salary to be paid as 30s. instead of £3 a week. By post the merchant received this communication in reply: "London.
 "Dear Sir—I beg to offer my services as applicant for the position advertised this morning.
 "I am a young man thirty-two years of age and have had a business experience of seventeen years, and I feel confident, if you will give me a trial, I can prove my worth to you.
 "I am not only an expert bookkeeper, proficient stenographer and typewriter, excellent telegraph operator and college professor, but have several other accomplishments which might make me more desirable than ordinary mortals. I am an experienced manager, and have won medals for reciting 'Mary had a little lamb.' I also have some knowledge of removing superfluous hair and clipping the ears of puppy-dogs.
 "I am a practical farmer, can cook, take care of horses and pigs, crease trousers, repair umbrellas, and also am the champion cricketer in my club. Being possessed of great physical beauty, I would not only be useful but ornamental as well, lending to the sacred precincts of your office that delightful artistic charm that a stuffed billy goat would. My whiskers being quite luxurious and extensive, my face could be used as a doormat, pen-wiper, or feather duster. I can furnish recommendations from the premier, Kaiser Wilhelm, and the nobility.
 "As salary, I would feel I was robbing the widowed of bread and the orphaned of spongecake if I were to take advantage of your offer by accepting the fabulous sum of 30s. per week. I would be entirely willing to give my services for less, and by accepting 10s. it would not only give me a clear conscience, but would also give you an opportunity of increasing your donation to the church, pay your life insurance, and endow a free bed in the dogs' home."—Trib-Bits.

Uncovering Their Past.
 "All right," says the rich father, after the count has stated his terms, "I'll let Sadie marry you and agree to turn over to you one million dollars. Now, let's get it fixed up properly. Suppose we say one thousand down and the balance at two dollars a week."
 Here Sadie bursts into tears and leaves the room.
 "Now, ma," says the rich father to his wife, "what on earth's the matter with that girl?"
 "Well, I don't blame her at all, pa. It seems as if you never could keep from betraying the fact that we are of plebeian origin."
 "What have I done now?" asks pa.
 "Why, you talk as if you were buying the count from an installment house."—Judge.

She Seemed to Know.
 "Just a little one," we implored.
 "No, sir," replied Mehitabel firmly. "My lips are only for the man who marries me."
 It will be perceived that the girl talked like a popular priced melodrama, but, anyhow, as we are very set in our ways at times, we went right out and married her, of course. As soon as we got back we naturally kissed her a few.
 "I wonder why it is," mused Mehitabel, "I wonder why it is that all chaps shut their eyes when they take a good kiss."
 We are still thinking.
 And then, you know, they wonder why married life is frequently unhappy.

Possibly So.
 "Ye, children," said Uncle Henry, "the fishes in the sea go in schools."
 "In swimming schools?" asked the smart nephew, who was planning to enter Yavale.
 "Most of 'em," replied Uncle Henry. "But the seahorses go to riding schools and the star fishes go to astronomical schools, and the seal goes to a law school, and the sword fish goes to a military school, and the sawfish to a manual training school."
 "And where does the lobster go?" asked the smart nephew.
 "He doesn't go anywhere. He stays at home and practices his college yell."—Judge.
