A BARGAIN FOR FARMERS.

The New-York Tribune Farmer, national illustrated agricultural weekly of twenty large pages, has no superior as a thoroughly practical and helpful publication for the farmer and every member of his family, and the publishers are determined to give it a circulation unequalled by any paper of its class in the United States.

Knowing that every enterprising, up-to-date farmer always reads his own local weekly newspaper, The New-York Tribune Farmer has made an exceedingly liberal arrangement which enables us to offer the two papers at so low a price that no farmer can afford to lose the opportunity.

The price of the New-York Tribune Farmer is $1.00 a year and THE SOMERSET COUNTY STAR is $1.50 a year, but both papers will be sent for a full year if you forward $1.50 to THE STAR, Elk Lick, Pa.

Send your name and address to The New-York Tribune Farmer, New York City, and a specimen copy of that paper will be mailed to you. tf

To Be Decided Later.

The boy, who was visiting his indulgent aunt, had eaten heartily of the preserves. "Don't you think you've had enough, Willie?" she asked. "Don't know," he replied. "Don't know?" "Nope. Can't tell yet," he said. "But what do you think?" "Ain't any use thinking at all. I got to know. Thinking don't help any if you think wrong."

"Well, you're the most remarkable boy I ever knew," said his aunt. "When will you know?" "In half an hour." "And how will you know?" "Why, that's easy," replied the wise boy. "If I ain't sick in half an hour I'll be sorry I didn't take more, and if I am sick I'll be sorry I took so much. That's the only way to tell that I know."

His aunt admitted that it left no room for doubt, but she tried to point out that it was rather unsatisfactory, to which the boy merely replied that he wished there was a better way but he didn't know of any.

Too Much Economy.

"You don't look well this morning," remarked the foreman as a factory hand entered a Detroit establishment the other morning.

"Now!" was the response. "Ain't nobody well to my house." "What seems to be the matter?" asked the foreman, as thoughts of smallpox, diphtheria, cholera and other diseases ran through his brain. "Stinginess," was the unexpected answer. "You see, we bought a new house a while ago, and we economized to pay for it. We got so daft about stingy that we didn't eat enough to keep the cold out, and now we're payin' the doctor the money we saved to pay fer th' house."—Detroit News.

Up in Yonkers.

Harry—Well, now that we are engaged, my girl is beginning to economize. You see, I used to take a pound of 90-cent bonbons to her every Sunday evening.

Fred—Ah, ha, and now she insists on a cheaper sort, I suppose.

Harry—Oh, no. You can get two pounds of the 90-cent kind for $1.75, so she insists on a two-pound box.—Yonkers Statesman.

Also to Hear It.

Bill—It takes a lot of wind to learn to play the cornet, does it not?

Jill—Indeed, it does!

"Well, how about the trombone?" "Oh, it takes a lot of nerve to learn to play that!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Result of Vigilance.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of peace, you know."

"I don't know anything of the kind. My wife meets me at the head of the stairs every night, and there's always war."—Yonkers Herald.

Sympathy.

Mr. Ferguson—Laura, how much more have you got of this new breakfast food?

Mrs. Ferguson—Enough to last us a month yet. That reminds me, George, that I heard a mouse last night in the drawer where we keep it.

Mr. Ferguson—Poor thing.—Chicago Tribune.

No Love Lost.

Judge (sternly)—Didn't I tell you last week I never wanted to see you here again?

Prisoner—Oh, yer honor, I hates th' sight o' you wussen' you hates th' sight o' me.—Detroit Free Press.

Too Much Culture.

"Uncle Eph, what did you take your boy out of the night school for?"

"Kase hit made him disrespectful to his ole dad. He done tole me udder maw'nin' dat I didn't talk good grammah."—Chicago Tribune.

Convinced.

"Jones froze his ears this morning."

"How?" "Looking at the thermometer to find out how cold it was."—Detroit Free Press.

Sure to Win.

"I have a theory that a man who fasts has just as much endurance as a man who doesn't. Now, in a race between the two, which do you think would win?" "Why, the faster, of course."

THE ONLY ONE OF THE KIND.

Such Rare Prizes Are Always Taken, and None to Spare.

The woman entered the ticket office. "I want a ticket to Pittsburg on the limited," she said. The clerk looked doubtful.

"Don't you want to know how much it costs?" he asked. "I've seen your advertised rate," she said.

"But, of course, you expect to get a discount of some sort?" "No."

"Well, surely you want to know how much you'd save by going on another train?" "No; the limited suits me."

"Or perhaps you'd like to have me explain why excursion tickets are not good on that train?"

"No."

"Don't you want to know if the rate is likely to go down 50 cents if you wait over until to-morrow?" "No."

"Or why it's higher than it was last summer?" "No."

"Or if you can stop over for two weeks somewhere to visit your Aunt Samantha?" "No."

The clerk leaned over the counter. "Pardon me, madam," he said, "but are you married?"

"Yes."

"It's too bad," he sighed, "but I might have known such a prize would not be unclaimed. I haven't seen another like you in all the time I've been here."

Tom Reed's Title of "Czar."

Speaker Thomas B. Reed had for the first time, amid continuous uproar, enforced his new rules upon the House, and that body was in open revolt. Many members of his own party rebelled at the imperious dictatorship of the Speaker.

The Speaker's imperious domination over the popular body of Congress was generally declared to be contrary to a republican form of government—decidedly Russian in character.

As this dispatch was clearly the news feature of the night, I myself, as managing editor, undertook the continuation of the big head. As a top line, I wrote—

REED, THE RUSSIAN. The compositor did not follow the marks indicating the size of display type, but used a larger font. Consequently, the words overran the column, and the proof came back thus—

REED, THE RUSS. A new catch-line had to be invented immediately, because the page was "made up" and waiting. After several attempts a happy thought suggested a single word that has become a part of American political history. I directed the foreman to set in the largest possible type and place over the article the words—

CZAR REED. The title was an instantaneous hit. It was caught up throughout the country—its use not confined to democratic papers at first.—Julius Chambers in The Reader.

Perennial. "I suppose Lizzie Oletimer is glad it is leap year," said the soft spoken Heloise.

"I don't suppose it makes much difference to her," replied the mellow voiced Irene. "She has been jumping at every chance she saw for fifteen years."—Judge.

Class in Anatomy. Teacher—Wilfred, to what are the teeth fastened? Wilfred—To the gums. Teacher—And how many gums have we? Wilfred—Three—pepsin, winter-green and blood-orange.—Judge.

In Accord. Paw—Come here, Johnny. Your maw agrees w' me that you need a good lickin'; aye, an' you're goin' to get it. Johnny (bitterly)—Ou, aye; you an' maw aye agree when it comes to lickin' me. It's the only thing you do agree about.—Tit-Bits.

A Temporary Opinion. The Financee—The idea of his thinking that he is unworthy of me! The Confidante—Yes; but you needn't argue the matter with him. He'll discover his error in time.—Brooklyn Life.

No Room For It. Citizen—I don't suppose you ever have smallpox or typhoid out in Swampthorpe. Subbubs—No, indeed; there isn't any room for it. The place is too full of malaria.—Philadelphia Press.

TOWN OF TWO PEOPLE.

They Were the Postmaster and the Editor of the Local Newspaper.

Colonel Bob Wilfley, of Hopkins, who has been in the west, tells the Journal of a town he ran across in the west that had just two inhabitants, but which nevertheless, boasted the possession of a postoffice and a newspaper. The town was near Pueblo, Colo. Gold had been found near where it was subsequently located. The find was supposedly rich and in no time a town of perhaps 2,000 persons was flourishing. But the find didn't pan out as expected and the town dwindled away faster than it had been built up. Soon no one was left save the postmaster and the editor of the newspaper. The postmaster was preparing to leave and the newspaper man could have done likewise, but for the fact that he had contracted to publish hundreds of mining claim notices.

These notices had to be published for six months before he could get his money, which was on deposit for him in a Pueblo bank and which amounted to $4,000 or $5,000, the cost of each notice being $20.

The editor had three months to publish them before he could fulfill his part of the program and get his money. He did not relish the idea of being the only man in the "city," located in the mountains, "40 miles from nowhere," so he offered the postmaster $100 a month if he would remain until he could complete the official printing. The postmaster accepted the offer and the two young fellows (both single men) were the sole occupants of the town for three long months, at the close of which period they turned it over to the tender mercies of the owls and the bats.—Hopkins (Mo.) Journal.

A CURE FOR HEADACHE.

Any man, woman or child suffering from headache, biliousness or a dull, drowsy feeling should take one or two of Dewitt's Little Early Risers night and morning. These famous little pills are famous because they are a tonic as well as a pill. While they cleanse the system they strengthen and rebuild it by their tonic effect upon the liver and bowels. Sold by E. H. Miller. 5-1

Dewey Makes Restitution.

Back in the '70s, when Dewey had command of a ship of the old Hartford type, he was lying in the harbor off Genoa. Visitors were allowed on board at all times except Sunday morning when inspection took place, says Lippincott's. One Sunday a well known American millionaire steamed out with a party of friends in his private yacht, and succeeded in getting on deck, where he was met by Captain Dewey, who asked him to leave. Mr. Money remonstrated, and finally, exasperated by the cool firmness of the officer, he burst out:

"No, sir, I won't leave. I am an American citizen and have a perfect right on this vessel. I pay taxes in America; I am on my own property; part of this ship belongs to me!" Calmly Dewey opened his penknife, stooped down and split off a piece of the deck flooring. Handing it to the incensed American citizen he replied: "There's about what you own, and there's the ladder—now git!" And he got.

A GREAT SENSATION.

There was a big sensation in Leesville, Ind., when W. H. Brown of that place, who was expected to die, had his life saved by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. He writes: "I endured insufferable agonies from Asthma, but your New Discovery gave me immediate relief and soon thereafter effected a complete cure." Similar cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis and Grip are numerous. It's the peerless remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c, and $1.00. Guaranteed by E. H. Miller, Druggist. Trial bottles free. 5-1

Watched All Points.

The late Senator Hanna had a keen mind, and in contest of wit he was seldom defeated, says the New York News.

There is a certain Cleveland lawyer whom Senator Hanna liked to tantalize, though the two men were really good friends.

At a banquet in Cleveland Mr. Hanna nodded toward this lawyer and said: "Gentlemen, you see Brown there? Well, I was in Brown's office yesterday when his client in that contested will case called to square accounts. The client stood out in the hall and handed his bill in to Brown to be receipted."

"Come in," Brown called to him, cordially. But the client shook his head.

"No, thank you," he said; "you'd charge me for rent if I did."
