President Ordonez, of Uruguay, had been warned that preparations were being made for an insurrectionary expedition and despatched two forces with armed vessels to waten for the expedition. At night the government troops attacked the insurrectionists with a continuous and merciless fire. Many of the latter swam ashore, but eight badly wounded, were captured. The fate of the others is not known. The insurrectionary vessel was also captured and with it a considerable quantity of telegraph apparatus. Diplomatic relations between Argentina and Uruguay have become much strained owing to this incident.

St. Petersburg Builds Hopes.
The latest information from the front is summed up in a dispatch from Cailu, showing that the Japanese in the assaults on-Port Arthur August 21 and 22 were again repulsed with heavy losses. The feeling grows here that the ferocity of the repeated attacks and the defeats must be gradually dissipating the energy of the besiegers, and that the Japanese may find that 'they have broken their teeth on the stones of Port Arthur." It appears that the balance of sea power in the East is thoroughly upset pending the arrival there of the Baltic squadron, which, with the exception of the battleship Orel, left Kronstadt on a 10-days' crusse.
