CORTELYOU IS PLEASED

Congratulates Penrose On Activity of Pennsylvania Republicans.

AIDING NATIONAL COMMITTEE

State Committee Is Co-Operating With the Members of the National Committee in the Campaign For Roose velt and Fairbanks.

[special Correspondence.] Philadelphia, Sept. 6.

A fitting compliment was paid to the Republican organization of Pennsylva-nia last week by Chairman Cortelyou, of the Republican national committee. It was upon the occasion of Senator Penrose's visit to the national commit-tee headquarters in New York, when the subject of state organizations wa under consideration.
"Pennsylvania Republicans have the "Pennsylvania Republicans have the finest, most compact and most loyal Republican organization in the country," said Chairman Cortelyou, "and I fervently wish that other states would copy the methods and manifest the enthusiasm and the ardor which is being shown by the Republicans of the Keytons state in the reseast campaign."

shown by the Republicans of the Keystone state in the present campaign."
Senator Penrose visited the national chairman upon a special invitation from Mr. Cortelyou, who desired to talk over a number of matters of importance in connection with the presidential campaign. Their interview was a most cordial and satisfactory one, and Chairman Cortelyou was assured that he could always count upon Pennsylvania for men and money, as occasion demanded.

As chairman of the Republican state As chairman of the Republican state committee, Senator Penrose has organized a corps of spellbinders, whose services have been placed at the call of Chairman Cortelyou for duty in the Goubtful states, and he has already done considerable effective work in aiding the members of the advisory committees named by the national chairman to collect campaign subscriptions, for the presidentific contest. Pennsylvania is second only to New York in the amount of meney contributed to Republican campaigns, and with the co-operation of State Chairman Penrose the representatives of the national rose the representatives of the national committee who are soliciting contribu-tions in this state will, it is believed.

be able to make gratifying reports.

Information received at the state headquarters daily indicates a general disposition among Republicans to help make good Senator Penrose's prediction that Pennsylvania will even surpass the record-breaking majority of 301,000 for McKinley by giving Roose-velt at least 325,000 majority. It was this statement to Chairman Cortelyou that brought forth his very complimen tary reference to the Republican organ-ization of Pennsylvania.

No one not thoroughly familiar with has stood for 50 years, ever loyal to the principles of Republicanism and ever steadfast to the Republican nominees. This organization was not built in a day. It is the result of the careful, watchful interest of men of intelligence and activity; men who have labored hard to cement the various interests in the several counties and who have welded together into a compact body the brains and the brawn of stalwart Republicanism of every section of the commonwealth.

Republicanism of pro-commonwealth.

The organization of Pennsylvania today represents hundreds of thousands of Republican yoters who are in touch with the precinct committees and of Republican yoters who are in touch with the precinct committees and through them the county organizations and the state committee. These voters are all enrolled, and their names and addresses are kept permanently at the headquarters of the state committee in this city. The lists are carefully arranged, and are always available for communications to be sent directly by the charman of the state committee on the chairman of the state committee on

Andrews, who has been engaged on this work for many years, is almost as busy between campaigns perfecting his lists as he is in the midst of a desperately fought political contest. Senator Penrose, who succeeds the late Senator Matthew Stanley Quay as leader of the Republican organization of Pennsylvania, was a trusted lieutenant of the great leader who recently passed away, and he has a trusted lieutenant of the great leader who recently passed away, and he has endeavored to follow his example in keeping the party organization constantly on a "fighting basis." Senator Penrose has gone further. He has eought to harmonize the party wherever differences have existed, and he has made it a rule to consult the active Republicans of every district before acting upon any proposition affecting that district. He believes that the men, who labor year in and year out in the interest of the party are the men to be consulted. consulted.

As chairman of the state committee, As chairman of the state committee, he believes that every young Republican ambitious to be a factor in his party's organization should follow this course, and he has advised many young men since the opening of the present men since the opening of the present contest to at once get in touch with the committeemen from their respec-tive precincts and volunteer for duty throughout the campaign. He holds that this is the only way for a young Republican to become a power in his party organization.

Many expositions of stupendous char Many expositions of stupendous character make up the World's Fair of 1804. Each part is a vast and distinct show. Each building shelters many acres of wonderful things—wonderful because they are the choicest of their kind. Every nation on the globe is represented. Every state and territory is here with its best and making the most of its greatest opportunity. The fact that China has not been a large exhibitor at world's fairs gives to her great exhibit here a prominence quite exceptional. It is a wonderland of ingenious productions. We know China best by reason of her extensive exports of teas, which have found a

The teas exhibited vary in price from a few cents a pound to some rare and exclusive kinds that are worth their weight in gold, the tea in the latter weight in gold, the tea in the latter cases being placed on one side of the scales and pure gold on the other—that is to say, the tea of this expensive kind is worth about $20 gold an ounce. Only a very small quantity of this exclusive leaf is exhibited, and it is clusive leaf is exhibited, and it is grown in carefully guarded tea plantations, or, gardiens right, under the product own of the great wall of China. Its cultivation is prohibited for any use save for the imperial family of China and a few of the favored high officials.

Mention has been made of the word "chop" in connection with tea, and it may be interesting to the everyday reader to know what the word actually signifies. The tea leaf is grown in various districts of the Chinese empire on and consequently a like number of "chops" of tea.

It must not be imagined that all these different owners of the tea get the same price for their commodity—far from it, as each of these individual tea growers has his own secrets for improving the quality and davor of tea. Take, for instance, the Amoy and Fuchau districts, whence most of the tea for the United States comes. The owners of "chops" of tea varying from 10 to 200 chests of 56 pounds each bring samples of their goods to the various foreign merchants for sale. These interturn. the Chinese tea growers over to the good offices of the foreign or American professional tea taster, who to the good offices of the foreign or American professional tee taster, who passes on the goods as to price. The tea taster has the samples infused, not boiled, in his presence and passes upon the quality, flavor, twang and manner of curing, fixing a price accordingly, from which there is never any varia-tion and which the tea grower must ac-cept any elegenters to dispose of his tion and which the tea grower must accept or go elsewhere to dispose of his wares. In a single tract of tea land like the one cited above the price has ranged from 14 cents, the lowest, to 48½ cents, the highest, per pound among sixty-one different tea producers. A matter of great moment that also figures in the price of tea is that very often tea from the same district will have the various "chops" blended together in order to produce special flavors.

BRYANISM AND DEMOCRACY. Political parties do not drop political rinciples by failing to mention them. In 1892 the Democratic party declared that Republican protection was un-constitutional and a robbery of the many for the few. The Chicago convention of 1896 did not discuss the tariff nor repent the declaration of four years before, but no one doubted that the Democratic position was still opposed to Republican protection. It was plainly understood and needed no explanation

The same is true of the Democratic party's position on the money question. In 1896 that party declared free silver the paramount issue, and in 1900 it reaffirmed the Chicago platform.

In reply to Judge Parker's telegram stating his position on the money ques-tion, the St. Louis convention said that the money question was not mentioned in the platform because it was not considered an issue in this campaign. The party did not recant. It did not repudiate its paramount issue of 1896 and 1900. It simply passed it over as it passed over the tariff in 1896. No one has denied that the Democratic party still stands for free silver now as it has for eight years past. The Committee on Resolutions by a two-thirds vote refused to incorporate even a very mild gold plank, giving the Almighty credit for meeting the Demo-president and of a Democratic con-gress favorable to the Democratic idea of free trade. Capital and labor will figure conspicuously in this meeting, which is likely to be one of the most unique features of the presidential contest.

But the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill became a law without President Cleveland's signature, and disasters followed thick and fast. ever votes the Democratic ticket this year yotes for the same old Democratic party which sought control in 1896 and 1900. The record of that party in Congress has been the same that it Congress has been the same than it was in the last two national campaigns. It has been loyal to all the old Bryanisms, and a Democratic majority in Congress would bring all these old heresies to the front, not as party doctrines, but in the form of legislation to make them National
