PHILIPPINES AT WORLD'S FAIR
Complete Exhibition of Island People and Industries Covers Forty-seven Acres and is Independent of Larger Show.

Not even in the heart of Manila city could there be found forty-seven acres of Philippine territory as interesting as that amount of space covered by the islands' display at the World's Fair. Here is an exposition within an exposition, a little wheel that revolves independently of the larger one encompassing it.

Scores of buildings are filled with exhibits, native life is depicted by as many different villages as there are tribes on the islands, military drills are given by Philippine troops, and concerts are rendered by native bands. For its amusement features the Philippine exposition has the humorous Igorrote, who dines on dog meat, and visitors are entertained by Visayan actors and actresses. Nothing is lacking to make the show complete.

The Administration building is a replica of the government offices in Manila, while the Art and Education building reproduces in miniature the cathedral within the walled city, even the mellowed tints of age being faithfully rendered. A section of the ancient but still serviceable town wall has been reconstructed to serve the double purpose of a gateway to the show and a museum of arms and war relics. The other main edifices are types of Filipino homes, being built of undressed timber, bamboo and rattan, with thatched roofs and broad verandas.

Then there are the tribal villages, nesting under the trees, some of the houses perched high up among the boughs, others on piles above the waters of the Arrowhead lake, all of them actual dwellings fashioned of native materials by native workmanship and illustrating the manners, customs and pursuits of their occupants. Here are women weaving a coarse cloth on a rude hand loom, others making baskets, others tending irrigated fields of rice. One group of men are in village council, trying an offender according to their tribal laws; others are slowly moving in a circular dance to the thump of tom-toms and the clang of brass gongs; others, again, are smelting iron by the aid of a primitive but most ingenious bellows, the constituent parts of which are a bamboo tube and an air-tight mop of feathers working therein like the piston of a syringe. And these are but a few of an almost endless variety of life pictures.

The ethnological problem is a somewhat complicated one; but, although there are no fewer than sixteen races represented among the village dwellers, the scouts and the constabulary, each race speaking its own dialect and following its own customs, all may be roughly classified into four groups—the true aboriginals or non-Malays, the pagan Malays, the Christian Malays and the Mohammedan Malays.

The first are the dwarf Negritos, with dark skins and woolly heads, wearers of scanty raiment, proficient in the use of the bow and poisoned arrow, a race of nomads and forest dwellers, pagans pure and simple. They live in their own stockaded villages.

Next to them are the Igorrotes, whose origin is traced back to the first wave of Malay invasion. Here, again, we have scanty clothing, amounting almost to nudity, but copper colored skins, long wavy tresses, pleasant featured faces and fine physiques, even though the stature be small. Among these pagan Malays are the head-butters and the dog eaters. They are savages, yet have their code of laws and a knowledge of several primitive industries.

The Christian Malays, produced by the second wave of invasion, are represented by the Visayans, a tall and handsome race, dressing well, living in pretty homes, skilled in weaving, dyeing, basket making, hat making, wood carving and other handicrafts, muscians of no mean merit, the one group of natives who came early and thoroughly under the influence of the early Spanish settlers.

Very different are the Moros, who swept into the islands from the Malay peninsula last of all, bringing with them their Mohammedan religion, also a knowledge of gunpowder acquired from the Koran from the Arabs—fanatics like their teachers, pirates, blood-thirsty, treacherous and vindictive fellows, ever at war among themselves and with the whole outside world. Despite their ferocity they are a clever race, dress handsomely, have their sultans and their slaves and are expert seamen, while long continued pillage on the high seas has surrounded them with many of the luxuries and conveniences of western civilization.

The buildings of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries show all the varied natural products, also the extremely primitive processes as yet in vogue, while in the Women's building we are introduced to a number of native manufactures, including the beautiful fabrics from the just, banana and pineapple fibers. This information is collated in the Building of Commerce, where a unique and most effective method of exhibiting is followed. In one hall are expert, among which manila fiber, of course, holds the chief place of prominence, while in a second hall are all the manufactures from every country that are imported and find a ready market among the populace. Thus the business man gets a dual lesson. He sees what he can profitably take from the islands, and also what he may profitably send to them. When it is added that a large number of representative Filipinos have been brought over to visit the Exposition and study American business methods and manufactures, it will be recognized that great benefit both to the islands and to the world at large must result from this work of mutual enlightenment.

CONCERTS BY MASSES BANDS

Prizes Aggregating $30,000 to Be Distributed at the World's Fair.

Never were musical events in America planned upon such an elaborate scale as those of the World's Fair. A series of concerts will be given by competing bands in contest for prizes offered by the World's Fair. These contests will take place in Festival Hall, Sept. 12 to 17.

Nine cash prizes, aggregating $30,000, are offered for the successful bands. The prizes are divided so as to give to the organization scoring the highest number of points $3,250; $2,500 will be given to the band scoring the second highest number of points and $1,500 to the one getting the third highest number.

The above division is made for bands in Class A, which consist of twenty members. In the B class $10,000 will be given in prizes—first, $4,500; second, $3,500; third, $2,000.

Class C, which includes bands of thirty-five members, will enjoy the division of $12,750. For the organization scoring the highest number of points a prize of $6,000 has been named. The second prize is $4,000 and the third $2,700.

Bands employed by the Exposition are not permitted to contest. All players must be bona fide members, and each musician must have been enrolled at least three months prior to the date of the contest. Each band must send to the bureau the name of its members and a nominal entrance fee.

Festival Hall concerts by massed bands will be given at 7:30 each day during the contest, in which all contesting bands will take part under the direction of a distinguished conductor. All bands entering must agree to play one concert in addition to the competing concert and massed concerts.

A separate programme has been prepared by the Bureau of Music for each class, and each band will play through the full programme of its class. The numbers in all three programmes are by eminent composers and are chosen with the view of bringing out the qualities of the bands performing them. The list of composers includes Wagner, Gounod, Offenbach, Verdi, Saint-Saens, Bizet, Strauss and Leoncavallo.

WEATHER AT WORLD'S FAIR.

Cool Nights and Delightful Indian Summer to Be Expected at St. Louis.

Usually the warmest month of the year, July proved to be one of the most pleasant of the World's Fair season, the average temperature being 67 degrees, a record lower than that made by either Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati or Chicago. The weather bureau records show that the temperatures in St. Louis during July were just between the extremes recorded at New Orleans and St. Paul, cities located at great variance.

August in St. Louis is a month of cool nights, and September and October are the most delightful months of the year. It is that period known as Indian summer, when the foliage and birds linger to challenge the coming winter. Nowhere on the American continent is there a spot more delightful than the World's Fair city, a garden of blooming flowers and spraying fountains.

St. Louis, like all cities, experienced several hot days during July, but her highest temperature recorded was 93 degrees against 94 degrees registered by the thermometer at Chicago. On the same day the mercury rose to 96 degrees in Philadelphia, and scores of heat prostrations were reported from New York and Boston.

The relative humidity shows St. Louis to be about normal. Assuming absolutely no moisture in the atmosphere to be zero and absolute wetness to be 100, the relative humidities for July, taken from the records of more than twenty years, Boston shows 70.6, New York 72.2, Philadelphia 68.6, Cincinnati 64.6, Chicago 66.9 and St. Louis 66.3. The same degree of heat in two places, with different degrees of humidity, would cause it to seem the hotter at the point of greater density.

St. Louis may therefore rightly claim to be a summer resort this summer, positively one of the most comfortable and delightful places on the map.

STATE PRESS IS TRUE

Pennsylvania Editors Loyal Supporting Roosevelt and Fairbanks.

HOT SHOT FOR THE OPPOSITION

Loyal Support to the Republican Party's Candidates and the Organization All Along the Line.

Never have the editors of Republican newspapers throughout Pennsylvania manifested a more lively interest in the success of the Republican candidates—local, state and national, than in the present campaign. They have lined up enthusiastically for the whole Republican ticket, and they are daily pouring hot shot into the ranks of the opposition. There is no insurgency, there is no swerving either to the right or left, but all are united in sustaining the magnificent administration of President Roosevelt and in steadfastly supporting the Republican organization. Here are a few excerpts from newspapers published in this state bearing upon the political situation:

Good Politics and Good Sense.

It is very essential to the best interests of the country that a Republican house of representatives should be elected at the coming fall elections. It would mean that the congress would, at its next reorganization continue to be a harmonious body, politically, and capable of acting upon definite lines of legislation in accordance with the policies of the dominant party.

There does not seem to be any reason why a Republican house should not be elected. Nothing has occurred to present a new situation to the country warranting a reversal of its previous endorsements of Republican legislation and Republican policies. Since the 53d congress, the house has been Republican and with the senate has enacted legislation which has been approved by the voters at the polls. What is there in the present platform of the Democrats to urge the voters to make a change in their national political body? And, above all, what is there in prospect to warrant dividing congress so that it cannot do anything at all?—York Dispatch.

As to Republican Confidence.

Republican confidence in an overwhelming victory at the polls next November and the election of President Roosevelt is growing stronger every day. It is confidence based upon the splendid record of the party in the past and faith in the people for the future. The party has nothing to explain and nothing to excuse on its square before the country on its own merits. It knows full well that the people desire no change in the present administration and that its policy of peace, protection and progress is the settled policy of the nation.—Oil City Derrick.

Parker's Popularity in Wall Street.

The trend of quiet sentiment in Vermont was a shock to the Democratic prophets. The slap at the governor of Arkansas, though principally personal, was disturbing to the Democratic managers. Maine brings them no comfort. There are no influences and no issues anywhere upon which the Democracy can depend to win any large element of the voters. The satisfaction of Wall Street with Judge Parker is not a factor of popular strength, and the race issue has even failed to arouse the south.—Pittsburg Gazette.

"Mister" Parker, Speak Up.

The country is anxiously waiting to hear from Mister Parker on the tariff question. He accepts the Democratic platform which calls protection robbery. If he would only be a little more explicit and explain to us who is being robbed we would be the better able to judge of just where he stands and how far revision would go were he in a position to advocate a change in our present tariff laws.—Connellsville Courier.

This is a Growing Country.

Nobody will challenge Judge Parker's assertion that the latest Republican administration spent more money than any Democratic government that preceded it. The country insists on growing, and the bigger it grows the more it costs to keep it going.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Signs of Renewed Prosperity.

From many sections of Pennsylvania come reports of the starting up of the mills—always an indication of the confidence business interests have that financial conditions are not likely to be disturbed by the overturning of a cold administration.—Warren Mirror.

"Safe and Sure States."

The returns from Maine show that it still holds its own in the Republican column. The "safe and sure" states are standing by the Republican banner in great shape this year.—Scranton Truth.

An Appeal to Principle, Not Passion.

The independent voter is to decide the election. He is moved by appeals to principle rather than passion and will therefore vote the Republican ticket.—Mifflinburg Telegraph.

Aguinaldo Forgotten.

The Democrats appear to have overlooked Aguinaldo in their selection of campaign speakers.—Warren Mirror.
