LABOR FOR ROOSEVELT
President Popular With Wage-Earners Throughout the Country.
HAS SHOWN INTEREST IN THEM

Continuance of the Nation, He Believes, Depends Upon the Prosperity of the Workingmen.
[Special Correspondence.]
Harrisburg, Oct. 18.

One of the reasons why Chairman Penrose, of the Republican state committee, is so confident of polling a record-breaking majority for Roosevelt this fall is the unusual interest taken in the campaign by the vast army of wage earners of this state, who look upon the president as their particular friend and champion.

Probably no other candidate for the presidency ever enjoyed the enthusiastic support of labor which is being given Theodore Roosevelt in the present campaign. This condition of affairs is based not only upon his official acts since he came into public life, but upon his personal interest shown on many occasions in the welfare of the workingmen. He has not played the part of the demagogue, which many politicians who start out to get the so-called labor vote seem to think they must do. He has invariably shown that he recognizes the fact that the stability of this republic must depend upon the great army of workers who make possible the great industrial and business development that is witnessed throughout the United States.

All the schemes and artful tactics of the Democrats in this campaign to array the "labor vote" against the Republican ticket, especially in the closely-contested congressional districts, have been signal failures.

A few corrupt labor leaders may have been subsidized here and there to send out campaign literature in the interest of the Democracy, but the vast army of voters among the industrial, manufacturing, agricultural and business interests of the nation will be with Roosevelt and his party at the coming election.

Union labor and those not identified with any organization are of one mind in their support of the Republican party in this campaign. There is nothing either in the Democratic platform or the records of the Democratic candidates that appeals to the workingmen.

The editor of the Labor World, of Pittsburg, in commenting upon the candidacy of President Roosevelt a few days ago, said:

"It is, indeed, difficult to perceive why any trade unionist, or, in fact, wage workers in general should be opposed to Theodore Roosevelt in his candidature for the presidency of the country. Sound objections are not discernible either from a standpoint of logic or expediency. Since George Washington first became the executive head of the country right up to the death of McKinley, labor has not had a better friend at the head of the nation than Theodore Roosevelt. It is extremely problematical as to whether or not he has had an equal in this respect.

"Organized labor has ever been demanding equality; a fair show in the race. This has always been the dominant cry of trade unionism. No man as executive head of the nation has done more toward establishing this equality than President Roosevelt."

Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, has been visiting the manufacturing centres of the country, and has had among his audiences many thousands of workingmen, and his remarks have invariably been applauded vigorously. In one of his recent speeches he made these timely statements:

"The Democratic party has always assumed that the one requisite to human happiness and prosperity is cheap living expenses. The Republican party, on the contrary, has always urged the importance of high-priced products, whether that product be a day's work or the result of a day's work. The Democrats promise the best market in the world in which to buy, and we promise the best market in the world in which to sell. Both have been signally successful in bringing about the promised conditions.

"Every time the Democratic party has had control of both houses of congress or the presidency it has reduced the price of food and clothes and wages to a minimum, and the Republican party has never had control without enlarging the American market, both for wages and the product of wages. The Democratic party always advocated the open door in America, as well as in Asia, and it assumes that if the United States will swing its doors wide open, then the world will emulate our generosity. Democrats express their theories of reciprocity after this manner:

"If we will give the world its share of our trade, then the world will grant us our share of its trade. This sounds very sweet, but before we consummate the exchange we had better inquire what the world's market is worth. The aggregate export of the world's market is about $10,000,000,000. Thus the Democratic party, in effect, says: Give the world its share of our $20,000,000,000 domestic trade, and we can get our share of the world's $10,000,000,000 export trade.

"We do get our share of this export trade, and we get a larger share than any other nation, and more than one-eighth of the aggregate. I recommend that the Democratic proposition be rejected."

PLEDGE TO PRESIDENT
Republican Voters Will Fulfill Senator Penrose's Prediction.
TO BEAT MCKINLEY MAJORITY

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.

With but three weeks left for campaigning, the voters of Pennsylvania have but little time to prepare for the election, which takes place on Tuesday, November 8.

While much work has been done by the members of the Republican committees throughout the state, Chairman Penrose is urging all who take an active interest in the party organization to leave nothing undone to get every Republican to the polls that can be possibly got to vote.

On a visit to the White House a few days ago Senator Penrose told President Roosevelt that Pennsylvania will give him a greater majority than has ever been given to a presidential candidate, and the president expressed himself as greatly pleased with this report. In order to make good his prediction, Senator Penrose has appealed to the rank and file of the organization in every county to take the McKinley vote as their guide and seek to exceed it in every voting precinct.

Already plans are being made by young Republicans to participate at President Roosevelt's inauguration, and it is the wish of all who hope to be present that Pennsylvania shall be able to carry on their banners the announcement that the Keystone State gave Roosevelt the largest Republican majority in her history.

Not only is it desired that Roosevelt's majority shall be the greatest on record, but the aim of the party leaders is to have Pennsylvania continue to have the largest Republican delegation in congress. This cannot be done without the hearty co-operation of the Republican voters generally. Following next November's election there is to be a great future for the active Republicans of Pennsylvania, and all who wish to share in the glory of the triumph and to be a part of the great victorious hosts who will celebrate the election of Roosevelt on November 8 should begin now to enroll themselves for the struggle at the polls and to earn the honor of having contributed to the grand result.

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the Republican state committee, is authority for the statement that never before in his many years of connection with the organization have there been so many young men taking a hand in the campaign work.

Every Republican should inform himself regarding the issues of the campaign, so that he can intelligently discuss them with the doubtful voters or Democratic neighbors. Editor E. B. McKee, of the Reporter-Journal and Bradford Republican, in reviewing the situation a few days ago said:

"Thus far there is no indication that the Democratic party has made any progress towards diminishing the Republican majority given at the last presidential election. The divisions in the Democratic party which have been fatal to its success continue. One Democratic leader wants a tariff for revenue only, another dreads any proposal to disturb existing industrial conditions; one wishes to make an immediate promise of independence to the Philippines; another is equally certain that any proposal to haul down the flag will be unpopular; one lays stress on the demand of the platform for increasing the power of the interstate commerce commission; another on Judge Parker's affirmation that new legislation is necessary.

"One year the party is for free silver; another year silence. One year free trade; another year protection with tariff revision trimmings. It has no definite principle, no defined policy; simply a consuming hunger for the spoils of office and a chronic habit of condemning what others do. No one knows what they will do if they regain power; and it is this doubt that makes business interests timid and the people afraid to entrust them with the control of the government."

The Bryan speeches are not helping Parker. One of Tom Watson's supporters said:

"It is singular how Bryan has lost the respect of his once ardent followers. His support of Parker has not influenced a single man in the east who was his supporter in his two campaigns. Bryan's followers have lost faith in him, because they now question his sincerity. I do not think that Parker has a ghost of a chance."

CAMPAIGN KEYNOTES
Timely Comment On Live Issues
By Pennsylvania Editors.
ROOSEVELT AND PATRIOTISM

Good Republican Thoughts For the Closing Days of the Canvass in Pennsylvania.

The editors of Republican newspapers in Pennsylvania continue to lead the fighting in the presidential campaign. Their editorial expressions are being widely quoted, and the Republican national committee has made free use of this matter in the campaign of education which is being waged in all of the doubtless there are a few recent editorial utterances from the state press:

Cannon Points the Danger.
As to the Parker plea that the Democratic free trade plank cannot do any harm, because the Democrats have not the power to change the tariff, Speaker Cannon said in a speech at South Bend, Ind., the other night: "Suppose the country takes Mr. Parker at his word. It would be equivalent to giving notice to the country, unless there is a change of sentiment, that at the end of two years the opposition would come into full power. We discount the future. The manufacturer will say, 'I will not produce and trust to the future.' The retailer will say, 'I will buy carefully; notice has been served that we are to have a change of policy.' The farmer will say for the same reason, 'I will buy less; I will set my house in order.' Everybody draws in sails."—Lancaster Morning News.

Get Ready For Salt River!
A boat large enough to carry six persons may be carried in a trunk or valise. This is because the principle of the pneumatic tire has been applied with much success to boat building. Every Democrat should carry such a boat around with him to have it handy for his trip up Salt River the day after election.—Norrystown Herald.

They Know Fairbanks Now.
One of the surprises of the present campaign is the way Senator Fairbanks has grown into the respect and affection of the people. Never for a moment surrendering the dignity of his position, he is a good mixer, and he is glad to meet the people.—Johnstown Tribune.

Confidence Has Returned.
The Marshall furnace at Newport and the Newport Extract Works, after a long shut-down, resume this week. With the certainty of President Roosevelt's election confidence has returned and prosperity will continue.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Business Is Promising.
Despite the efforts of Democratic organs, who in order to gain a political point would paralyze trade for the season if possible, business has never been as promising during a presidential campaign as this year.—Scranton Tribune.

Dreams of the Democracy.
One by one the day dreams of Pennsylvania Democrats are dissipated. They have dropped from the effort to get an additional congressman or two to an attempt to break into the state legislature.—Pittsburg Gazette.

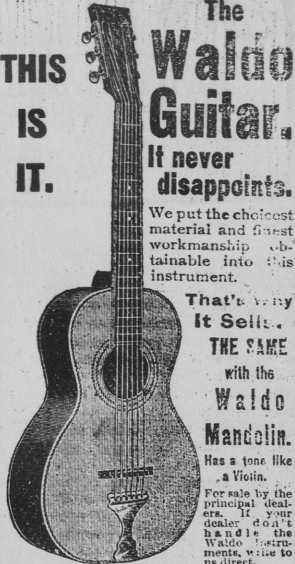

Democrats Very Hungry.
Republicans should not allow themselves to become indifferent believing that Republican victory is assured. Democrats always vote—and they are very hungry.—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

Why You Don't Shout.
If there is a lack of enthusiasm in the present presidential campaign you have only yourself to blame. You don't shout because you believe Roosevelt has a walkover.—Chester Republican.

What Democratic Success Means.
Tariff reduction can mean but one thing to the workingmen and business men of this nation—idleness, and its horrible train of want and suffering.—Mt. Carmel Daily News.

Roosevelt Stumped the Democracy.
There has been no quarrel among Democrats for the privilege of answering the questions to the party propounded in President Roosevelt's letter.—Reading Herald.
