MESSENGER FATALLY HURT.

Order to Freight Train Contained An Error of Twenty Minutes Too Much Time.

Eight persons were killed and five injured, two seriously, in a head-on shortly after midnight between Union Pacific west-bound passenger train No. 3 and an east-bound extra freight train, a short distance

John B. Winslow of Evanston, Pacific Express messenger, was fatally injured. Frank Nolan of Cheyenne, mail clerk, was badly injured and may not recover.

The wreck, it is said, was the result of an error in a train order by a telegraph operator. The freight train was given 30 minutes to make Azura and meet the westbound passenger, but the order delivered to the freight crew read, "50 minutes" and the trains came together at great speed. Both engines were demolished, the mail and baggage cars telescoped, and the day coach went into the ditch. The Pullmans did not leave the track.

New Regulations Will Go Into Effect Next Year.

By the direction of the Secretary of War, orders have been issued carrying into effect the recommendation of the general staff making changes in the uniforms of the army. The provision for substituting as collar ornaments the letters "U. S." instead of the coat of arms will take effect June 1, 1905. As a rule various articles of the new uniform for enlisted men will not be issued until the corresponding articles of the old pattern shall have been exhausted. The cap prescribed is intended for habitual wear in the garrison with the service uniform, but the campaign hat is retained for wear on certain occasions. The wearing of the white uniform is made entirely optional with both officers and enlisted men.

The feport of the department of justice will be made to the president, who will take up the matter with Postmaster General Wynne for whatever action developments may show to be necessary.

The heaviest snowfall along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was at Martinsburg and Harpers Ferry, where the ground was covered with about an inch of snow.

Lord Lansdowne's veiled suggestion that the Russo-Japanese conflict might be settled by arbitration finds an unfavorable echo. The sentiment reveals stronger than ever that Russia's prestige must be vindicated before the idea of peace can be enterprised. Hopeless as seems the idea of bringing the war to a conclusion, there are those in high quarters who consider that there is a bare possibility of it on the basis of arbitration, if such a proposition came directly from Japan. A proposal from Japan to arbitrate the controversy would appeal strongly to Emperor Nicholas.

Three persons were burned to death, half a dozen others were overcome by smoke and saved only with the greatest difficulty by the firemen, and more than 30 others, after a thrilling experience on a narrow and crowded fire escape, were taken to the street in their night clothes in a fire which destroyed a five-story apartment house on the upper East Side, New York.

Of the three victims two were Blanche and Lillian Euhlan, 15 and 18 years old. The other was their grandfather, Frederick Webber, 69 years old. He was a helpless paralytic, yet, under the excitement of the terrible fate threatening him, he arose from his bed and made his way to the hall where his body, burned to a crisp, was found.
