STEEL STRIKE LOST.
Youngstown, O., Nov. 10.—A break has come in the big steel strike here, and today men are flocking back to work. Yesterday two men prominent in Amalgamated councils returned to work. Men inside the mill held a reception for them when they came in this morning. It is said five more of the strikers went to work, and more are to follow immediately. Eleven men have just arrived at the plant from Pittsburg. It is confidently expected that the Executive Board will hold a meeting shortly and declare the strike off. There is no question now but that it is irrevocably lost.

THE UNION UNION.
He planted a union onion. For he was a union man, And he managed all of his affairs On a rigid union plan.
He tended his union onion With patience and gentle care; But the union onion went on strike, To the union man's despair.
He asked of the union onion If it wouldn't arbitrate; But the onion said it could not, for Its grievance was too great.
"What grievance, oh, union onion?" He asked; and the onion said, "Well, I want a union chambermaid To be making up my bed."
—Judge.

A RUNAWAY BICYCLE
Terminated with an ugly cut on the leg of J. B. Orner, Franklin Grove, Ill. It developed a stubborn ulcer unyielding to doctors and remedies for four years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured. It's just as good for Burns, Scalds, Skin Eruptions and Piles. 25c, at E. H. Miller's Drug Store. 12-1

Wants New County.
The Frostburg Journal of recent date makes the following announcement in its columns:
"Dr. G. W. Slick, of Grantsville, afore-time veterinary-surgeon of Thoburn Post, G. A. R., came down to vote, Tuesday, and returned Wednesday, feeling that the country he had fought so valiantly to save was again lost. He was cheerful enough to state, however, that though he did not know whether the bond proposal in his county to raise money to build a new court house and jail had won or lost. He believed, however, that the majority was against it. He went so far as to say there is an extensive settlement in the northern part of the county, latent but strong, in favor of a new county, including territory from both Garrett and Allegany, and Frostburg as the county-seat! Then, with an electric road from Grantsville to Frostburg, hundreds of people could come down to testify before the grand jury, where only a few can afford to travel 110 miles to Oakland and back, and be away from home 3 days for that purpose! It was one of the strongest presentations of a real, big, meritorious enterprise, the Journal has heard since 1876."

New Counterfeit $10 Note.
Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, has issued a notice regarding the appearance of a new counterfeit $10 United States note (Buffalo note). It is of the series of 1901, bearing check letter D, plate number 174. While the general appearance of the counterfeit is deceptive, the flimsy character of the paper and the coarseness of the silk threads, together with the fact that a period is used between "Washington" and "D. C.," should enable the careful handler to easily determine its true character.

How He Managed Things.
"Oh George," said the sweet girl to her lover, "that horrid man on the other side of the street has been following us the last half-hour, and he keeps on staring so boldly at me!"
"My darling," said Jones, "why didn't you tell me before? I'll step across and teach the impudent puppy a lesson!"
And like a warrior thirsting for blood, he walked across the street and stood before the stalker.
"Look here, Reefer," he said, "I am sorry I haven't got the money to pay you. But it's really too bad, you know, to follow me about when I'm doing my best to land that young heires across the street. Wait a bit longer, man, and you'll get your money, and an order for the finest wedding suit you fellows can turn out."
Reefer went off and Jones rejoined his adored one.
"I'm very glad that you called my attention to the scoundrel," he said. "I spoke to him pretty sternly, and I don't think he'll stare at you again. If he hadn't gone off he'd have been thrashed."

"How brave he is!" she murmured, as she linked her arm once more in his.

YOU CAN SEE THEY'RE MARRIED.
Now's the time you see them going Somewhere on a little trip. Everybody's looking knowing As he notes the lady's grip. Now, of course; the man's attention For a doubt leaves little room. It's superfluous to mention That the pair are bride and groom.
Still, at times they treat each other With a perfect unconcern. He his feelings tries to smother, Looks quite dignified and stern. Most sedately and demurely She behaves, the fact to hide; I suppose she thinks that surely None suspects that she's a bride.
Little do they know that littered Rice grains lie around the aisle, That is why the porter tittered, That's what made the brakeman smile.
Now's the time you see them going. In this merry month of June, Everything about them showing They are on their honeymoon.

A WEATHER FORECAST.

"The glass is still rising, though very unsteady."—Topeka State Journal.

Son Needed Training.
Representative Maddox of Georgia has a son who recently graduated from law school and has hung out his shingle in Rome. A few days ago the son visited Washington and had a long talk with his father about the law business.
"Oh, yes, father," he said, as the conference neared an end, "I've settled that Blank vs. Blank suit, which you've had dragging on for the past years."
Judge Maddox almost jumped from his chair.
"Great Scott, boy!" he exclaimed, "you don't mean that you've gone and settled that case. Why, I turned that over to you as a life annuity."
Judge Maddox has announced that he will retire from congress at the end of his present term. "And I reckon," he said in relating the incident, "that it's a good thing. My son needs initiation into the practice of law."—Washington Post.

NO THIRD LOAD.
A negro of my acquaintance had agreed to pay a third of his cotton and corn crop to his landlord. When the season had passed and inquiry was made why he had brought no corn for rent, he explained:
"Well, you see, boss," said he, "twus dis way. I tuk'n heaped all dat sawn crap on de groves, an' I was gwine tuh haul two loads to my crib an' den one load to youm, an' two loads to my crib agin an' one to youm. I hauled dem fust two loads all right, but dey wuz'n no third one fo' you' rent."—World's Work.

Perce of Habit.
The master plumber had become rich, and was going abroad for his health. On the voyage a school of whales was sighted and the plumber was seen to rub his hands in ecstasies.
"Why is he so happy?" asked a curious passenger.
"He can't help it," whispered the captain. "He imagines each spout is a burst water pipe, to be repaired by him at his old rates."—Stray Stories.

JUST LAUGHS

The Winner to the World.
You may laugh at my plans, you may say I'm a fool to expect to succeed; You may try to heap things in my way, You may answer me "No" when I plead; You may plot to destroy me, and meet My every advance with a frown, You may spread out your snares for my feet, But you can't keep me down.
You may question my right to aspire, You may rail at my wish to mount high, You may hold back the aid I require, My worth you may grimly deny; You may try to entice me away From the path that leads up to renown, You may scourge me and scoff and betray, But you can't keep me down!
You may bring all your cunning to bear, For the purpose of breaking my will; You may load me with fetters to wear, You may rail at my strength and my skill. You may rob me of love and trust, You may call me knave, coward or clown, You may press my face into the dust, But you can't keep me down!
Chicago Record-Herald.

Will This Be the Case.
James B. Dill, while in Philadelphia told this story:
"Two men were sitting together over a bottle of champagne, and, as usually happens in such cases, the discussion drifted to theological subjects. One man said the only thing that bothered him about the future life was how he was going to get his coat on over his wings.
"Oh, I wouldn't worry about that," retorted his companion. "Your chief difficulty will be to figure out how to get your hat on over your horns."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Storing Up Winter Food.
Rapid disappearance of coal from his bin alarmed Major Higgins, and he determined to trace it. He questioned the man who tended the furnace.
"Rastus," he asked, "where do you reckon my coal has disappeared to?"
Erastus scratched his head thoughtfully.
"Wal, suh," he replied, "Ah—Ah—Ah—Ah reckon dem squibels done took it."
"Squibrels? Take coal? Nonsense!"
"Yessuh, squibels, Majoh Higgins. Dat was nut coal, suh."—Chicago News.
