No Invention.
Lady—Why don't you come to Sunday school any more?
Kid—Wot's de use? Youse has had your picnic.—New York Press.

Marked Out.
Grandma—Well, Tommy, what do you intend to be when you grow up?
Tommy—Ma says I'm going to be a rascal—like pa.

Characteristic Like the Sex.
He—But really, you are so unlike other girls.
She—Well, I certainly would be if I were not pleased to hear you say so.—Brooklyn Life.

Dead Men Tell No Tales.
"How is it that widows generally manage to marry again?"
"Because the only men who could tell tales of them are dead."

It's Also Rough on the Pocket Book.
"Do you think that you derive much benefit from travel?"
"Well," answered the vacuous youth, "it's rather good for the crease in one's trousers, but it's deuced hard on coats."—Washington Post.

Whyness of the Wherefores.
Longleigh—So you have ceased to call on Miss de Coyne, have you?
Shortun—Yes, I don't like her old pirate of a father.
Longleigh—Old pirate of a father?
Shortun—That's what I said. He's a regular old freebooter; the last clapp I was there he kicked me down the front steps.

STEEL A YEAR AGO.

If we could only look ahead
And know what is to be—
But that has been so often said
By those too blind to see.
To-day I sit and mourn my lot
And murmur sad and low:
"If I had only gone and bought
Steel stock a year ago!"

There is a house upon a hill
That long has pleased my eye—
Another's master up there still,
And I pay rent and sigh!
Oh, mine's a bitter, bitter cup,
What joy would claim me, though,
If I had only loaded up
With Steel a year ago.

I long have wished to go and gaze
On scenes in other lands,
To stroll beside Italian bays
And bask on Grecian strands;
I might to-day be on my way
Past groves where olives grow
And bandits hide, if only I'd Bought Steel a year ago.

How pleasing it would be to turn
From daily toil, received
By people who at present spurn
My hand—to be relieved
Of all the cares I long have sought
To push aside—and, oh,
This all might be if I had bought
Up Steel a year ago!

If we might look ahead—but pshaw!
I'll not sit down and pine;
There still are lessons I may draw
From former deals of mine;
I'll bet that Steel to-day would lie
Inactive far below
The price I got it at if I
Had plunged a year ago.

WITH APOLOGIES.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said,
"My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try another two-inch ad."
If such there be, go mark him well,
For him no bank account shall swell,
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home a millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade,
By classified lines or ad displayed,
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly, friends, let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound;
Here let him live in calm repose,
Unthought except by men he owes.
And when he dies go plant him deep,
That naught may break his dreamless sleep.
Where no rude clamor may dispel
The quiet that he loved so well,
And that the world may know its loss,
Place on his grave a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above, "Here lies
A Man who wouldn't advertise."—Ex.

They Have Some Big Liars Out West.

The Carleton (Neb.) Leader says: "A certain man not far from Carleton made the assertion the other day that his brother put up a building in Chicago, and used seven carloads of nails to nail the second floor down. Seven carloads of eight penny nails amount to 42,000,000 nails, and would be enough for 16,800,000 feet of 4-inch flooring, and would cover 385 acres."

Dream Brings Good Luck.

Four years ago in a dream Andrew Sabel, a German lad of 16, employed in the Keystone flour mill, in Nanticoke, Luzerne county, saw a machine by which impurities could be removed from grain before it was ground. So impressed was he that he told his friends he was sure such a machine could be invented, and he declared that he would try to invent it. He worked upon it, and in September last received a patent for a machine like that of his dream. This week he received an offer of $10,000 for the patent right, and is now considering the offer.

Ate 73 Buckwheats.

What is undoubtedly the long distance record in the buckwheat cake-eating line is held by Assistant Postmaster Joseph L. Roberts, Sharon, Pa., who won by one cake in a contest recently conducted under the auspices of Dr. S. S. Gilberts, defeating Paul Gilbert, secretary of the York (Pa.) Wall Paper Company. His record was 73, while Gilbert was able to stow away only 72. The contest was held at Dr. Gilbert's home, and it kept two cooks busy preparing the cakes. Dr. Gilbert dropped out of the contest after he had eaten forty-eight, and his son, Joseph, fainted when he tackled No. 50. This left but the two contestants, and the tournament ended as stated. The cake, a big prize, was awarded to Roberts.

A Crooked Crook.

There was a crooked man,
And he swung a crooked deal,
And made a crooked million
By a crooked little steal;
Then he took a crooked house
In a crooked thoroughfare,
And his crooked neighbors swore
That this crooked man was square;
So he hired a crooked pew
In a crooked little kirk,
And he crooked his little knees,
And got in his crooked work.

THE DAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

'Twas the day before Christmas, and all through the place
There was racket and trouble—a horrible case;
Little Willie had found where the raisins were hid,
And he stuffed himself full to the tonsils, he did!
Little Daisy discovered high up on a shelf
A dollie that she was to have for herself;
When mamma found out she at once took the doll
To be sent to the store whence it came,
and a squall
That was heartfelt and piercing went up from the child.
Who rushed through the house with appeals that were wild.
Making promises never to snoop any more
If the dolly were not taken back to the store.
The grocer's boy mixed up his orders and brought
About forty-five things that nobody had bought,
While he failed to deliver the goods that were wanted—
Poor mother by all kinds of trouble was haunted.
A splendid gift came from a far-away friend,
For whom there was not a thing ready to send,
The present intended for father had not
Been bought, for some reason—somebody forgot.
The dish she intended to give to Aunt Sue
Was knocked from the table and broken in two!
There was whooping and howling and trouble all day,
And thirty times mother turned sadly to say:
"If they'd keep the schools open to-day and to-night,
The world perhaps still would be lovely and bright."
—J. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

BWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

"DeWitt's is the only genuine With Hazel Salve" writes J. L. Tucker, of Centre, Ala. "I have used it in my family for Piles, Cuts and Burns for years and can recommend it to be the best Salve on the market. Every family should keep it, as it is an invaluable household remedy, and should always be kept on hand for immediate use." Mrs. Samuel Gage, of North Bush, N. Y., says: "I had a fever sore on my ankle for twelve years that the doctors could not cure. All salves and blood remedies proved worthless. I could not walk for over two years. Finally I was persuaded to try DeWitt's With Hazel Salve, which has completely cured me. It is a wonderful relief." DeWitt's With Hazel Salve cures without leaving a scar. Sold by E. H. Miller. 1-1

John Lochrie in Luck.

John Lochrie was recently informed that an oil well sunk by the Westmoreland-Coalinga Oil Company in Fresno county, California, in which he is financially interested, is producing 250 barrels of oil per day. This is the company's second well, and the petroleum is of excellent quality. The Westmoreland-Coalinga Oil Company was chartered under Pennsylvania laws, last May, and is composed of Greensburg capitalists, with Mr. Lochrie, who holds more than 2,000 shares of stock in the concern. Over 400 acres of territory are secured by the company in the Fresno district, and a third well is being started. Mr. Lochrie contemplates a trip to California, next month.—Windber Journal.

THE ROOF TREE.

Once on a time a strong man hewed
A roof tree for his little brood;
His shrewd hands his rafters reared,
His swinging axe the forest cleared,
'Till orchard-bloom and fields of loam
Smiled 'round it, and he called it Home.
And there, for many a happy day,
He heard his children shout at play,
Or watched them, barefoot, wading through
The clovered meadows, steeped in dew;
And, one by one, he saw them fare
Forth from the fold the world to dare.
Then came a time when 'neath the shade
Of arbors that his hands had made,
They laid him in the soft, cool mold,
His labors done, his story told.
And silence breathed its hush and spell
On that dear place once loved so well.
A rich man in his halls of pride,
Through many an hour of longing, sighed
For its bright, flowery paths again;
And one who lay in fevered pain
On glory's field, near death's dim brink,
Cried for its sweet, cool springs to drink.
And there was one poor Ishmael,
Who, when his ill-starred fortunes fell,
Turned like a hunted dog at bay,
Backward, o'er many a devious way,
To lay him down with death, care free,
Once more within the old roof tree.
—JOHN S. MCGROARTY.

Newspaper Interests in Combination.

A RECENT invention has revolutionized the art of making printing inks, and a substantial reduction in the cost of manufacture has given The Standard Ink Works such a strategical advantage over their competitors in the ink trade that the editors and publishers who control and largely own the business have decided to invite the financial co-operation of the general public in an immediate enlargement of the working plant.

The purpose of the corporation is to secure to American newspapers the absolute control of their ink supply independently of any industrial combination or other outside influence, and, at the same time, to make money for its stockholders through the sale of printing inks to publishers and printers in all parts of the civilized world.

The corporation owns and operates, in New York City, a printing ink factory having a capacity of 10,000 pounds of printing ink a day. The factory is equipped with the latest and most highly improved machinery for the manufacture of all grades and colors of printing inks.

The corporation owns and operates, outside of New York, a modern and fully equipped factory for the preparation of the materials from which printing inks are made. This factory represents an outlay of between $50,000 and $100,000 in cash. It has a capacity at present of 100,000 pounds a day.

It is the intention of the corporation to bring the capacity of its New York City factory up to the full capacity of the works.

By reason of the recent improvement in the quality of the materials and the reduction in the cost of manufacture, the corporation is able to offer to investors this plain business proposition: It can manufacture better printing inks at a lower cost than any other maker of inks in existence. It can sell good inks for less than it costs other concerns to make poor inks, and still earn generous dividends on its outstanding investment. The profits of manufacture, under the new and more favorable conditions, will range from 100% to 300%.

The corporation has no debt, no preferred stock, no bonds. All stock is common stock, full-paid and non-assessable.

Only stock actually issued counts as capital. Dividends are paid only on issued stock.

The active management of the business is in the hands of practical and experienced men, all except two of whom have had many years' experience as editors and publishers. The Executive Board of Directors is made up as follows:

Major General Oliver Otis Howard, U. S. Army (retired), Burlington, Vermont; Robert Hunt Lyman, 63-63 Park Row, New York City; Henry W. B. Howard, Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.; B. Peele Willet, 142 Fifth Avenue, New York City; Hiram C. Haydn, 173 Bellflower Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio; Edward B. Smith, 158 Fifth Avenue, New York City; William Willard Howard, 17 Broadway, New York City.

For the purpose of extending its business by the construction in New York City of a larger factory for the manufacture on an extensive scale of all grades and colors of printing inks; the parent corporation now offers for sale a limited allotment of its capital stock at the low price of fifty cents a share (par value, $1.00, full-paid and non-assessable). When this sale is closed (which may be at any time without notice), the price of stock will be advanced to $1.00 a share.

Subscriptions to this allotment of stock should be sent to Mr. William Willard Howard, Treasurer, 17 Broadway, New York City.

Circulars describing the enterprise in detail will be sent free to any address on application.
