BOLTERS PAYING UP.

A Few Silly Committeemen and Other Willing Dupes are Gaining Some Valuable Experience.

Readers of this paper will remember that at about this time one year ago the clique of bolter leaders at Somerset induced a few of their followers in the three local districts, and in Quemahoning township, to file at the Prothonotary's office papers pre-empting the name "Citizens Party"; that a while later, after the Republican nominations had been made, independent tickets under the guise of "citizens" were put up; that some alleged Republicans accepted places on the tickets and worked openly for the success of the same; that when the annual county primary election was held, several months later, such persons were refused the privilege of voting; that twelve of that number instituted suits against the committeemen, and that all of the suits were ignored by the grand jury and costs placed on the prosecutors.

The costs in the twelve cases were only fully paid this week, but by whom the writer has not learned. Some of the prosecutors have declared openly that the money did not come from their jeans, and that before the suits were brought, the clique that led them into the trouble promised to foot the bills. In order that the citizens of the county may know what this tomfoolery cost, the figures are here given. Four cases against Henry F. Barron, $59.80; three cases against S. U. Shober, $40; four cases against J. G. Bender, $55.69; and one case against D. B. Specht, $9.75. Total, $165.44. So far as the Standard is concerned, the gentlemen who inspired these prosecutions are welcome to all the enjoyment they derive from their bolting careers, but if they persist in saddling a needless expense on the county, they should be made pay the costs as prosecutors in other suits do. The costs in the above cases were paid on the installment plan—those of one case the week the cases were thrown out of court; four others two weeks ago, and the remaining ones on Monday. It must have been painful for those who had to "duff up" to separate themselves from their money.

The $165.44 referred to above does not pay all of the costs incurred by the bolters, and it is reported that attachments will be asked for to force payment of the balance due. In January of last year Clyde McDonald, Elmer E. Moore, Roscoe Welfley and Elmer E. Pugh—at the instance of the bolter leaders—undertook to have Charles C. Shafer, chairman of the Republican county committee declared not the legal chairman. The effort failed, and Judge Robert E. Umbel, of Uniontown, before whom the proceeding was taken, ordered the persons named above to pay the costs. These costs, amounting to $48.20, have not been paid, but one of the plaintiffs told an officer the other day he would "go up and see why they didn't pay the bill as they promised to do." And now the officer is looking for him to "come down" with the cash.

Another bill that remains unpaid is that for pre-empting the name "Citizens Party" in the three Somerset districts last year.

The only way to break up this practice is to make the persons responsible for it pay the bills.—Somerset Standard.
