CONWAY'S RESOLUTION

Conway was in trouble. The telegram on his desk was the disquieting cause. It is nothing unusual for a telegram to bring bad news, but Conway's countenance told of perplexity rather than distress. Though he knew the communication by heart, he took it up and read it again, as if in hopes of finding some clue amid the laconic obscurity characteristic of telegrams: "Will come by North-western fifty-third train red roses. MARIE."

Conway's girl friends are numerous. Each summer he makes them by scores. Give him an introduction as an opening wedge and in two days' time he will be calling a girl by her given name. Naturally the abundance of these radiant memories has resulted in a certain vagueness of outline, but never before had Conway lost his bearings so completely.

For the life of him he couldn't remember Marie. Whether she was short or tall, dark or fair, a sylph with dreamy eyes and a plaintive voice, or dimpled and rosy and mischievous, Conway could not say.

Nor could he ever remotely conjecture what red roses had to do with the cause.

The 5.30 train was late. Conway had time to review again his summer vacations for several years back without discovering the identity of Marie.

When at length the train pulled in there seemed a discouraging preponderance of elderly women and matrons, accompanied by their families. The few good-looking girls who passed met Conway's expression of glad welcome with freezing stares.

He was on the point of giving up when he saw a girl coming toward him with a bunch of red roses in her hand. Conway advanced eagerly, exclaiming, "Marie." But he experienced a distinct shock when he found himself unable to recall a single feature of the pretty face raised to his.

Marie seemed glad to see him, but at the same time her face wore a puzzled expression.

"I suppose I'm stupid," she said, "but I really can't think who you are. I'm sure you aren't Pearl." This with a little laugh.

"No, but I come pretty near it," returned Conway. "I'm Paul."

"Oh, you are Paul, are you?" said Marie, non-committally. Then, with more animation, "Isn't it the funniest thing, this coming to visit Pearl, when I haven't seen her since we were little girls? You know I carried the roses so she would be sure to recognize me. That's how you knew me, wasn't it?"

"Yes, that's how I knew you," admitted Conway, truthfully enough.

"I'm relieved to find you here," Marie chatted on. "You know I didn't telegraph till this morning, and then I didn't know anything about Pearl's downtown address, except that she was employed somewhere in the Monadnock building." She fumbled in her pocket book and drew out a check. "Will you please see about having my trunk sent up?"

It was a crucial moment. "Where shall I have it sent, please?" asked Conway.

"Why, to Pearl's, of course. Here's the address, though I suppose you know it well enough," with an arch look.

Conway did not know it well enough. He eagerly clutched the card she held out to him. Then he started, for the name "Miss Pearl Conway" was so like his own that in an instant the mystery of the telegram flashed upon him. It had been directed to Pearl Conway instead of Paul Conway. He had no ground, after all, to accuse his memory of playing him false.

Conway escorted Marie to her friend's home and took an abrupt departure, refusing her invitation to come in. "I suppose I shall see you very soon," Marie suggested, smiling knowingly. It was clear she had come to the conclusion that the relation between Conway and her friend Pearl was of a sentimental character.

Conway departed much cast down. "I shall never see her again, of course," he said. "Yet she's killing me pretty. If I met her on the street I should want to run. I might have explained if it hadn't seemed to be ridiculous to tell her that I imagined that I had known her somewhere and forgotten her."

He sighed, feeling decidedly ill-used. But in the course of the ride home his natural cheerfulness reasserted itself. When he took out his latchkey to let himself into the house, though subdued, he was no longer sad. "A fellow learns something from every experience," thought Conway. "After this I'll keep a list."

FRAUD EXPOSED.

A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, and other medicines, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit, through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing diseases, for over 35 years. A sure protection, to you, is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's, or Bucklen's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E. BUCKLEN & CO., Chicago, Ill., and Windsor, Canada. 3-1

GRAVE TROUBLE FORESEEN.

It needs but little foresight, to tell, that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters, I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by E. H. Miller, druggist, at 50c a bottle. 3-1

Fish Artificially Hatched.

One no longer speaks of hatching thousands of young fish by artificial means, but of millions and hundreds of millions. The number of eggs, fry, fingerlings and adult fish distributed by the United States bureau of fisheries in 1902 aggregated 1,500,000. It is certain that the shad, whitefish, lake trout and pike perch fisheries, each of vast importance, have not only been saved from entire depletion, but that they have been maintained chiefly through artificial propagation, at a high degree of productiveness. That these fisheries are industries today, valued at nearly $3,000,000 annually, is due entirely to artificial propagation.

The Negro in Buckingham Palace.

Perhaps it is fortunate that Buckingham Palace is not the White House or the proffered handshake might be a serious matter, for the Alake is a negro. There is much, meanwhile, that is picturesque and quaint, and something, too, that is amusing from a certain incongruity in such ceremonies as that which took place in Buckingham Palace recently. But such things are not without their element of political importance. The personal factor counts for much in an empire such as ours—wherein so many of the component parts are oriental or barbaric. And because the Great White King was gracious to the Alake, the material prosperity of part of the West African possessions of the crown may be sensibly increased.—London Chronicle.

Mexico's Golden Age in Sight.

The work of President Diaz is not done; the country still requires his guiding hand and his paternal care. Fortunately, he is in sound health and able to give his country the benefit of his ripened experience. He has brought as his gift to Mexico a perfect internal peace. Time has justified his acts and his policies. His fellow countrymen approve his works and are grateful to him for the great and palpable benefits he has conferred upon them. Fortunately, indeed, is a nation that has at its command matured wisdom and the patriotic devotion in its ruler.—Mexican Herald.

THAT TICKLING IN THE THROAT.

One minute after taking One Minute Cough Cure that tickling in the throat is gone. It acts in the throat—not the stomach. Harmless—good for children. A. L. Spofford, postmaster at Chester, Mich., says: "Our little girl was unconscious from strangulation during a sudden and terrible attack of croup. Three doses of One Minute Cough Cure half an hour apart speedily cured her. I cannot praise One Minute Cough Cure too much for what it has done in our family." It always gives relief. Sold by E. H. SLEIGHBELLS ON PILOT.

Gave Tip to Engineer That Rig Had Been Struck.

A set of harness and a section of a string of sleighbells were found on the pilot of the engine hauling the Chicago limited when it reached Altoona from the East on Thursday. Investigation disclosed the fact that the train had struck Moody Thompson, of Huntington, as he was crossing the tracks at Ardenheim. The horse was killed, but Thompson escaped.—Windber Era.

The editor of THE STAR is well acquainted with Moody Thompson, having known him years ago in Carleton, Neb. He is now located at Huntington, Pa., where the editor had the pleasure of meeting him during the Keim-Brumbaugh breach of promise trial, several years ago. We are glad to know that the iron horse didn't kill Moody, and we doubt whether he had as close a call as he once had in Nebraska when we came near drowning him with a milkshake.

STARTLING BUT TRUE.

People the world over were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have warded it off by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was threatened with pneumonia." W. D. Wilcox, Logan, New York. Sold by E. H. Miller. 3-1

A Practical, Helpful Farm Paper.

To the Editor of The Tribune Farmer.

Sir: Again I greatly appreciate the fact that I can come to you for advice. I would wish that all the farmers fully estimated the value of The New-York Tribune Farmer. It appears to me a choice periodical of its kind, rich in all its departments, but especially so in all that pertains to veterinary science. I have been a subscriber and reader of quite a long list of agricultural papers, but to me The New-York Tribune Farmer brings more real, practical, helpful assistance than any I have ever read. There may be others as good, or better, papers for the farmer, but I have failed to discover them as yet. Yours very truly, CHAS. S. BODMAN, Gouverneur, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1904.

Through a special agreement with The New-York Tribune Farmer we will send it with THE SOMERSET COUNTY STAR, both papers, one year, for $1.50. Send your name and address to THE SOMERSET COUNTY STAR, Elk Lick, Pa.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY THE MOTHER'S FAVORITE.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of small children, for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by E. H. Miller. 3-1

Big Sum for County's Taxes.

The amount of State, County and Dog taxes paid into the County Treasury during the year 1904 as reported by the County Treasurer was $103,387.68. The districts that paid over $5000 are the following: Somerset township, $9,242.81; Somerset borough, $7,842.32; Summit township, $5,514.24; Jenner township, $5,098.70; Windber borough, $5,069.41.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH A REST.

Your food must be properly digested and assimilated to be of any value to you. If your stomach is weak or diseased take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach a rest, enabling it to recuperate, take on new life and grow strong again. Kodol cures sour stomach, gas, bloating, heart palpitation and all digestive disorders. L. A. Soper, of Little Rock, Ky., writes us: "We feel that Kodol Dyspepsia Cure deserves all the commendation that can be given it, as it saved the life of our little girl when she was three years old. She is now six and we have kept it for her constantly, but of course she only takes it now when anything disagrees with her." Sold by E. H. Miller. 3-1

Newspaper Interests in Combination.

A RECENT invention has revolutionized the art of making printing inks, and a substantial reduction in the cost of manufacture has given The Standard Ink Works such a strategical advantage over their competitors in the ink trade that the editors and publishers who control and largely own the business have decided to invite the financial co-operation of the general public in an immediate enlargement of the working plant.

The purpose of the corporation is to secure to American newspapers the absolute control of their ink supply independently of any industrial combination or other outside influence, and, at the same time, to make money for its stockholders through the sale of printing inks to publishers and printers in all parts of the civilized world.

The corporation owns and operates, in New York City, a printing ink factory having a capacity of 10,000 pounds of printing ink a day. The factory is equipped with the latest and most highly improved machinery for the manufacture of all grades and colors of printing inks.

The corporation owns and operates, outside of New York, a modern and fully equipped factory for the preparation of the materials from which printing inks are made. This factory represents an outlay of between $50,000 and $100,000 in cash. It has a capacity at present of 100,000 pounds a day.

It is the intention of the corporation to bring the capacity of its New York City factory up to the full capacity of the works.

By reason of the recent improvement in the quality of the materials and the reduction in the cost of manufacture, the corporation is able to offer to investors this plain business proposition: It can manufacture better printing inks at a lower cost than any other maker of inks in existence, and still earn generous dividends on its outstanding investment. The profits of manufacture, under the new and more favorable conditions, will range from 100% to 300%.

The corporation has no debt, no preferred stock, no bonds. All stock is common stock, full-paid and non-assessable.

Only stock actually issued counts as capital. Dividends are paid only on issued stock.

The active management of the business is in the hands of practical and experienced men, all except two of whom have had many years' experience as editors and publishers. The Executive Board of Directors is made up as follows:

Major General Oliver Otis Howard, U. S. Army (retired), Burlington, Vermont; Robert Hunt Lyman, 58-63 Park Row, New York City; Henry W. B. Howard, Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.; B. Peele Willet, 142 Fifth Avenue, New York City; Hiram C. Haydn, 173 Bellflower Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio; Edward B. Smith, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City; William Willard Howard, 17 Broadway, New York City.

For the purpose of extending its business by the construction in New York City of a larger factory for the manufacture on an extensive scale of all grades and colors of printing inks, the parent corporation now offers for sale a limited allotment of its capital stock at the low price of fifty cents a share (par value, $1.00, full-paid and non-assessable). When this sale is closed (which may be at any time without notice), the price of stock will be advanced to $1.00 a share.

Subscriptions to this allotment of stock should be sent to Mr. William Willard Howard, Treasurer, 17 Broadway, New York City.

Circulars describing the enterprise in detail will be sent free to any address on application.

War on Weeds!

THISTLE-INE is sure death to Canada Thistles and all other noxious vegetation.

It can no longer be considered an experiment. That it is able to and does destroy weeds and thistles of all kinds, is shown by the hundreds of letters we have received from farmers, park, cemetery and highway commissioners, railroad officials, and others who have given it a thorough test. It is easier and cheaper to spray the grass and weeds in walks, driveways and street gutters, with THISTLE-INE than to cut or dig them out.

If you have a lawn or back yard in which you take pride, you will find THISTLE-INE a constant friend in destroying Dandelion, Burdock, Wild Lettuce, or other unsightly weeds.

You run no risk of failure in ordering, for when used according to directions, we guarantee the results to be entirely satisfactory. Send for Circular.
