BIRDSEYE VIEW OF SALISBURY.

Something that Ought to Interest Salisbury People Who Have Located Elsewhere.

THE STAR has for sale a limited number of very fine pictures of Salisbury, size 22x32 inches, printed on extra heavy, smooth paper, from a very fine engraving. The sketching was done by T. M. Fowler, of Morrisville, Pa., who is an expert in his line and has been following his business in many different states of the Union.

The picture is very clear and distinct, showing all the streets plainly marked, and those familiar with the town can plainly recognize every building in it. The pictures have sold like "hot cakes" here, and a limited number have been placed with THE STAR to supply those at a distance, who may desire them.

Every former citizen of Salisbury ought to have one of these fine engravings, as they show the progress the old town has been making, which has been very great in recent years. But we cannot supply them all, and those who apply first will get them. The picture includes West Salisbury, the surrounding landscape and some of the farm houses in the immediate vicinity, also a large number of the principal buildings printed around the margin of the engraving, from special drawings.

Price, $1.50 per copy, plus 7 cents to pay postage. Address THE STAR, Elk Lick, Pa.

TO OUR LADY READERS:—Be sure to read the fashion columns that will appear in this paper from time to time. We can supply as many patterns of the styles shown as you may desire at 10 cents per pattern. Fill out coupons at bottom of fashion columns, enclosing 10 cents in stamps or money for each pattern wanted, and mail same to THE STAR, Elk Lick, Pa., and patterns will be promptly sent to you by mail.

The Best that They Can.

They toil at the forges,
They weave at the loom,
Their pickaxe is ringing
Down deep in the gloom,
Earth yields up her treasures
For life's little span,
To the fellows who're doing
The best that they can!

Upon the broad prairie
The furrow they turn;
In the wilderness forest
The clearing they burn;
Of industry's army
Still leading the van,
The fellows who're doing
The best that they can!

A pledge to our comrades,
Tho' silent their name
When History summons
The roll-call of Fame;
In our hearts we enshrined them
With brotherhood's clan—
The fellows who're doing
The best that they can.

—Francis M. Milne.

HOME DRESSMAKING By May Manton.

ONE OF THE NEW SILKS.

Blue Waist 4916, Sizes 22 to 40 Bust. Circular Skirt 4665, Sizes 22 to 30 Waist. Silk waist dresses of silk are eminently fashionable and are among the most useful of all costumes for spring and summer wear. Here is one, shown in shot taffeta, in green and color, with chemisette and cuffs of blue silk tulle, that is smart and simple in one and which is admirable for many other fabrics as well as silk. Shepherd's check, velveteen and mohair are much liked for the spring while later linen, lawn and other washable materials will be charming so made, as the waist allows of lining or no lining as desired. Material required for medium size for waist is 3 1/2 yds. 21 inches wide with 3 yds. of tulle silk for chemisette and cuffs, for skirt 2 yds. 31 inches wide. Patterns mailed by Fashion Department 10c each.

A FASHIONABLE FROCK.

Misses' Blue Waist 4949, Sizes 12 to 18 Years. Misses' Five Gored Skirt 4948, Sizes 12 to 18 Years. Pretty, soft cashmere is one of the most fashionable materials for the spring and makes exceedingly charming frocks for young girls. This one is sage green in color and is made with chemisette and cuffs of tulle in a belt of plain silk, the square neck being finished with acra lace banding. The model can, however, be made available for many other materials and for many combinations, all fashionable fabrics that are suitable to shirting being appropriate, while the little chemisette is always charming made of tulle or inserted muslin. The shirtings at the shoulders give broad lines to the sleeves and also provide becoming folds. If liked the skirt can be cut off at elbow length. The skirt is lined with three generous tucks making the finish an excellent one made with a smoothly-fitted body lining which serves to keep the waist in position, and a circular skirt that is laid in three wide tucks and is gathered at the belt. Material required for the medium size (12 years) is, for waist 1 1/2 yds. 44 inches wide with 1/2 yds. of tulle silk; for skirt 3 1/2 yds. 44 inches wide. Patterns mailed by Fashion Department 10c each.

OF BLUE AND WHITE LINEN.

Girl's Dress 4910, Sizes 8 to 14 years. Such simple frocks as this one made of colored linen will be much worn during the summer and are both serviceable and attractive. In this instance the little chemisette, collar, cuffs and shoulder straps are made of white, tucked and edged with banding, but there are many fancy braids which can be used in combination with the material for trimming. The dress is an excellent one made with a smoothly-fitted body lining which serves to keep the waist in position, and a circular skirt that is laid in three wide tucks and is gathered at the belt. Material required for the medium size (12 years) is, for waist 1 1/2 yds. 37 inches wide with 1/2 yds. tucking for trimming. Patterns mailed by Fashion Department 10c each.

FRUIT FROM POTATO.

California Wizard Performs Another Miracle in Pomology. San Francisco, April 30—Luther Burbank, of Santa Rosa, has succeeded in producing another wonderful creation which will come under the head of potato experiments, and is known as a "potato fruit."

Briefly summarized, the evolution is a matter of planting a tuber and gathering from the potato vine a luscious white fruit, one that is delightfully palatable and makes excellent preserves. Mr. Burbank has named the potato fruit "Pomato." When compared with a tomato the pomato is smaller in size and its meat is white instead of red. It is highly flavored. In other words, its flavor is that of a fruit rather than a vegetable. Burbank speaks of the creation of the pomato as resulting from the turning of the plant life in an opposite direction.

"Instead of cultivating tubers we now cultivate fruit, and the tubers are of secondary consideration," he says, "the fruit on the vine being the main object."

Mr. Burbank has now some 10,000 varieties of potatoes with which he is experimenting. Most of them are hybrid seedlings of his own creation.

A New Book on Religion.

A book on religion quite out of the ordinary is G. Lowes Dickinson's "Religion—A Criticism and Forecast," which McClure-Phillips has recently published. It should prove of extreme interest in these days when individual thought on religious matters is supplanting the creeds of established churches. The author makes an acute analysis of the form of religion that is called orthodox. He seeks to discover if it furnishes anything that the rational man of today can logically accept. Its claim to being the repository of revelation, the historical basis upon which it stands, fall under his investigation; but the trend of his book is not by any means entirely iconoclastic and destructive, for his conclusions point to a satisfaction of the religious desire based on a constructive faith.
