Advised Change of Climate.

Miss Mildred Keller, 718 13th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:
"I can safely recommend Peruna for catarth. I had it for years and it would respond to no kind of treatment, or if it did it was only temporary, and on the slightest provocation the trouble would come back.

Woman's Privileges.

She can wear her hat on one ear without being suspected of a convivial disposition. She can say a thing one day and contradict it the next, and no one will call her a prevaricator. She can shed tears on the slightest provocation, which will merely prove to people that she is tender-hearted and sympathetic. She can look openly into every mirror she passes without being accused of more than a natural feminine interest in her appearance. She can spend a good deal of time considering her clothes and prinking up her person, and who shall say that it is not a proper attribute of her sex to be beautiful She can wheedle a man into almost anything by artful methods, and never lose her reputation for artless sincerity. Deafness is caused by an inlamed condition of the mucous liming of the Eastachian Tube. When this tube is inlamed you have a rambling ound or imperfect nearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarra, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

BURNING THE MIDNIGHT OIL.

There's Little Chance of Amounting

Much Unless You Do. Much Unless You Do.

Good for Dr. John M. Scott, Professor of Greek in the Northwestern University! He has had the courage, the heroic audacity, to attack the ancient imbecilities about the virtues and rewards of him who goes early to bed and early arises therefrom, and to tell his students that they have little chance of amounting to anything unless they burn in considerable quantities the "midnight oil" at which economists, moralists, doctors and other foolish solemnities have been directing their ineffectual lightnings for unnum-their ineffectual lightnings for unnumbered centuries. It is true that all through those centuries people here and there have followed the rule of early to bed and early to rise, and still have managed to make a fair living and to keep out of asylums, either for lunatics or imbeciles, but they have paid a fearful price for doing what everybody advised and most did not practice. They have missed most of life's higher joys; they have been bitterly hated by all the neighbors over whom they have claimed an obnoxious superiority, and they have deliberately stuck to the customs of savages and barbarians instead of acquiring those which races invariably adopt as they advance in civilization. An occasional gleam of almost human intelligence having made them suspect that there was or might be something wrong with their stilly argument that it was "natural" to sleep when it was light, they laboriously imagined that there was something the matter with "night air," and that half truth and whole lie has been so well worked that even to this day even the people who sit up latest, to the obviously enormous benefit of themselves and the world, are wont to be shame-faced about their own common sense and meekly to confess, whenever one of the hen-and-Hottentot salnts assails them, that they are tempting early death, and will never be happy, wealthy or wise—a confession probably the most foolish ever made by man and contradicted by all of history and experience. It is extremely well to get enough sleep, but it is absolutely immaterial, so far as health, virtue or prosperity are concerned, at which part of the day the eep is taken, and, if there are many things, at least as important, that can hardly be done at all except by the lights which civilized man can command at midnight—and after. Ninetenths, if not ninety-nine one-hundredths, of the world's great problems have been solved after sunset, by men who habitually sat up as late as they pleased and got up in the morning when they felt like it—which was often not till afternoon.

I FINANCE AND TRADE REVIEW

WEATHER CAUSES COMPLAINT

Structural Shapes in Great Demand and Orders on Hand Will Keep Mills Busy.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s "Weekly Review of Trade" says: Unseasonable weather is the chief cause of complaint, both as to distribution of merchandise and agricultural development. At many leading cities retail trade in spring and summer wearing apparel is falling behind expectations and there is less than the customary reorder business in wholesale and jobbing departments.

than the customary reorder business in wholesale and jobbing departments. Although no actual reduction in the crops is yet assured, sufficient uncertainty has appeared to render dealers in the farming districts somewhat cautious regarding the accumulation of supplies beyond current requirements. Otherwise the trade situation is satisfactory.

Manufacturing activity is fully maintained, the percentage of idle machinery being smaller than at any recent date. The few strikes now in progress cause little interruption and some of the July wage scales have been adjusted, but others are still under discussion. Railway carnings thus far available for May show an average gain of 8.0 per cent. over last year's, and foreign commerce at New York for the last week increased $3,957,199 in value of exports, while imports declined $592,312 in comparson with the same week in 1904.

Structural shapes have taken the position of prominence in the iron and steel industry. Building operations that were retarded by inclement weather are now under way and the tonnage of steel required will keep mills fully occupied for some time. The industry as a whole is well engaged and the output for May promises to attain a new record. Higher raw materials have given more stability to the textile manufacturers. An advance of over a cent in the average of domestic wool quotations estabilished the highest price level of recent years.

Failures last week numbered 234 in the United States, against 236 last year, and 11 in Canada, compared with 12 a year ago.

Liquor as an Ally in War.

The details of the Russian retreat from Mukden toward Tai pass, as given by an eyewitness, pictures in the homely but emphatic language of a trader, who had followed the Boer exodus from Pretoria under British pressure, the utter demoralization of Emperor Nicholas' forces when the indomitable Japanese concentrated their strength upon the ancient capital of Manchuria. Whether Kuropatkin abendoned the city too soon or not seems to figure less in the story of the retreat than the condition of his inferiors, from high officers down to the plain soldier. This eyewitness states that many of the commanders were maudlin and irresponsible; that they seemed to care little about the fate of the issues for which they were fighting, and that their men in the ranks, discouraged and disorganized perhaps by this condition of their superiors, threw away their equipment, left their commissary and bolted in disorder in almost any direction that enabled them to escape what was to them then a magnified "yellow peril." This eyewitness states that, surfeited by the liquor they had taken, officers and men alike threw champagne and brandy into the strees, and in their besotted condition attacked Chinamen, one of whom is described to have clung to a cart wheel until his hands were severed with a sword, his body slashed and finally his head nearly taken off. He was an inoffensive Chinaman, but in their fevered brains the Russian pictured him as a Japanese spy. from Mukden toward Tai pass, as given by an eyewitness, pictures in the GREAT CHANGE From Change in Food.

The brain depends much more on the The brain depends much more on the stomach than we are apt to suppose until we take thought in the matter. Feed the stomach on proper food easy to digest and containing the proper amount of phosphates and the healthy brain will respond to all demands. Now why was this great change made in this woman?
The stomach and the brain had not been supplied with the right kind of The stomach and the brain had not been supplied with the right kind of food to rebuild and strengthen the nerve centres in these organs. It is absolute folly to try to do this with medicine. There is but one sure way, and that is to quit the old food that has failed and take on Grape-Nuts food, which is more than half digested in the process of manufacture and is rich in the phosphate of potash contained in the phosphate of potash contained in the natural grain, which unites with albumen and water—the only three substances that will make up the soft gray filling in the thousands of delicate nerve centres in the brain and body. Grape-Nuts food is a ture road back to health in all such cases.

LIVING TOO HASTILY AMERICANWOMENBREAK DOWN

Irregularities and Female Derangements Result - Cured by Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owing to our mode and manner of living, and the nervous haste of every woman to accomplish just so much each day, it is said that there is not one woman in twenty-five but what suffers with some derangement of the female organism, and this is the secret of so many unhappy homes.

No woman can be amiable, light-hearted and happy, a joy to her husband and children, and perform the duties incumbent upon her, when she is suffering with backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bearing, down pains, displacement of the womb, spinal weakness or ovarian troubles.

Irritability and snappy retorts take the place of pleasantness, and all sunshine is driven out of the home, and lives are wrecked by woman's great enemy—womb trouble.

Read this letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was troubled for eight years with irregularities which broke down my health and brought on extreme nervousness and despondency. Lydia E.
