Woman, and What She Is.

Here is a Salisbury bachelor's opinion of woman:

Woman is a perpetual paradox, a chronic conundrum with out an answer, an unknown quantity possessed of unexpected possibilities, a perennial prize package of peculiar potentialities, a confluence of characteristic contradictions and an amaranthine aggregation of other attributes which are not alliterative. She is man's greatest earthly blessing, and the cause of most of his misery. She is his chief inspiration to the achievement of all that is good, grand and glorious in this world, and at the same time a labor-saving device to help him make a fool of himself. She soothes his tired nerves with the cool of her gentle voice, but she always has the last word in every controversy with him—and, incidentally, about 97 per cent. of the preceding conversation. She brings him into the world, and in a few years later talks him to death. Most of man's trouble is caused by woman, but so deftly does she pile the load on him, that whenever his burden of trouble is lifted, he wanders unesqually about hunting for more, otherwise there would be very few second wives. She will cheerfully go to the stake for truth's sake, and lie about her age without even being asked. She will grow weary of an indulgent husband, but will cleave unto death to the man who beats her regularly. She will break her heart because a man does what she don't want him to, and love him all the better for so doing. She scorns all advice in the selection of a husband, but takes two other women along to help her pick out a hat. The less actual comfort to be obtained from a thing, the more enjoyment a woman gets out of its possession. At 16 she is a young woman, at 25, if still unmarried, she is a girl. She will face the grim spectre of death without a tremor, and swoon at the sight of a mouse. The only time she ever does what you expect her to do is when you expect her to do just what you don't expect her to do. The sole reason she does anything is simply because she don't know why she does it. She jumps at conclusions and lands on them squarely, for the simple reason that when the conclusion skips to one side, thinking to avoid her, it gets squarely in her way. She is the dearest thing in all the world; and that's all there is to do about it. The only man who ever fully understands a woman is the man who understands that he don't understand her, and has got sense enough to let it go at that.

Stop Grumbling.

I'll tell you, my friend, all of us worry too much over things that do not concern us. I heard you ripping it into the Standard Oil Co., the other day, but to my certain knowledge you haven't bought a cent's worth of kerosene or gasoline in years. If you had you would know that it costs about half as much as it did when your mother used to send you down to the store with the can. You also howl a great deal about the way the prohibitory law is enforced in Wichita and other cities. It may be true that saloons are illegal, but it would not affect you in the least if they were driven into the Missouri river. You let your lawn sprinkler run for three hours after the city ordinances say you shall shut it off, but that does not worry you. You also refuse to rent a box at the postoffice, and you get your mail out of the general delivery, and abuse the postmaster every time your dinky weekly paper does not come. I'll bet you are back several years on subscription. Do you know that the whole community is sick and tired of your eternal bellyaching? If you would try to regulate some of your own failings, instead of ripping it into things that are not hurting you, you would stand a whole lot better, and people would not think you going to church was such a gigantic bluff, says a western exchange.

QUALITY VS. QUANTITY.

Hard muscles and strong body do not depend on the quantity of food you eat, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation. When you take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure your system gets all the nourishment out of all the food you eat. It digests what you eat regardless of the condition of the stomach and conveys the nutrient properties to the blood and tissues. This builds up and strengthens the entire system. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Belching, Sour Stomach, Weak Heart, etc. Sold by E. H. Miller. 7-1

Letter from the Secretary of Agriculture.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 10, 1905.

EDITOR STAR:—This department will greatly appreciate the favor, if you will publish for the information of all concerned, the statement that the last Legislature so amended the law regulating the sale of concentrated commercial feeding stuffs as to add to the feeds that shall not be sold without having affixed thereto in a conspicuous place a legible and plainly printed statement certifying the number of net pounds of the feeding stuff the package contains, the name, brand or trade mark under which the article is sold, the name and address of the manufacturer or importer, and a statement of the percentage it contains of crude fat and crude protein of the following: Corn bran, wheat, rye and buckwheat bran and middlings. Also hay, straw and corn stover, when the same are mixed with other materials. In other words, the feeds above named have been added to the list of feeds that cannot be sold without the above cited certificate being attached. This, however, does not, under the provisions of the act, interfere with persons engaged within the state of Pennsylvania in manufacturing flours so as to prevent them from selling at the place where made their own manufacture of bran and middlings, without having the above named certificate attached.

N. B. CRITCHFIELD,
Secretary of Agriculture.

Gigantic Combine is After Coal Land in Six Counties.

Local coal operators are greatly interested in the plans of a gigantic combination, composed of the Bethlehem Steel Company and other eastern steel properties in which Charles M. Schwab is interested, and companies controlling huge tracts of both developed and undeveloped coal lands in Cambria, Somerset, Indiana, Clearfield, Westmoreland and Fayette counties. Dispatches from Pittsburg during the last few days have contained information concerning this huge combine. The figures showing the total capitalization are not yet available, but it is stated that the immensity of the interests involved is such as will make the combination one of the industrial giants of the country.

An effort was made recently to ascertain just what coal lands were controlled in Somerset and Cambria counties by these interests, but none of the local operators were in possession of the facts. It is believed, however, that the lands are now being held by private persons acting in the interests of the combine.

All in all the total acreage involved is said to be in the neighborhood of 200,000. There are said to be 10 steel plants in the deal, and 70 miles of road tapping the various mines and coke ovens are to be included in the amalgamation.

The Yellowroot Fizzle.

"All's not gold that glitters," nor is every yellowroot the yellowroot of commerce. The "Golden Seal" excitement spent itself Thursday afternoon, and thousands of pounds of the thin fibrous root that has been grubbed from the earth during the last week was dumped into the creek. Men, women and children labored feverishly, early and late, to fill the sacks, while others washed it clean in the creek. Some people down Barton way camped out all night in order to hold down certain patches of land where the golden weed was plentiful. Miners threw down their picks, and taking a hoe and gunny sack, climbed the hills prospecting for "color." The fields were alive with excited men tearing up everything that at all resembled "yellowroot."

Several men sold large quantities of it, and received payment by check, and as late as Thursday afternoon a man with a two-horse wagon was buying all he could find of it, and paying ten cents a pound. But the gentleman who came here from Cumberland and started the boom, stopped payment of his checks on a local bank, and sent word that the yellow weed found hereabouts was not "Golden Seal," but a base imitation. So the boom collapsed, and there is "yellow weed" to burn at Charlestown and Barton.—Lonaconing Star.

It Doesn't Pay.

My young friend, there are many things in this world that it doesn't pay to do.

It doesn't pay to try to pass yourself off for more than you are worth; it tends to depress your market quotation.

It doesn't pay to lie, for your lies must all be kept on file mentally, and in the course of time some of them are pretty certain to get on the wrong hook. A liar needs a better memory than any one is apt to possess.

It doesn't pay to try to get a living without work. You will work harder and get a poorer living than if you did honest work.

It doesn't pay to be a practical joker, unless you can enjoy the joke when you are the victim.

It doesn't pay to rest when you ought to be at work. If you do, you are apt to have to work when you ought to be resting.

It doesn't pay to cry over spilled milk, neither does it pay to spill the milk.—Dr. S. A. Steele, in Work.

Cleveland: The Best-governed City.

The best-governed city in the United States is Cleveland, Lincoln Steffens says, in his story of Ohio, in the July McClure's.

"Tom Johnson is the 'business man for mayor' that business men have been prophesying so long must come some day to give us a 'good business administration of a city government,' and, now that he has come, Business hates him because he has given Cleveland not only good government, but representative government, not only clean streets, but clean tax-lists; he has stopped not only blackmail, but bribery; he tackled not only low-down, petty police and political graft, but high-toned, big, respectable, business graft, both legitimate and illegitimate. Tom Johnson is a reformed business man. His reform began at home; he reformed himself first, then he undertook political reform, and his political reform began with the reform of his own class.

"In Cleveland we have as I write, this spectacle: Two street-railway men, Mayor Johnson represents the city, President Andrews his stockholders, negotiating in public for the disposition of the street-railway system. There is no excitement, no bad feeling, no suspicion of boodle or corruption."

KISS HER.

Say, young man! if you've a wife,
Kiss her.
Every morning of your life,
Kiss her.
Every evening when the sun
Marks your day of labor done,
Get you homeward on the run—
Kiss her!
Even though you're feeling bad,
Kiss her.
If she's out of sorts and sad,
Kiss her.
Act as if you meant it, too;
Let the whole true heart of you
Speak its ardor when you do
Kiss her.
If you think it's "soft," you're wrong.
Kiss her!
Love like this will make you strong.
Kiss her.
You're her husband now, but let
Her possess her lover yet.
Every blessed chance you get,
Kiss her.
Every good wife lets her man
Kiss her.
Be a man then, when you can;
Kiss her.
If you'd strike with telling force
At the Evil of Divorce,
Just adopt this simple course:
Kiss her.
