When the body of Omlitchuk, the man who was shot by the commander of the warship, according to previous reports, was taken ashore for burial, it was surrounded by crowds of students and revolutionists, many of whom were Jews. Inflamatory speeches were made and subsequently some of the revolutionists went on board the ship and assured the sailors of the army's sympathy and readiness to co-operate with them. The sailors then turned their attention to the ships in the harbor and to the portion of the city along the water front, which was soon on fire in many places.

During the wild excesses of Wednesday night about 300 rioters were killed by the troops and several hundred were wounded, a number of them being Jews. Many drunken rioters perished in the flames.
