BIRDSEYE VIEW OF SALISBURY.

Something that Ought to Interest Salisbury People Who Have Located Elsewhere.

THE STAR has for sale a limited number of very fine pictures of Salisbury, size 22x32 inches, printed on extra heavy, smooth paper, from a very fine engraving. The sketching was done by T. M. Fowler, of Morrisville, Pa., who is an expert in his line and has been following his business in many different states of the Union.

The picture is very clear and distinct, showing all the streets plainly marked, and those familiar with the town can plainly recognize every building in it. The pictures have sold like "hot cakes" here, and a limited number have been placed with THE STAR to supply those at a distance, who may desire them.

Every former citizen of Salisbury ought to have one of these fine engravings, as they show the progress the old town has been making, which has been very great in recent years. But we cannot supply them all, and those who apply first will get them. The picture includes West Salisbury, the surrounding landscape and some of the farm houses in the immediate vicinity, also a large number of the principal buildings printed around the margin of the engraving, from special drawings. Price, $1.50 per copy, plus 7 cents to pay postage. Address THE STAR, Elk Lick, Pa.

PIANO LESSONS!—Pupils taken by Miss Linna M. Perry, graduate in music. Theory and harmony taught. Grant street, Salisbury, Pa.

The Biggest American Flag.

Denver, Col., June 29.—Denver will claim the distinction of owning the biggest American flag in the world. It will be used for the G. A. R. Encampment. It will be 115 feet long and 55 feet deep. The union field will be 28 by 35 feet and the stripes will be 4 feet 2 inches wide. The stars will be 2 feet high, and in its making 1,450 yards of bunting are to be used. The flag's weight of 450 pounds prevents it being swung from a pole or hung from a cable between buildings, so it has been arranged to spread it across the front of a five-story building on Sixteenth street.

COMMITTEE.

FORCED TO STARVE.

B. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful, sometimes, that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At E. H. Miller's drug store; Only 25c. 8-1

Concerning a Bad Youth Well Known in Salisbury.

A few days ago Charles Fluke, a young man about 18 years of age, disappeared from his home near Hyndman, and at the same time a pension check for $72 was found to be missing. The check was made payable to the boy's grandfather, Wm. May, and had not been endorsed. Young Fluke, it is claimed, took the check, signed his grandfather's name to it and had it cashed by a Cumberland merchant from whom he had purchased a suit of clothes. Fluke was seen last night near Everett, Pa., but no trace of him has been found since.

Mr. May notified the government officials of his loss, and of the fact that he had not endorsed the check.—Cumberland Times, July 18th.

Three from the Johnstown Tribune.

When you hear a woman past thirty spoken of as a "peach," you may be sure she is well preserved. Mr. Bryan says "the woods are full of Democrats." That's the trouble. They are in the woods, and nobody has yet come forward who can show them the way out. The most religious old lady that has ever come to our notice was reported recently. She was going to have an operation at the hospital, and insisted upon having her pastor there, because, she said she wanted to be "opened with prayer."

To Protect Horses From Flies.

One way to protect horses from flies, says an exchange, is to rub the parts most subject to attack with a little concentrated oil of rhododendron. Another excellent remedy is asafetida, one pound, vinegar one pint. If the horses are well washed with this, not a fly will settle upon them, as the asafetida will drive them away. Another method is to take common smartweed and make a strong decoction by boiling in water. When the infusion is cold, apply to the legs, neck and other parts of the body with a brush or sponge. Neither flies nor insects will give trouble for 24 hours.

We're Getting Too Gay.

Working people are getting far away from simplicity. They will sit in the best seats at the theatre and travel like millionaires. They furnish their homes with too much splendor for their incomes, and dress their children in a fashion that spoils them for the economies they must practice later on. The majority of families live quite up to their income, and a great many exceed it. Practically all saving is done by pinching where it hurts most, and not where the loss makes no material difference. I know young wives who cannot darn stockings or mend garments, but can play a piano, though not well enough to earn a living. You can readily see what a leak there is in such homes.—Ex.

A Letter from Kansas.

Sherman Wellfley, a Salisbury boy who located in Kansas some years ago, where he took unto himself a wife and embarked in the general merchandising business, later moved to Missouri and embarked in business there, has again returned to Kansas. In writing to have THE STAR forwarded to his new address, Sherman writes as follows: "Kansas is the best state yet, to my notion. We are now right in the wheat belt and have a bumper crop, this year. Threshing is now in progress, and the price of wheat being high, everything is on the boom. Farmers are making from $12 to $15 per acre clear on their crop, and they have a good, large acreage. They will have a neat sum to their credit, which, of course looks good to the business men." Sherman is now in the merchandising business at Frederick, Kan.

Living to be a Hundred.

The doctors are free with advice as to how to attain old age, but as the longevity among their own profession is comparatively low, one hardly feels like taking their word for it. Much rather would we listen to the maxims that fall from the lips of Josiah Zeitlin, of Brooklyn, who on July 3d attained, as he puts it, his "first century," and in such a hale and hearty state of body and mind that his friends don't think it at all incongruous when he talks about living another twenty-five years at least. Here are his principal hygienic rules: Never have a doctor, and don't go into a drug store. Don't worry. Never be in a hurry. Take very little meat, especially early in life. Be sure to sleep eight hours a day. When you reach the age of ninety, do as you please.

A Man Whose Brother Has Been Dead 150 Years.

Can any of our readers truthfully declare that they once had a brother, but that he died 150 years ago? asks a contributor to "T. P.'s Weekly." I see that there is at least one person in the world making such a claim, and that he recently swore to the fact in a court of law. The French contemporary from whom I quote adds that the Judge at first thought that the man was joking, and called upon him to substantiate his story. He declared, as was afterward verified, that his father had married at the age of nineteen, and had had one son, who died within two days of his birth. Becoming a widower, the father married again, in his seventy-fifth year, and had then had another son, the witness. This latter was ninety-four at the time of the trial. Adding ninety-four years to fifty-six (the period which elapsed between the two marriages), the result is exactly 150. Next, please.
