Great Truth Uttered by a Great Newspaper.

Hearst's Chicago American some time ago contained a sensible and well written article in regard to the value of local newspapers. It is so pertinent and fair-minded that THE STAR reproduces it with the hope that some of our cynical critics may read and get wise concerning the subject:

"It would be a misfortune to the country if the few big papers in the big cities should interfere seriously with the publication of the valuable and intelligent local newspapers—for upon these papers the welfare of the country very largely depends. The metropolitan daily cannot possibly know the needs of the various localities and small cities. Only the local newspapers can protect local needs and influence local opinion. Of course we are glad to have as many people as possible read the Chicago American, in the big cities and the little cities. But we hope that in every small town and every village there will be enough intelligence and public spirit on the part of the local inhabitants to support earnestly and enthusiastically the local newspaper, giving encouraging approbation and a good living to the local editor, who alone can represent and defend justice and public spirit among his neighbors. The man is unfortunate who cannot afford to take two newspapers at today's prices. He who can afford only one newspaper, in our opinion, should display his sense of duty to his locality by taking the local newspaper."

Fruit Will Cure Alcoholism—"Nit."

Fruit is the newest cure for alcoholism. Writing in a popular magazine, Paul Arr says of fruit that it is the one sure cure for the drinking habit. Eating fruit "will cure the worst case of inebriety that ever afflicted a person," he says. "No person ever saw a man or woman who liked fruit and who had an appetite for drink. No person ever saw a man or woman with an appetite for drink who liked fruit. The two tastes are at deadly enmity with each other, and there is no room for both of them in the same human constitution. One will certainly destroy the other."

We have seen the above paragraph in print time and time again, and it is doubtful whether there was ever a bigger lie printed. We know lots of fellows remarkably fond of their tippie who are just as fond of eating fruit as they are of drinking liquor. Eating apples and drinking hard cider is a common passtime at many a farm house during the long winter evenings, and if there is anything that tastes better right after eating a few good apples than a glass of either water or beer, we have never discovered it. And we have often heard men say that they like to eat an apple immediately after taking a drink of whisky.

GOIN' DOWN.

Says Hiram Hicks to Rastus Green, down in Bill Jones' store, where they hev sot day after day for twenty years or more:

"It ain't no use to talk uv keers a-comin' threw this town. This place ain't never comin' up; it's allus goin' daown. It ain't no use to talk about a-buildin' big hotels. Er senternarians an' such fur bringin' in the swells; They hain't no one 'tith enterprise in this durn sleepy town; This piece instid uv comin' up is jest a-goin' daown."

Says Rastus Green to Hiram Hicks: "I swan, Hi, yew are right. I never seen a town like this vance I hev hed my sight. Hain't nothin' doin' anywheres, jest git up every day. An' eat an' go to bed ag'in in jest the same old way. I talked on takin' boarders once, an' some one says 'Yew! Yew! Yew! Yew couldn't board a ferryboat, much less a city crew!' An' so r kinder giv it up. No, Hi, this here durn town, Jest ez yew say, ain't comin' up; it's jest a-goin' daown."

Says ol' Bill Jones, the grocerman, who allus spoke right out In meetin' an' without regard fur any one about:

"Yew fellers air a durn good pair to talk about this town. Why, durn my skin, yew've squatted here for more than twenty years. A-waitin' fur the train to come an' move yew from your cheers. Yew've sot right here with idle han's an' let yew ol' tongues wag— Yew can't build up a town, by gum! while holdin' daown a kag!"

NO FUSION FOR THEM

Republican Editors of Pennsylvania Lined Up Solidly For the Ticket.

ALL IGNORE DEMOCRATIC TRAP

Republican Clubmen Are Preparing For a Big State League Convention at Easton.

[Special Correspondence.]
Harrisburg, July 25.

A very gratifying feature of the present political canvass in Pennsylvania is the sturdy manner in which the Republican editors of the state are supporting the nominees of their party and interesting themselves in the work of the preliminary canvass for the success of the ticket.

They realize the importance of the present campaign and its bearing upon next year's contest, when a governor, a lieutenant governor, an auditor general, a secretary of internal affairs, 32 members of congress and members of the state senate and the state house of representatives are to be elected.

They have all been loyally standing by the administration of President Roosevelt and they recognize the necessity of Pennsylvania Republicans giving rousing Republican majorities this fall, so that the president and his cabinet shall be assured that they have the backing of the Republican organization of the Keystone State in their great national undertakings. The intense Americanism of the Roosevelt administration has appealed to the Republican editors of Pennsylvania as it has to the voters of the state generally, and they believe that they can best uphold that administration by urging their readers to stand steadfastly by the Republican party in the state as well as in the nation.

Not Falling Into Fusion Trap.

Despite the efforts of Democrats and assistant Democrats or so-called insurgents or Republican ticket wreckers, who have been striving to divert the Republican newspapers of the state into supporting their schemes for fusion, the editors of Republican newspapers have not only not fallen into their trap, but they have exposed the game and the interest that would be advanced if it were consummated.

The Republican editors of Pennsylvania know how their subscribers stand. They know that the immense army of Republicans in this state are true and loyal to their party colors and that they will be found going to the polls on election day supporting the full Republican ticket.

"I am now getting practically every Republican newspaper in the state at the headquarters in Philadelphia," said Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, a few days ago, "and I am delighted with the splendid support that they are giving to the nominees of the Republican party. Our candidates are all men of high character and of exceptional ability. They are all admirably equipped for the positions for which they have been nominated. I believe that I can safely predict that J. Lee Plummer, the Republican nominee for state treasurer, and the four candidates for the judiciary will receive at the November election majorities which will exceed those given to any Republican candidates that have ever been elected in this state in an off year."

Chairman Andrews declines to discuss as unworthy of notice the many false and malicious reports that are being circulated from Democratic headquarters in the interest of the Democratic nominee for state treasurer, and proposes to continue to direct the Republican forces along the lines mapped out at the beginning of the canvass.

The policy of the Republicans in the present campaign will be to enlighten the voters of the state at all times on the real issues of the contest and to leave nothing undone toward perfecting the Republican organization in the several counties, with the view of getting out the largest possible vote on election day.

Among the many disappointments that have come to the Democrats and their insurgent allies who have been preaching fusion for the fall campaign, the complete collapse of the fusion schemes in Beaver county is the latest.

Beaver County In Line.

Here is a striking case in which the editor of a Republican newspaper was quick to see the trend of popular sentiment toward the Republican party and decide not to be swayed from the logical position of a Republican newspaper. There was a hot contest over a judicial nomination in Beaver county, and although the result was not entirely satisfactory to the Beaver Falls Tribune, the editor of that paper last week came out manfully in support of the full Republican ticket and placed at the top of his editorial page the complete list of the Republican candidates.

This instance is cited not because this is an extraordinary or unusual action, but because it had been heralded from one end of the state to the other that Beaver county Republicans were all torn up, that one of the leading Republican newspapers would support a fusion movement, and that the state as well as the local Republican candidates would be sacrificed at the polls.

"Beaver county will be in line for the entire Republican state ticket," writes Chairman Charles H. Stone, of the Republican county committee. "There need be no concern about fusion in our county, and I am sure that Mr. Plummer and the other nominees on the state ticket will be delighted with the majorities that will be rolled up in Beaver county this fall.

Beaver county presents a condition of affairs such as will be found in other counties where the Democrats have been banking upon alleged Republican dissensions.

The Republican lines are being formed throughout the state, there will be no comfort given the enemy anywhere, and there will be a magnificent showing for the cause of prosperity and progress when the election returns shall be received.

Clubmen Are Active.

In every county in the state where there is a Republican club activity is now being shown among the members over the election of delegates to the convention of the State League of Republican Clubs, which is to be held in September next.

John R. Wiggins, president of the State League, in an address to the members, among other things, says:

"In compliance with the instructions of the executive committee of the league, given at its last meeting, held in Harrisburg on April 26, 1905, at which time it was decided to accept the invitation of the Republican clubs of Northampton county and hold the next annual convention in the city of Easton, your president conferred with the Hon. Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the state Republican committee, and the local committee of Easton, and agreed on Wednesday and Thursday, September 20 and 21, for the date of the convention, and you are hereby notified of that fact."

"The Republican clubs of Pennsylvania have never been found wanting in any great crisis. When the rallying cry of the party has been sounded the young men who have handed themselves into organizations throughout the state have gathered around the standard. It is not so much with them a matter of old men's quarrels as it is the maintenance of the very foundation of Republican supremacy—the influence of the Republican voter upon the party's affairs. In local contests the enmities of individuals sometimes blind them to the real questions at issue.

"Through the waves and spasms of local restlessness the broader principles of party organization should not be forgotten. Presidents, governors and mayors are to be elected and Republican progress and influence are to be preserved. Local differences will adjust themselves. Let the young men of the state gather together in this convention and show that they stand for principles above men and for party above ambition."

THE STATE TREASURERSHIP Republican Nominee As Viewed By An Editor From His Home County.

In commenting upon the contest for state treasurer, the editor of the Hollidaysburg Register says:

"Hon. J. Lee Plummer, the Republican candidate for state treasurer, has the ability to fill that office with credit. This fact cannot be successfully contradicted; besides, he is known by the people with whom he has lived all his life to be perfectly honest and reliable and a man of the strictest integrity. While not a Prohibitionist, he is a man of the strictest temperance habits. These are facts which cannot be controverted. He was regularly nominated in a Republican state convention, composed of delegates who were chosen by the Republicans of the various counties of the state.

"There was every opportunity for any man in the state to contest the nomination with him. He was nominated fairly as the candidate of his party. Now, what Republican can have a valid excuse to vote against him? Is it better that the Republicans assist a Democrat into one of the best offices of the state, or vote for their candidate, who is in every way worthy? The opposition is trying hard to raise a respectable fight against him, but the only possible show they will have will be through the votes of Republicans. Why should we aid them in their work?"

A Word to State Republicans.

"The Republican party is not responsible for the misuse that has been made of it in Philadelphia," says the editor of the Juniata Herald. "The truth is that it deserves credit for correcting the wrongs that have been committed by some of its faithless members. The corruption that has existed in Philadelphia is wholly of a local character and the party in the state has no connection with or relation to it. Why should the party elsewhere suffer on account of it? Why should state candidates be defeated because of what has occurred in a single city? If the sins of a few were to be visited upon the party when could it ever be successful? The Republican ticket is composed of honest men, was fairly nominated and is entitled to the support of every member of the party. Be sure to vote for it."

The Pitiably Plutocracy.

Lord! help the millionaire! There is Rockefeller with no appetite; Morgan so restless he can't stay long in one place; Carnegie has long been a sufferer from dyspepsia, and the rest of 'em are dying with envy because they are not as rich as the three of 'em. Blessed be bacon and beans and health with the grace of God.—Eureka (Kansas) Herald.
