Our Hat is off to Brother Hamill.

The following letter received a few days ago from Brother James D. Hamill, of the Garrett Journal, published at Oakland, Md., is highly appreciated and good enough to publish. It goes without saying that the editor of THE STAR is duly grateful, and that his hat is off to Brother Hamill.

OAKLAND, Md., Aug. 7, 1905.

DEAR BROTHER LYONS: Your favor of the 5th inst. to hand, and we mail you today the copy of book ordered, and return herewith 50 cents which is our profit, and which we do not propose to exact off of you.

I have noted that you have been passing through some affliction, and I have deeply sympathized with you, and hope conditions with you are now much improved.

THE STAR is one of our most valued exchanges, and is eagerly read each week at this office. I like your blunt and telling hard hits at corruption in local affairs, and while we have faced slander and libel suits in court for daring to tell the truth about corrupt politicians and officials, we have yet to pay our first cent of damages.

I hope you may come out of your troubles and affliction soon, and with my best wishes for your continued prosperity, I remain fraternally yours,
JAS. D. HAMILL.

THREE CHOICE PLUMS

How Penrose Bagged a Trio of Consular Appointments.

THANKS TO ROOSEVELT

Pennsylvania Peculiarly Favored While Senators From Other States Backed a Host of Disappointed Rivals.

[Special Correspondence.]

Pittsburg, Aug. 1.

The departure yesterday for his post at St. Thomas, Ontario, of Maxwell Kennedy Moorehead, of this city, has directed attention to the fact that President Roosevelt has been more than kind to the Republican organization of the Keystone State recently in the matter of consular appointments. This is the third desirable place in the foreign service which Senator Penrose has landed within the last few months, and it is stated that no other state in the Union has got the same recognition within anything like that period. Complaint has been made by some of the United States senators that they have not had a single consular appointment for a year or more, which emphasizes the good fortune of the trio of Pennsylvania applicants who have landed in fat berths within a very short time.

Stands Well at White House.

The relations between Senator Penrose and President Roosevelt are of the most friendly and cordial character and these appointments in the consular service are but additional evidences of the fact that the Pennsylvania Republican leader stands well at the White House.

As chairman of the important committee on postoffices and post roads of the United States senate, Penrose is brought frequently in touch with the president, who is taking a deep interest in the development of the postal service, especially the free rural delivery feature, in which the farmers of the country are most concerned. All postal appointments requiring confirmation by the senate come before this committee, as well as all propositions for departmental expenditures and other matters of like importance.

The president has on more than one occasion recently shown his appreciation of the magnificent support given his administration by Senator Penrose and the Pennsylvania delegation, which has a larger Republican vote than has the delegation of any other state in congress.

Interest is naturally attached to the careers of the three Pennsylvanians who so recently profited by the president's recognition of the Republican organization of this state.

Young Republican Recognized.

Besides Mr. Moorehead, who goes to Ontario, the other consular appointments referred to are those of Jerome Quay, of Morganza, a brother of the late Senator Quay, who was sent abroad a few months ago, and Benjamin F. Chase, of Clearfield, who has just been named as consul to Catania, Italy, but who does not sail for his new field of activity until October 10 next.

These are all first class appointments, and there was a host of applicants from almost every state in the Union after each of them.

Mr. Moorehead comes of one of the oldest and best families of Allegheny county. He is a son of the late Major W. J. Moorehead, who not many years ago was among the leading iron and steel men in this state, and was the head of the Moorehead-McLean company. Young Moorehead's paternal grandfather was General James K. Moorehead, famous as a soldier, and who for 20 years represented Allegheny county in congress from the district now represented by John D. Sells. Mr. Moorehead is but 27 years of age. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, where he took a special course in history, geography and international law, which specially qualifies him for his consular duties. He is a vigorous type of Young Republicanism, is ambitious and aggressive, and has since he became a voter taken a deep interest in the welfare of the Republican party. He was recommended to Senator Penrose by some of the most representative business men and manufacturers and leading Republicans in Allegheny county.

Stalwart Worker Rewarded.

Mr. Chase, who goes to Catania, is one of the best known stalwart Republicans of his section of the state. He has been prominent in politics for a number of years. He was for several years secretary of the Republican committee of Clearfield county, and for three years its chairman. He was born in Woodward township, Clearfield county, Pa., in 1869, and is the youngest son of the late John Chase, a prominent lumberman and one of the founders of the Republican party in Clearfield county. He is a graduate of the Clearfield high school and a graduate of the law department of the University of Michigan. Under his leadership the Republican party in Clearfield has transformed that old-time Democratic stronghold into a reliable Republican county. During his three years in the county chairmanship the majority given the Republican ticket was the largest in the history of the county, and the lowest man on the ticket had a larger majority than was ever given before to any candidate who had opposition.

Mr. Chase is a member of the bar and has been secretary of the Law Association of Clearfield county. Some six years ago his wife, developing consumption, was compelled to go to Asheville, N. C., and it was a desire to have a place where he could live with her that prompted Mr. Chase to apply for a consular position in Italy. Quay's Brother Placed.

The appointment of Jerome Quay was brought about by somewhat similar circumstances. Mr. Quay was in charge of the Pennsylvania Reform School at Morganza, when his health failing, it was deemed advisable that he go abroad. In response to requests from many active Republicans in his section and with a personal desire to serve the brother of his late colleague, Senator Roosevelt called on President Roosevelt with Mr. Jerome Quay's application, stated the facts of the case, and before he left the White House had a promise from the president that the appointment would be made. And it came along before many days.

President Roosevelt will never forget the active part taken by the late Senator Quay and the Pennsylvania delegation to the national convention in Philadelphia, which practically compelled him against his wishes to become a candidate for the vice presidency, and the subsequent support given him by Senator Quay and his fellow Republicans of the Keystone State in many ways and under many different circumstances.

TO OPEN THE CAMPAIGN

Andrews Will Start Machinery to Work in a Couple of Weeks.

DEMOCRATIC TRICK FAILS

Reports Affecting Republican Nominee For State Treasurer Are Promptly Exploded.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Aug. 1.

Chairman Wesley R. Andrews, of the Republican state committee, who has entirely recovered from his recent attack of stomach trouble, has written that he expects to open the headquarters in Philadelphia about the middle of the month. He is taking a brief vacation at Atlantic City, but even while there he is keeping up his correspondence with party men throughout Pennsylvania.

The recent circulation of reports by the Democratic campaign managers that J. Lee Plummer, Republican nominee for state treasurer, would retire from the contest has stirred up the Republicans of the state, especially the Republican editors, who are exposing the source from which these absurd rumors emanated.

They have served to arouse enthusiasm for Mr. Plummer and the entire Republican ticket among many who would not otherwise be interested in politics at this early stage in the canvass.

Clean, Capable and Honest.

"J. Lee Plummer is clean, capable and honest," says the editor of the Scranton Tribune. "He has made a record of which any official may be proud. There is no reason why he should not receive the earnest support of every honest Republican in Pennsylvania. The Democrats would no doubt like to have the entire state Republican ticket retire for the good of the Republican party," but they will not. They will remain in the field and be elected by majorities that will emphatically demonstrate the sentiment of the people in the interest of fair play and good government."

"Mr. Plummer is the party nominee for state treasurer, has a good public record and is altogether an unexceptional candidate," remarks the editor of the Titusville Herald. "Mr. Plummer will be elected, as will the whole Republican ticket, by the customary off-year majority."

Merits Closest Scrutiny.

"Hon. J. Lee Plummer will not resign nor be withdrawn as the candidate of the Republican party for state treasurer," says the Ebenezer Mountaineer. "This is positively asserted by Mr. Plummer and the leaders of the party in the state. This conclusion is a just and proper one. Mr. Plummer was regularly nominated by the state convention, which fairly expressed the will of the party in the state and there is nothing in his private life or public career that should make him a victim of the disclosures affecting the integrity and prestige of certain Philadelphia politicians. On the contrary, Mr. Plummer, as a public man, can without fear invite the closest scrutiny and investigation."

"If Plummer were displaced by another man would the protesting Democrats then vote the Republican state ticket?" asks the editor of the Harrisburg Telegraph. "They would not."

"Are all the Democrats who do most talking about the impossibility of reform within the Republican party and the necessity for a political revolution that will land them in office actuated by unselfish motives? We guess not."

"Attacks on J. Lee Plummer by the Democratic enemy reveal only the enemy's fear of Plummer's success."

"There has at no time been any reason why Mr. Plummer should withdraw," says the Johnstown Tribune. "As to his party fealty there is no question, nor is there any that he was the choice of the Republicans in the state for the nomination. As to his ability and honesty in public life no one has dared to utter a syllable derogatory, while no man in the service of the state today has a cleaner record in private life."

"Just why such a man should retire from a political battle for the office of treasurer of the state, or why he should be asked to retire, is something that has not been explained, even by those who circulated the stories that such was the case. He will stay in the field, and will be elected by a majority that will show the fallacy of such tales."
