Harry S. Kifer Badly Burned.
 Restaurateur Harry S. Kifer came within an ace of losing his life, and as it was frightfully burned, by an explosion in his gasoline peanut roaster about 9 o'clock Saturday night. His head was entirely enveloped with flame for a brief period, long enough to change the color of his face to that of an over-ripe tomato, and to cause him the most excruciating pain. His hands and wrists were also badly burned and blistered.

During the temporary absence of Mr. Kifer from the peanut roaster, located in front of his place of business, street loafers are supposed to have monkey-wrecked with the gasoline cocks. At all events when the owner returned and struck a match to ignite the gas, a wave of flame enveloped him with the result stated. The peanut roaster was only slightly injured.—Somerset Herald.

PUBLIC IS AROUSED.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at E. H. Miller's drug store; price 50c. 9-1

Look Pleasant, Please.

Do not blame your newspaper man for what happens in the community. If there is anything in the life of the place you do not want to go abroad to the world, blame yourself if it exists—not the newspaper for saying something about it. It is the editor's duty to make a typographical photograph of the town each day, and if you take a homely picture, don't kick the instrument, but try to get a better expression on your face the next time, says the Oakland Republican.

BY THE GATE.

In a robe of lace and satin,
 With a sash of palest blue—
 With a picture hat and roses—
 Roses red and wet with dew;
 In the freshness of the morning
 I have often seen her wait,
 Drumming with her dainty fingers
 On the pillar by the gate.

All in white and crown'd with blossoms
 By the gate she stood one day,
 And she held her sweetest roses
 That her hands could bear away
 From that cool and fragrant garden
 Where the sunlight kissed the lawn,
 Fragrant with the breath of heaven
 On that happy bridal morn.

Still it seems I see her standing,
 Sweet of form and fair of face;
 Woods have overgrown the garden
 That her presence used to grace.
 By the gate which is forsaken,
 Clings the ivy to the wall,
 And the roses there are fading—
 Those she loved the best of all.

The highest need of human society today is a bold and fearless spirit of individuality. A thousand years ago one could be conservative and not fall behind the race. But now, while humanity rides on steam and lightning, one cannot afford to imitate the clumsy gait of those who went through life on foot.

A man thinks he loves his wife and children, and because he works hard for their support he needs no other evidence that he loves them. Perhaps he does, but when he constantly reminds them of the expense they are to him, and seems to begrudge every dollar paid out to maintain the home and support the family, he spoils the happiness of that family circle by selfish thoughtlessness.

The home sentiment is the strongest in the human heart. The mere mention of home awakens all the better impulses of the heart. Many a darkened mind is dead to every appeal save that magic word "home." The lives of scores of hundreds who have been snatched as brands from the fires of temptations can testify to the magic power of a sister's early love, while the sudden remembrance of a mother's "good night kiss," has stayed the assassin's dagger. In our most degraded dens of vice, could an unseen hand write the name "mother," lips would quiver, and eyes would moisten with tears from those whose every impulse had seemed dead for years.

NATURE'S WORK.

Nature is a great economist. She makes the most of every opportunity, she works up all odds and ends. After you are wrecked and useless she leaves the wreck upon the rocks or reef on which you were stranded, and hoists her signal of danger, as a warning to others. You lose your life, but nature wants to use you for a warning. You lose your health, but the tell-tales are left in your face to show the world how it went. If by drink, nature hangs out as her sign a red distress, it may be, on your nose, in front of your eyes, where you can't escape it, and where everybody you meet reads the terrible warning. Though your life is a failure, and you have become useless, nature can still afford to keep you as an object-lesson to warn your fellows.

TRUE MANLINESS.

Every boy belongs to a man. It may not be amiss to study the character of a true gentleman. What is a true gentleman? Manliness is a true virtue. Virtue means purity, purity means power. Never imagine that the swaggering braggart is a powerful man, or that such characters as Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Sullivan or their tribe are ideal American citizens. The braggart and bully is always a weak character. The true gentleman is strong. The man who endures and overcomes and lives to better other lives is the true gentleman. The true gentleman is not made of clothes. Fine feathers do not make fine birds. No sort of the tailor can make a man out of a tough by dressing him in a fine suit. Some of the men with the roughest exterior possess the truest and tenderest spirit, while some dressed in the height of fashion are demons incarnate. We like the man with a sunny smile and a loving heart, an honest voice, and a firm grip of the hand, a clear eye, keen-witted, with boundless energy and a never-failing smile, a man sincere, sublimely unselfish, inspired by a true warmth of heart.

Give us such a man, obedient to the claims of others, rather than the prim and pompous man whose heart has the frigidity of an iceberg. We believe what we need today in the home and in the church and in business is not an austere and unbending Puritanism, but a large-hearted, cheerful-spirited Christian brotherliness, inspired not by dollars and acres, but by obedience to our highest and best nature. The man who encases his life in business claims or wraps his being in a mantle woven out of selfish acts can never save the world. What we want is sympathy. There are many who have fallen in the tragedy of life; they are bleeding from some wound; what they need is a brother's hearty hand-shake, a loving voice saying, "God bless you, my boy, all is not lost; your life is not gone; there are yet unwasted days in which you can win back a good name and an honorable place in society. Be a man; I'll stand by you; you can count on me."

FIENDISH SUFFERING

is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers that eat away your skin. Wm. Bedell, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, for Ulcers, Sores and Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothes and heals cuts, burns and scalds. 25c. at E. H. Miller's drug store; guaranteed. 9-1

Two Items Printed in the Johnstown Tribune 50 Years Ago.

The census of Chicago has just been taken. The present population is 87,800. Last November it was 60,140. Increase in seven months, 27,760.

The yellow fever is still raging with fearful effect in Portsmouth and Norfolk, Virginia. Hundreds of citizens have been attacked, and many have fallen victims. Great difficulty is experienced in securing nurses. The population has been reduced to 1,500 persons. In New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia, meetings have been held to procure relief for the sufferers.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Mrs. George Newman was bound over to await the action of the grand jury, on Monday, by Squire W. B. Cook, on a charge of conducting a disorderly house, the complaint against her having been made by Constable Dayton. The evidence before the justice was of a most incriminating nature, and the justice held her to court. Alexander King was her attorney at the hearing, and John Smith appeared for Officer Dayton. It is about time that a halt was called in this case, if one-half of the stories are true that have been told, but it was hard work for the officers to procure the evidence to convict, but they seem to be of the opinion that they now have a good case.—Meyersdale Republican.

James D. Boyd, of Iowa, Wm. Wagner, Sr., and the editor, had a pleasant little picnic all to themselves, last Sunday, out in the woods near one of the finest springs in the country. The editor furnished the tables for dinner, and the spring water was free; but for some strange reason we didn't drink the spring dry, in fact didn't try to. At supper time we all partook of a fine supper prepared by Mrs. Wagner, at the Wagner home, and the day was spent most pleasantly, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Boyd and the knight of the quill were tormented all day with hay fever, of which distressing malady both are subjects. Mr. Boyd suggested the outing, saying: "Lets take to the woods, where we can blow our noses all we darn please," and it was a capital idea. We enjoyed the yarns told by Wagner and Boyd concerning the good old days of forty years ago, and when we broke camp the "Old Sledge" games stood as follows: Boyd, 4; Wagner, 5; Livengood, 7.

A large crowd of Salisbury people attended the picnic at Jennings, Md., last Saturday. Most of them went there in a side-door palace car hauled by Uncle Josh Messersmith's faithful engine, with Uncle Josh at the throttle. It was a free train, and started from West Salisbury at about 9:30 a. m., returning in the evening. The picnic was a great success, but the ball game between Salisbury and Jennings ended in a row. The Salisbury boys charged that the umpiring was outrageously unfair, and threw up the sponge" in the seventh inning, when the score stood 7 to 5 in favor of Salisbury. The hotel did a rushing business, and the meals served were fine. Owing to there being no liquor sold at Jennings, the crowd was very orderly, and it was a treat to many persons to go through the large model sawmill owned and operated by Jennings Brothers. Another thing that attracted much attention was "Hook" Billmeyer's patch of cultivated ginseng. "Hook" has a patch of the valuable plant that is valued at about $5,000.

What's in McClure's.

McClure's has always something that compels attention, something immediate and significant that is important to all Americans. The September number adds to an unbroken series of "McClure Articles" an illuminating study of commercial piracy, the first half of Miss Tarbell's study of the Kansas Oil War, and an excursion into the marvels of modern biology, "Prolonging the Prime of Life," which is an authoritative account of the discoveries of a group of scientists who have determined that old age is a disease. Color printing has never achieved more perfect results than in the eight full-page reproductions of Lungen's paintings of the Grand Canon of the Colorado, which accompany William Allen White's description of the wonders "On Bright Angel Trail," a bit of descriptive writing which may well take place with the classics of our language.

Eugene Wood, George Randolph Chester, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, Jean Webster, Arthur Train, and Norvell Harrison supply a round of short stories, stirring, humorous, light or serious to fit every mood.

For sunburn, tetter and all skin and scalp diseases, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has no equal. It is a certain cure for blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles. It will draw the fire out of a burn and heal without leaving a scar. Boils, old sores, carbuncles, etc., are quickly cured by the use of the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Accept no substitute, as they are often dangerous and uncertain. Sold by E. H. Miller. 9-1

Church Announcement.

The Rev. J. F. Murray, D. D., McKeesport, Pa., will hold the fourth and last quarterly meeting of the conference year in the Salisbury M. E. church, Saturday evening, Sept. 2, 1905, at 7:30. This is an important meeting, and all the trustees, stewards and Sunday school superintendents are urged to be present.

Rice Hulls—A Dangerous Bran Adulteration.

BY WILLIAM FEAR.

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Experiment Station has recently examined a sample of bran submitted by a Westmoreland county farmer with a statement that cattle refuse it, and when they do eat it are purged, and that hogs eating it sicken and die, one farmer in that county having lost six hogs in this way. Upon examination the bran was found to contain rice hulls. These hulls, produced abundantly as a waste from the rice milling industry, differ materially from the hulls of barley, wheat, rye and oats, because of the fact that they contain sharp particles of silica. These are extremely irritating to the mucous lining of the digestive tract of the animals eating the hulls. The irritation produced is so intense that many animals are sickened and often killed because of this action of the rice hulls. Hogs and heifers have been especially injured where attempts have been made in the Southern states to feed this product, and the experience in that locality has shown these hulls to be an absolutely dangerous ingredient of stock food.

Rice hulls have been found in western samples of wheat bran sold in New England and in the Middle West, but this is the first case, to the writer's knowledge, in which the adulterant has appeared in Pennsylvania. The sample in question showed large particles of yellow hulls that were readily detectable upon a careful examination of bran by the unaided eye. With a low power lens the outside surface of the hull is seen to be marked by fine parallel lines covering the whole surface quite uniformly and extending parallel to the long axis of the hull. This appearance is quite different from that shown by barley and oat hulls. Owing to the extremely dangerous character of this adulterant, buyers should be especially on their guard against it.

TAKE KODOL AFTER EATING.

After a hearty meal a dose of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gas on the Stomach, Weak Heart, Sour Risings, Bad Breath and all Stomach troubles. Sold by E. H. Miller. 9-1
