NEW MAIL SCHEDULE.

Elk Lick Mails Arrive Earlier and Office Will Close Earlier.

Beginning on Monday, Sept. 4th, a new mail schedule went into effect on the route between the Meyersdale and Elk Lick postoffices. Under the old schedule, the carriers left Meyersdale at 1:00 p. m. and 6:00 p. m., arriving at Elk Lick at 3:00 p. m. and 8:00 p. m.

Under the new schedule, the first hack must leave Meyersdale promptly on receipt of the mail from trains No. 15 and 6, but not later than 1:00 p. m. If trains are not on time. The second hack must leave promptly on receipt of mail from trains No. 5 and 14, but not later than 6:00 p. m. If trains are late.

The change means considerable to the patrons of the Elk Lick office. It means that when the trains are on time, (and they are seldom more than 15 minutes late) that our first mail will arrive here at least an hour earlier than under the old schedule, while the second mail will arrive at least a half-hour earlier than under the old arrangement. And when trains are very much late, under no circumstances will the Elk Lick mails be any later than they were under the old schedule.

When trains are on time, the Elk Lick office will close at 8:00 p. m., instead of 8:30 p. m. as heretofore. This will be quite a relief to the Elk Lick postoffice employees, who have all along been obliged to work much longer days than the employees of any other office in the county, and at the same time the patrons of the office get their mails much earlier than heretofore.

Application has also been made to change the Grantsville carrier's leaving time, which will give the people of that town, West Salisbury and Springs the benefit of earlier mail.

Judging from the many expressions we have already heard from the patrons of the Elk Lick office, the new schedule pleases the people very much. P. L. LIVENGOOD, P. M.

ATTACKED BY A MOB and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. LOGGED-OFF LAND.

Howard H. Keim Tells How It Can be Made Very Profitable.

Following we reproduce an interesting article which appeared in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, July 30th, 1905. Elder Howard H. Keim, the gentleman quoted by the newspaper aforesaid, needs no introduction to the people of this locality, and it seems to us that the following article ought to be of great interest to those who own the vast tracts of logged-off lands in this vicinity.

"Put sheep and goats on your logged-off lands and you will very materially increase the wealth of your state," said Elder Howard H. Keim, of the Wild Rose Sheep farm, Ladoga, Ind., yesterday, after a tour of investigation of Puget Sound lands.

"The sheep will eat much of the grass and a little of the brush; the goats will eat the brush and a little grass. The two species of animals will wax and grow fat side by side and give a mighty increase to the husbandman" continued Elder Keim, who is reputed to be one of the best authorities on the live stock industry in the country.

Elder Keim has done more to introduce and improve the Cheviot sheep in the United States than any other living man, and his stock farm at Ladoga, Ind., is the home of many of the finest thoroughbreds in America. His champion ram, Victor, took the gold medal at the Louisiana Purchase exposition, and the Wild Rose herds contain many noble specimens of mutton and wool producers.

Besides being a farmer and stock raiser, Elder Keim is a man of broad culture and is a frequent contributor to the live stock journals and a lecturer at farmers' institutes. His title of "Elder" is due to the fact that he is a preacher in the Dunkard or German Baptist church, a sect similar to the Quakers in plainness of garb and simple living. In his clerical suit of drab, with his flowing beard and six feet of sturdy manhood, Elder Keim is a striking figure. He has just concluded a tour of the Northwest, including a visit to the Lewis and Clark exposition, with a view to acquiring land in Oregon or Washington for stock-raising purposes and making this section of the country his permanent home.

Elder Keim, in an interview with a Post-Intelligencer representative yesterday, stated that while he has made farming pay in Indiana, land values are so high there now that it will be profitable to sell and buy cheap lands in the Pacific Northwest, which he considers peculiarly adapted to fine stock-raising, and where the climate conditions are a great deal more congenial and the conditions of life easier than in the middle West.

He was particularly impressed with the adaptability of logged-off lands for sheep and goat raising, and gave the opinion that finely bred sheep and Angora goats on these lands would be a money-making proposition.

Elder Keim's stay in Seattle was cut short by receipt of a telegram stating that one of his children was ill. Without concluding his investigation here he hurriedly yesterday afternoon, via the Canadian Pacific, for his home in Indiana.

NUMEROUS AND WORTHLESS. Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by E. H. Miller. 10-1

As to Hunters' License. It is not true, as many have been led to believe, that the new game laws of Pennsylvania require all hunters to procure license. The license is required only of non-residents and unaccustomed inhabitants who desire to hunt in the state of Pennsylvania.

The Trolley. Mr. W. W. Staub and son, of Pittsburgh, visited here during the week. He says they are no longer hampered with other work, a portion of that work now being in running order, and that therefore, they will be able to pay all their attention to this end of the line. What were adverse conditions have successfully been overcome. Besides, they have a good portion of the money in hand and more coming, some of it from this section, and also have the promise of New York contractors to take hold of the road and complete it from Meyersdale to Salisbury this fall and early winter. "It is likely work will begin," he says, "within a month." Well, it will be a big paying scheme to the men that put it down, says the Meyersdale Commercial.

BEST FOR CHILDREN. Mothers, be careful of the health of your children. Look out for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. Stop them in time—One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy. Harmless and pleasant. Contains no opiates. Sold by E. H. Miller. 10-1

NO UNPLEASANT EFFECTS. If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. Sold by E. H. Miller. 10-1

That Meyersdale Livery Stable Scandal.

Eva Crosby, the girl of the livery stable incident, was hauled before Justice Hay, Monday evening, and made a clean breast of it. We thought she would talk if the proper effort was made. We do not propose to relate particulars, but we do not think the people of Meyersdale would have allowed the matter to rest. There is an awakening here as to the morals of the town, and it would be well if some people who think they can do as they will would take note of it. The Crosby girl, who is an adopted daughter, has implicated a score of men, most of them married men, and as her father means to push the matter to the limit there is lots of trouble in sight for them at both ends of the line. It is said the girl is incorrigible. Perhaps she is. But that does not excuse the parties who helped to make her so. She can be easily sent to the home for this class of people, and the state will make an effort to reform her, but how about the men, married and single, who helped destroy her character and maidenly virtue? Are they to go free to do the same for some other poor, ignorant maiden? Take this question home and ponder over it. Her father says, no. Meyersdale, which has awakened from its slumber, too, says no. Hence there is trouble ahead, and the only wonder is that it did not come long ago.—Meyersdale Commercial.

Give it to the men in the muss, Lou, and spare them not. Expose the names of every mother's son of them as freely as you have exposed the name of the girl. Treat them all alike; to do otherwise is to be unjust, even though some of them may belong to the Meyersdale snobocracy. The girl, bad as she may be, is an angel in comparison to the men mixed up in the scandal.

Beware of Goldenrod. It is a common thing to see people gathering goldenrod for bouquets and decorating purposes at this season of the year, but it is not generally known that the goldenrod is a dangerous plant to handle when it is in bloom. The fine yellow pollen from its flowers is a great producer of hay fever, one of the most distressing and aggravating ailments that humanity has ever suffered with. As a producer of hay fever and asthma, goldenrod is even worse than ragweed. Many a case of the dread malady has been contracted by persons gathering bouquets of goldenrod, while the victim of the disease never for a moment suspected it.

There should be a law passed for the compulsory destruction of goldenrod, and it should be more stringent than the Canadian thistle law. Hay fever, when once contracted, returns annually thereafter to torment its victim, and many other diseases grow out of it that frequently terminate fatally. We know by bitter experience that it is next to impossible to cure hay fever, and to avoid as much human suffering as possible, we warn our readers to avoid goldenrod as much as possible.

For Convicts' Families. The following from the Johnstown Tribune is one of the most sensible ideas we have seen in print for a long time:

"The new Commissioner of Charities and Corrections for the State of New Jersey, who was a preacher before he got his present job, has started an agitation for the improvement of the convict labor laws of his state. One of the suggestions he offers is that when a man of family is imprisoned, the work he does in the penitentiary shall go to the support of his family.

This is good sense, and if put into practice would result in a better distribution of punishment when a man goes to prison. Under the existing order of things in Pennsylvania and elsewhere, the family of a convict is often punished a great deal more than he is. Frequently the husband is of a callous nature, and the disgrace of imprisonment makes little or no impression upon him, while the labor may not be as severe as that he was accustomed to do outside, his wife and children in the meantime suffering almost untold hardships, and frequently becoming a burden upon the public.

Another good effect of the practice would be to keep the convicted man in touch with his family. Very often these relations are gradually broken off, even where a wife does not exercise her right to secure a divorce, and the man never returns to his home. But if the husband and father knew that the products of his labor went to support wife and children, and the wife and children knew that a regular weekly or monthly remittance had been earned by the labor of husband and father, such knowledge ought surely to keep alive the affection for each other, even if not more than a spark existed, and perhaps would result in the re-establishment of a home at the expiration of the prison term.

The New Jersey Charities Commissioner's plan seems worth trying, at any rate.
