FACTS ABOUT YOUR KIDNEYS.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. Nine-tenths of the sickness is caused by impure blood. Impure blood is caused by diseased kidneys.

Dr. Cole, Ohio. "Kindly send me 1,000 Kidney Pellets. Give this your earliest attention. An entirely new and cannot do my patients justice without them. They are the best for any and all Kidney and Bladder troubles that I ever used."

Druggist L. G. Kramer, Michigan City, Ind., states: "I am getting good reports from them. One box sells another."

If your druggist does not keep them send direct to us, same will be sent prepaid on receipt of price.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Ravenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for baby."

A Farmer "Who Knows How."

Oliver R. Shearer, residing just beyond the outskirts of Reading, Pa., has done more on 2 1/2 acres of ground than any other farmer in the country. He supports his family, and has an income of $1,200 from his products.

The National government has become interested in Mr. Shearer's methods. He says: "I raise in season from 5000 to 7000 heads of lettuce, 30,000 to 50,000 small onions for bunching, 1500 bunches of red beets, and 400 stalks of asparagus."

"These are marketed in time to raise a second crop, consisting of 5000 heads of endive, 5000 heads of lettuce, 800 stalks of tomatoes, 1500 bunches of red beets, and 10,000 to 20,000 stalks of celery."

"Economy of land is an important matter, and it is my constant study how to produce the most on the smallest space. An onion patch 20 by 30 feet, netted me $40 for the year."

Game and Fish Laws.

For the benefit of hunters who are not familiar with the laws of the State of Pennsylvania governing the killing of game and catching of fish, THE STAR today publishes the new laws.

Wild turkey may be shot from Oct. 15 to Nov. 30; pheasant, prairie chicken and grouse from Oct. 15 to Nov. 30; quail or partridges from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30; woodcock from Oct. 1 to Nov. 30; deer from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30; rabbit from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30; snipe from Sept. 1 to April 30; plover from July 15 to Nov. 30; squirrel from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1; duck from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31 and from April 1 to April 30.

Fish may be caught during the following seasons: Trout from April 15 to July 31; salmon, bass and pike from June 15 to Feb. 15; frogs from July 1 to Oct. 30. Hunters must also keep in mind the fact that a license is necessary in the State of Pennsylvania, and a violation of this law is punishable by a heavy fine. Non-residents must pay a license fee of $10.00.

More Engineers in Country.

On Monday afternoon a corps of civil engineers under Assistant B. & O. Engineer Messer, came to Somerset and opened headquarters in the offices in the Somerset County National Bank building.

They came here with a very complete equipment and apparently prepared to stay in the field for some time to come. Since their arrival they have been making surveys between Somerset and Rockwood, but what the purpose of it all is remains a mystery to the general public.

Early in the year a corps of engineers made Somerset its headquarters, and went over about the same territory the present corps is surveying. In the meantime the public will continue to hope for additional railroad facilities.

THE EDITOR'S LOT.

Money is Not a Requisite in the Conduct of His Affairs.

A North Missouri editor had a bad month of collections, ate too much for one meal and penned the following:

"It takes wind to run a newspaper; it takes gall to run a newspaper. It takes a scintillating, acrobatic imagination, and a half-dozen white shirts and a railroad pass to run a newspaper. But money—heavens to Betsy and six hands round, who ever needed money to run a newspaper! Kind words are the medium of exchange that do the business for the editor—kind words and church social tickets."

"When you see an editor with money, watch him. He'll be paying bills and disgracing the profession. Make him trade it out. He lives to swap. Then when you die, after having stood around for years and sneered at his little Jim-crow paper, be sure and have your wife send in for three extra copies by one of your weeping children, and when she reads the generous and touching notices about you, forewarn her to neglect to send in fifteen cents to the editor. It would overwhelm him. Money is a corrupting thing. The editor knows it, and what he wants is your heartfelt thanks. Then he can thank the printers, and the printers can thank the grocers, the butchers and the bakers."

"Don't worry about the editor. He has a charter from the state to act as doorman for the community. He'll get the paper out somehow, and stand up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-toed daughter's wedding, and blow about your big-footed boys when they get a $4-per-week job, and weep over your shriveled soul when it is released from your grasping body, and smile at your giddy wife's second marriage. He'll get along. The Lord only knows how—but the editor will get there somehow."

Country Weeklies Increase Prices.

The doctrine of raising the subscription price, not lowering it, is spreading. It had its birth in Wilkesbarre. Then it spread to the weeklies of Michigan. Now it is heard in the South. Tomorrow it will be moving for better things in California. The movement ought to become general, for there is no more reason for giving to the public its daily or weekly reading for less than the cost of production than there is for giving its meat or its bread for less than the cost of production. The publisher of the Wilmington, N. C. Messenger has taken the view of this magazine upon the price question and written vigorously. He says:

"The Gastonia Gazette announces that it will advance the price of its subscription from one dollar to one dollar and a half a year. This is not done because of any contemplated enlargement or material improvement of the paper, but, as the editor says, for purely business reasons. The increased cost of living and of labor in the printing business and the advance in the price of paper has made this increase of fifty per cent. in the price of the paper a necessity."

"We are not surprised at the announcement. We do not see how an editor can issue a first-class weekly paper for the small subscription price of one dollar a year.—Printers' Ink."

Only A Farm Boy.

Is it a blessing to be "only a farm boy?" knowing the toil of the field, the free outdoor life, the simple rural recreation? Ask any doctor, lawyer, or business man whose early life was spent on a farm, and you will find that the answer will be an emphatic yes!

A country life for a child, not the few brief weeks of summer boarding, when he plays at doing "chores," plays at working in the garden, plays at following the plow, but the all-year-round tussle with weather and work, yes, and schooling in the little, far-away district school, is a blessing which nothing else in life can make up for the kind; a blessing which gives him such a supply of strength and sturdiness and animal spirits as will enable him to buffet storms which would overcome a lesser spirit.

"Oh, the memory of the winding walk to school over hill and dale, through wood and field; the joyous run through the lush grass in summer's dewy mornings; the delight of gathering the orchard's autumn store; the simple country pleasures! All these are set like precious jewels in the diadem of the past, and can never fade so long as life shall last."

Is it a blessing to have been "only a farm boy?" Ah, yes, it is a heritage so far-reaching in its beneficent results that a king's ransom could not buy it.—American Farmer.

A CLEAN-CUT ISSUE

Shall a Bryanite Have Custody of the Funds of the State?

PENNSYLVANIANS TO VOTE NO

"Fighting Jack" Robinson, the Breezy Delaware County Editor, Unmasks Free Silverite Berry.

[Special Correspondence.]
Philadelphia, Sept. 5.

Every day brings fresh evidence of the enthusiastic interest being taken in the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania.

The voters of the state are alive to the main issue involved and they are going to act accordingly.

Shall a Bryanite be given custody of the funds of Republican Pennsylvania? Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, finds the headquarters thronged daily with callers coming from all sections of the state, and they all bring the same report, that there is Republican victory in the air.

"Fighting Jack" Speaks Out.

Former Congressman Robinson, of Delaware county, "Fighting Jack," as he is familiarly known, presents the issue in this campaign very clearly and concisely in his Media Ledger, in which among other things he says:

"The office of state treasurer is one of the most important to be filled in the commonwealth."

"State lines are drawn just as national lines were drawn last year between Parker and Roosevelt, and the latter won out in a fight where necessarily partisanship had to be considered and party affiliation was a crucial test."

"So it is neither plausible nor rational from a Republican viewpoint to put forward the cry of 'Independence,' and ask that party lines be obliterated when the conduct of the finances of the state is the question at issue."

"Mr. Berry's well known and often avowed advocacy of free silver, together with his ardent prohibitionism, makes him a subject dangerous to elect over an able and clean man like Hon. J. Lee Plummer, of Blair county."

"A Republican who can be cajoled or bamboozled by a cry of non-partisanship or independence to cast aside his convictions in so vital a canvass must indeed be a weak and simple-minded voter."

Berry As a Bryanite.

"William H. Berry is an example of the politics pushed to the extreme limit by William Jennings Bryan, and he has never resented any of the heresies he so persistently put to the fore in the congressional and presidential campaigns of 1896 and 1900. Indeed, as late as last January Candidate Berry at a social gathering of the Burns Club in Chester—the last place one would have expected a political speech—elaborated his singular views of finances. If such things be done in the green, what will he not do in the dry and with full power and the credit of the commonwealth at his back—if such a thing could occur in this staunch Republican stronghold of Pennsylvania—those who knew Berry would look for almost any reactionary and revolutionary manipulation of the credit and the funds, now so deersly high, of this great state."

"It would, indeed, be a great calamity to have Berry as state treasurer, and the announcement goes out over all the United States that the doctrines of Bryan and not McKinley are in the ascendant in the Keystone State, the banner Republican fortress."

Should Stand Pat.

"Let every Republican, therefore, 'stand pat' on the question of finance and take no steps backward."

"If the prosperity we now enjoy as a nation and the high credit of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania now obtains be the result of Republican success—as it unquestionably is—would not a vote for Berry be a stultification of the record made, and would it not be a menace to good financial government to defeat an honest money candidate, an honest candidate and representing an honest party by an avowed and notorious advocate of Bryanism and depreciated standards?"

"This is the state of all states in the union where such a dangerous experiment should not be essayed."

"We firmly believe that there are not one thousand Republicans in this commonwealth who, if they pursued the speeches of William H. Berry in the memorable campaign of 1896 and who analyzed these radical statements, would ever think of casting a ballot against his own party, which has a typical candidate."

"No fake issue should obscure the field of political vision, and of all years and of all states this one of Pennsylvania is the last, and should be the last, to adopt a policy and a candidate so radically opposed to all that has been so successfully advanced and firmly secured by the party in the past."

"Standing in the ancient ways, leaving aside even the suspicion that she should reverse her splendid financial record, remembering the victories won in both state and nation over just such dangerous political quacks and doctrinaires as Bryan and Berry, we predict that as the campaign unfolds and the artifices of the political games against our party are exposed, this Keystone State will give a larger majority this year than she ever did in any such year before."

Wants No Extra Session.

The man tilling the soil is not much interested in personal registration now, and don't want the state to go to a heavy expense at this time to satisfy the whims of a few reformers. Personal registration can easily wait until the legislature again meets in regular session.—Haddonfield Sentinel.

FARMERS ARE HAPPY

That is Why They Will Stand By the Republican Party.

PROSPERITY ON EVERY HAND

J. Lee Plummer, Nominee For State Treasurer, Cordially Received at Grangers' Picnic.

[Special Correspondence.]
Harrisburg, Sept. 5.

The farmers of Pennsylvania are happy. There is prosperity on every hand. They are going to stand by the Republican party this fall.

A very significant manifestation of popular sentiment was given last week at the annual Grangers' picnic at Williams Grove, Cumberland county, when the rival candidates for state treasurer spoke on alternate days. The enthusiastic demonstration in honor of J. Lee Plummer, the Republican nominee, was in striking contrast with the "frost" which his opponent, W. H. Berry, Free Silver Democrat and some time Prohibitionist, encountered on following day.

The farmers of Pennsylvania are evidently not favorably impressed with the personality or the checked political career of Mr. Berry. As a radical Bryanite he figured in past campaigns as an ardent free trade and free silver champion. His vacillating course does not appeal to the solid and substantial citizens of the Keystone State.

On the other hand, Mr. Plummer, the Republican standard-bearer, is recognized as a strong and conservative character, who has made his mark in life by his own energy and pluck, and who has been steadfast in his loyalty to Republican principles.

Farmers to Be Envid.

In his address to the farmers of the state, Mr. Plummer, among other things, said:

"The farmer is to be envied of all men in business. The world's markets are always ready to take his product. The professional man, the lawyer or the doctor, may spend years in the preparation for the practice of his profession, and when he opens his office the people may pass him by; a merchant may stock his shelves with the finest goods, and the people may go elsewhere to buy, but they must buy the farmer's products, for they must eat, and they must wear clothes, and everything we eat, and everything we wear, is furnished by the farmer or his brother, the stock-raiser."

"The farming industry of our country is the great industry of our country; no other one industry produces as much either in bulk or value."

"And now a word for Pennsylvania, this grand old state of ours. She is the greatest and grandest of all our states, and the brightest star on Old Glory today. Her industries are flourishing, and no citizen of the commonwealth, who is able to work, need of necessity be idle. Her farmers are prosperous and are blessed with abundant crops, which are readily taken up by her home markets."

"The Republican party of Pennsylvania, which for more than forty years has controlled legislation in the state, has always been solicitous for the welfare of her agricultural interests, and some of the wisest legislation on our statute books was passed in the interest of our farmers."

"Two departments of our state government are devoted to their interests, the department of agriculture and the highway department."

"In the department of agriculture, the dairy and food division is of especial importance to the dairy interests of the state, for it is the duty of its agents to inspect our food and see to it that what is sold for butter is butter, and not something else colored as butter."

"The division of zoology has charge of the suppression of insect pests that prey on your crops, and is doing good work for the fruit industry of the state in fighting the San Jose scale. In this department is also the live stock sanitary board, whose duty it is to protect the health of the domestic animals of the state and to eradicate and suppress all dangerous and contagious diseases of domestic animals."

"The other department is the highway department, created for the purpose of assisting in improving the roads and highways of the commonwealth. This department was created in 1903, and I had the pleasure of supporting and voting for the bill. The legislature of 1905 appropriated the sum of $6,356,232.47 to this department for improving the roads of the state. This large sum of money is to be available and spent in the improvement of our country roads within the next four years. This is only a part of what the state is doing for the Pennsylvania farmer."

"In addition to the work done by the department of agriculture and the highway department, you participate with the rest of us in the state appropriation to the public schools. Pennsylvania appropriates more money to her public schools than any other state. She gives the princely sum of $5,500,000 each year to her public schools. This is an immense sum of money, and goes into every township, village and city of the commonwealth and relieves the people of taxation."

"There is no state in the union, and no country in the world, where the burden of government rests as lightly on the people as does the government of Pennsylvania."

"Did you ever consider that real estate in Pennsylvania is not taxed for the support of the state government? In other words, that no person in Pennsylvania pays a tax on real estate? This is true."

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF SALISBURY.

Something that Ought to Interest Salisbury People Who Have Located Elsewhere.

THE STAR has for sale a limited number of very fine pictures of Salisbury, size 2 1/2x3 1/2 inches, printed on extra heavy, smooth paper, from a very fine engraving. The sketching was done by T. M. Fowler, of Morrisville, Pa., who is an expert in his line and has been following his business in many different states of the Union.

The picture is very clear and distinct, showing all the streets plainly marked, and those familiar with the town can plainly recognize every building in it. The pictures have sold like "hot cakes" here, and a limited number have been placed with THE STAR to supply those at a distance, who may desire them.

Every former citizen of Salisbury ought to have one of these fine engravings, as they show the progress the old town has been making, which has been very great in recent years. But we cannot supply them all, and those who apply first will get them. The picture includes West Salisbury, the surrounding landscape and some of the farm houses in the immediate vicinity, also a large number of the principal buildings printed around the margin of the engraving, from special drawings.

Price, $1.50 per copy, plus 7 cents to pay postage. Address THE STAR, Elk Lick, Pa.

BALTIMORE & OHIO TERMINAL AT TWENTY-THIRD STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

All passenger trains of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to and from New York City now have direct ferry connection with 23rd Street Terminal in addition to Liberty Street; the South Ferry Terminal having been discontinued.

Twenty-third Street is the most popular terminal of the great metropolis because of its convenience to the hotel, theatre and shopping district. In the recent remodeling of the terminal building a glass roofed canopy was constructed fifty feet wide under which the cross-town cars of 14th, 23rd, 28th and 29th Street lines pass, so that passengers are protected from the weather leaving the ferry house, and also avoid the annoyance of street traffic.

All baggage destined to New York City will be delivered to 23rd Street unless distinctly marked "Liberty Street," or otherwise.

A complete electric cab service has also been established for the transportation of passengers and baggage at very reasonable rates.

The importance of 23rd Street is most graphically brought to attention in the August number of the "Book of the Royal Blue" published by the Passenger Department of the Baltimore & Ohio, under the title "Into the Heart of Gotham." The interesting cartoons within a mile radius of 23rd Street, Fifth Avenue and Broadway. Full page photographs of unusual detail present a most vivid picture of this most interesting locality.
