Home Circle Department.

HERE'S A DADDY'S SONG.
Must all thy songs be mother songs,
My bonny baby boy?
Do poets write no other songs,
That father's name employ?
Then I'll right the monstrous wrong;
Come, boy, and hear thy daddy's song.
But first a toss high in the air,
To hear his merry shout,
And then a tickle here and there,
To bring the dimples out,
And then a romp upon the bed,
Oh, precious little touse-head!
Now, then, wee barefoot boy, take care!
Run swiftly o'er the floor,
And father'll be a brain bear,
And growl and bite and paw!
Why, bless us boy, what flimsy stuff!
Daddy's song is rag time, sure enough.
There, now of play we've had our fill,
'Tis cuddle time, I know.
(How very bright his eyes are still!)
"Hush, baby mine, by-low!"
Come, come, you little rascal you,
Daddy's had enough of peek-a-boo!
Hush, hush, my boy, to sleep with thee!
(I wish his mamma'd come!)
Thy father'll turn into a bee
If longer he must hum.
Ah, well, to lull a child to rest,
A mother's song, perchance, is best.

Some one has wisely said that society's "brow" needs to be decorated with women's jewels who are not too highly educated or cultured to love their husbands and to be faithful to them; not too brilliant to be good mothers and wise counsellors for their children, and not too progressive to wear their husbands' names and reflect credit upon themselves.

Actions die—sometimes; words live. "Be sure you are right, then go ahead," was Davy Crockett's motto in life. Have a purpose in life—a right purpose—then press on! Success will finally crown your efforts. If the world despises you because you do not follow its way, if you are right, show it by your life, and finally the world will turn to your way of thinking and give you credit.

"Girls, you cheapen yourselves by lack of purpose in life," says Rena L. Miller. "You show commendable zeal in pursuing your studies; your alertness in comprehending and ability in surmounting difficult problems have become proverbial; nine times out of every ten you outrank your brothers thus far; but when the end is attained, the goal reached, whether it be the graduating certificate from a graded school, or a college diploma, for nine out of every ten it might as well be added thereto, 'dead to further activity,' or, 'sleeping until marriage shall resurrect her.'" tf

If my boy should leave school with his head full of history and grammar and the classics and modern languages, and all the other studies of the curriculum, and yet should not have in his heart to yield a willing obedience to law—the law of the school, the law of the community in which he lives, the law of the state and nation—we should feel that his time had been thrown away. We need in all our schools insistence upon obedience to proper authority, for boys of today are the citizens of tomorrow, and everywhere throughout the length and breadth of the land we must have more prompt and willing obedience to law.

Fathers now basking in the sunset of life may not readily recall all their early experiences in life, their struggles and triumphs of early manhood, but every feature of their childhood home, the playhouses they helped their sisters build are photographed upon the heart's tablet and will never fade away. The golden light of eternity will not dim the brightness of this picture. One will never forget the place of his birth, the little broken cart, the sled and kite, and the older brother who led the way to the hillside where the fairest wild flowers bloomed. These sacred memories will never grow less bright or dim with age.

BABIES IN THE HOME.
There is nothing which brightens and completes a home so much as those merry beams of sunshine called babies, and God pity and forgive the sinful, shallow-minded woman who considers their advent and care a reproach rather than a sacred trust from God. Truly, when conscientiously filled, the office of motherhood is woman's masterpiece of life. Why should she care about woman suffrage? "The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the nation," and I dare say there are greater powers and mightier possibilities for mothers to attain in the nobler and broader education and culture of the rising generation than in the ballot. There is not a mother so deprived of the luxuries of this world who cannot give to her children life's sweetest and richest gift, a mother's companionship. She may be unable to adorn their bodies with fine clothing, but she can adorn their minds with pure and lofty ideals, which will be worth more to the world than all the crown jewels of empire. Someone has said that no one can advise so readily as one wanting in experience, but I assure you the writer is a wife and mother, one who has entertained an unseasonable guest, when the grocery supply was low, the fuel wet and the little girls peevish and cross. My! a real patience breeder, isn't it? We all love to see patience, but it cannot be cultivated in fair weather. Patience is a child of storm. When we have everything desirable and things move on systematically, we have no need for patience, but when we stand chin deep in annoyances, it is time for us to swim out toward the great headlands of Christian attainment.

You watch the artist as he touches his canvas again and again, and wonder why he does not dash it on with one stroke. No, it requires 5,000 of those touches. And so it is, dear friend, these seemingly humble duties of life, these 10,000 trials patiently borne, are making up the picture of your life, to be hung at last in the galleries of heaven, a glad spectacle for angels to look upon. A READER.

A LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP.
"A cold or cough nearly always produces constipation—the water all runs to the eyes, nose and throat instead of passing out of the system through the liver and kidneys. For the want of moisture the bowels become dry and hard." Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. It meets and corrects the above conditions, by acting as a pleasant cathartic on the bowels—expels all colds from the system and cures all coughs, croup, whooping cough, La-Grippe, bronchitis, etc. Sold by E. H. Miller. 10-1

Lumber Grades.

A subject of increasing importance to every lumber producer and consumer is that of grades. That these grades should be uniform where practical is well recognized, and many efforts to arrive at some general rules have been made. In view of these movements to standardize grades, the Forest Service has undertaken to bring together the specifications of the various lumber and manufacturers associations and to put them in such a form that they may be compared. The object of the study is not to devise a system of standard grades, but to make, simply, such a compilation of the grades now in use as will be of service to lumber producers and consumers, though it is hoped that a great deal of information may be accumulated that will be of value in eventually preparing the way for a standard system.

It is planned to get the views of those concerned partly by interviews and largely by correspondence. A representative of the Forest Service will endeavor to visit the secretaries and members of grading bureaus of various associations and learn their views in regard to the practical workings of the various rules. A large number of mill men and manufacturers will be reached by correspondence and their views sought. It is especially desired to find the important points of difference in grades from the view points of both producer and consumer of lumber, and also to ascertain the chief difficulties in the way of devising and executing a system of standard grades. The assistance of manufacturers and consumers of lumber is earnestly desired in this work. Suggestions concerning it will be gladly received by the Office of Forest Products, Forest Service, Washington, D. C.

"Tribute" to a Wife.

On a monument in a Cumberland (England) churchyard may be read the following amazing inscription:

Here lie the bodies of Thomas Bond and Mary his wife, She was temperate, chaste and charitable,
But She was proud, peevish and passionate.
She was an affectionate wife and a tender mother,
But Her husband and child, whom she loved, seldom saw her countenance without a disgusting frown;
While she received visitors whom she despised with an endearing smile.
Her behaviour was discreet toward strangers,
But Imprudent in her family.
Abroad her conduct was influenced by good breeding,
But At home by ill temper.
She was a professed enemy of flattery, and was seldom known to praise or commend;
But The talents in which she principally excelled
Were differences of opinion and discovering flaws and imperfections.
She was an admirable economist, And, without prodigality,
Dispensed plenty to every person in her family,
But Would sacrifice their eyes to a farthing candle.
She sometimes made her husband happy with her good qualities,
But Much more frequently miserable with her Many failings,
Insomuch that in thirty years' cohabitation,
He often lamented that, Maugre all her virtues,
He had not on the whole enjoyed two years Of matrimonial comfort.
At length,
Finding she had lost the affection of her husband as well as the regard of her neighbors, family disputes having been divulged by servants,
She died of vexation, July 20, 1768, Aged 48 years.
Her worn-out husband survived her four months and two days, and departed this life November 22, 1768,
In the 54th year of his age.
William Bond, brother to the deceased, Erected this stone as a Weekly monitor to the wives of this parish,
That they may avoid the infamy of having Their memories handed down to posterity with a patchwork character.

PA AN' MA.

When ma comes runnin' down th' stair She steps right in th' door,
An' sort o' makes a picture there,
An' taps upon th' floor
Till pa looks up, an' then she cries,
"Well, how is this for style?"
An' pa jus' grunts an' drops his eyes—
An' then I see him smile.

My pa sometimes he gets so mad—
It's awful how he blows
About th' money ma has had
To keep herself in clothes.
An' ma she tells him how she's tried
To please him all the while,
An' pa be snorts an' looks aside—
An' then I see him smile.

An' pa he grows an' looks so grim,
An' then begins to knock,
When ma upstairs calls down to him,
"Please come an' hook my frock."
But ma she softly smoothes his hair
In such a lovin' steele,
Jus' where th' gray is comin' there—
An' then I see him smile.

My pa has got a temper bad—
He's always full of fight;
He scolds at ma an' gets so mad—
But ma ain't scared a mite.
An' yesterday I said to pa—
"Twas after tea a while—"
"I guess you think a lot of ma"—
An' then I see him smile.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

How Enemies Are Made.

I once heard of a man who, discussing a name on the visiting list, said to his wife: "You know perfectly well that I don't like that man." "Don't you think you are a little unreasonable?" asked the wife. "You dislike arose because he did not answer a letter you wrote him, and you found afterward that the letter was hung up all summer in the pocket of your overcoat and was never sent to him at all." "Yes, I know that," was the rejoinder, "but it was so long before I found it out that I couldn't overlook his rudeness, and I never forgave him, and I don't believe I ever shall." There is a good deal of ill-feeling in this world that is without any firmer foundation. —Printer's Ink.
