Something About Sulphur.

The largest sulphur refinery in the world, with one exception is in San Francisco, and the largest sulphur ore mines are close by. The Stannifer Chemical Company has done more since its establishment, in 1885, to develop these deposits, as well as those of borax and soda, than any other institution of its kind in the West. Its steady growth from a small building on a 50-vara lot at Bay and Dupont streets to a pile of buildings covering nearly three square blocks in the heart of the city, besides controlling a large acreage in Alameda, Contra Costa and Ventura Counties, places it in the forefront not only of the manufacturers of heavy chemicals in the United States, but of the world. The company began business with the manufacture of "washing" or soda, which they still make in large quantities. In 1887 they commenced manufacturing boracic acid and soda borate. In 1888 the refining of sulphur ore imported from Japan claimed their attention, and though many other concerns started to accomplish this result, they were the first to successfully produce sulphur as manufactured by Boude, of Marseilles, whose products are the standard for the world's market.—Sunset Magazine.

America's Oldest Chair.

When Gov. Pennypacker, in Hanover, Pa., delivered the presentation address at the unveiling of the Hancock battle monument, he occupied on the speakers' stand the oldest chair in America. The chair is a massive piece of work. It was made in Yorkshire, England, in 1430, and represents the style of chair architecture popular in those days. English oak, inflamed with various kinds of wood, was used in its construction. The back is handsomely carved, and at the top figures of birds are engraved. The joints are mortised and tenoned, and held together with wooden pegs. Kept as an heirloom, the chair has been passed down from father to son for many generations.—Philadelphia Press.

RUINS OF ANCIENT CITY

Wisconsin Has One of the Wonders of the World.

In Jefferson county, Wis., are to be found the remains of what seems to have been an ancient city, the origin of which is lost in the gray dawn of history. This prehistoric work is so important from an archaeological point of view that scientific men from all over America and Europe have visited the site, examined its workmanship, scrutinized the contents of the excavations they have made, and have been able to form a hypothesis of the aborigines who inhabited the State, and something of their ways of living and the degree of civilization that they had attained, says the Milwaukee "Sentinel."

The ancient city is called Aztalan and is located three miles from Lake Mills on the Crawfish river. It has long been known and often referred to as one of the wonders of the Western world. The remains were discovered in 1836, and hastily surveyed in 1837 by N. F. Hyer. Mr. Hyer named the ancient city Aztalan, because, according to Humboldt, the Aztecs had a tradition that their ancestors came from the North, and the possibility that the newly discovered remains might have been the place alluded to, suggested the name.

When discovered the remains of the city were inclosed in a wall of earth and bricks which had been crudely made by mixing grass or hay with a kind of clay that abounded in that vicinity, and baked in the sun. The ridge or wall extended around three sides of an irregular parallelogram, the west side of the Crawfish river, forming the fourth side of the east. It occupied 18 acres. The ridge, when it was surveyed by Dr. L. A. Lapham in 1850, was 631 feet long at the north end and 1,419 feet long at the west end, and 705 feet long at the south end, making a total length of wall of 2,750 feet. The wall at the time of the survey was 22 feet wide and from one foot to five in height. It is now reduced to about three feet at the most, as it has been under cultivation for more than half a century.

Intelligent Insects.

Among the insects the most intelligent are those of the ant tribe, while next to them rank wasps. Bees come some way lower down the scale. Beetles are hopelessly stupid, but even they are not as bad as butterflies and moths.

An Apt Remark.

Count von Buelow makes a very apt remark to those who criticize him for excluding American meats from the German market. "If American packers send embalmed beef to their own soldiers," he says, "what in thunder are they sending to Germany?"

AGONY OF SORE HANDS

Cracked and Peeled—Water and Heat Caused Intense Pain—Could Do No Housework—Very Gratified to Cuticura.

"My hands cracked and peeled, and were so sore it was impossible for me to do my housework. If I put them in water I was in agony for hours, and if I tried to cook the heat caused me intense pain. I consulted two doctors, but their prescriptions were utterly useless. Now after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura ointment my hands are entirely well. I am very grateful. ### Saven Women to one Man.

In Paraguay the women are in the proportion of seven to one, as compared with the men. The consequence is that the men are taken the greatest care of, and everything which is unpleasant or might be risky to the life of a man is done by the women. The streets are cleaned, ships are loaded, oxen are driven by them.

THE SLOTHFUL LIFE

The Large Percentage of People Who Live Sedentary Lives.

In every city or town, be it humble or great, there is a large percentage of dwellers who, from the necessities imposed by their occupations, lead sedentary lives. In particular, the large cities abound in sedentary occupations. Each has its thousands of brain workers—in the aggregate of all great cities, such workers number millions.

Day in and day out the sedentary worker's chief exercise consists in walking a short distance to a street car, riding to and from their offices, all devoid of any physical exertion worthy of the name. When at work the field of vision of a sedentary man is limited by the inner walls of his office, his field of physical activity is limited to his chair. Such habits of life result in weak, flabby muscles, a loss of physical stamina, with in time a disinclination for physical exercise, whether light or a. duous.

In a limited way there are some exceptions to the general inaction of office workers. Some engage in games which impose physical competition more or less, as bowling, billiards, etc. From them they derive some exercise, inadequate, yet far better than none at all. Some take up gymnastics. Yet, relatively to the whole, those who take up systematic physical exercise are few. And those who, being office workers, take systematic exercise, are generally in the early years of their business life. As a rule, when a sedentary worker approaches middle age, he gradually avoids all physical activities separable from the mere journeyings to and from between home and office chair. In many instances, obesity sets in, with its consequent heaviness, clumsiness, thickening of the arteries, and inertia. The organs of the body lose their vigor, and there is a general lowering of vigor and vitality.

Under such conditions, the mere taking of a vacation once a year, though beneficial, is far from meeting the requirements of the case. Indeed, the sedentary worker, long habituated to bodily inaction, is not in physical condition even to enjoy a vacation if it contemplates any of the active sports of land and water. Nevertheless, he takes his vacation without any preliminary physical preparation, and enters into the sport of hunting and fishing with boyhood ardor. Many bodily discomforts forthwith ensue. If he engages in quail shooting, his feet, being weak from lack of exercise, are strained and sore; being tender they are well blistered. His arms are so muscle weary that they feel as if they would drop off from their own weight. If he rides horseback, many unneeded muscles are brought into action, to their consequent straining and soreness. If the sedentary one fishes, there is the same bodily suffering from weak feet, weak hands, weak limbs, with the added inefficiency of bodily clumsiness, heaviness of movement, and incapacity of action. All this discomfort and incapacity could be avoided by taking every day regular exercise which would comprehend the physical culture of the whole body. Much time is not required. Ten minutes of exercise morning and night will accomplish wonders. The whole muscular system thereby is kept in tone, the vital organs are vigorous and perform their functions healthfully, and the sedentary worker then seeks the physical activities of life instead of avoiding them.

Before going on an outing which contemplates active bodily powers, two or three weeks of physical preparation, in the form of walks to and from the office, and more exercise each day with gymnastic appliances will add immeasurably to the comforts of an outing, to the capacity and enjoyment of him who engages in it, besides the general every-day benefits of a strong mind in a strong body.—Forest and Stream.

The Height of Waves.

It is usual in other places than mountains to hear of waves running mountains high, but in reality the mountains of the sea are by no means steep, and only appear so when two systems of waves meet, as in a choppy sea, and add their amplitudes. For example, as is shown in a series of wave measurements lately undertaken by the French Government, the highest normal waves encountered in the Southern Pacific are not more than fifty-three feet high from crest to base of trough. These are in a sense the waves of greatest known amplitude. The distance between their crests is 1000 feet. Waves of the North Atlantic are normally 528 feet from crest to crest and twenty-six feet high.—London Post.

British Society Leaders' Pets.

Nearly every society leader in Great Britain has her own pet animal in the animal kingdom, generally a dog, though some go in for odd treasures. The young duchess of Marlborough takes to snakes and pelicans, the marchioness of Anglesey carries marmosets with her wherever she goes, the countess of Warwick has a white elephant in her castle, Mrs. Arthur Cadogan boasts of a tame python and Lady Constance Richardson owns a boa constrictor.

As to Talkers.

All men cling to the superstition that the female tongue is rarely silent, yet, as a matter of fact, if it were possible to arrive at the truth by means of some kind of measuring machine it is very much more than likely that it would be found that men do very much more talking in the course of twenty-four hours than the so-called talkative sex.—London Lady's Pictorial.

Not Enough Positions.

Of the 116,019 that passed the civil service examinations last year only 39,427 got places in the government employ. That means that at least 76,592 free born citizens are in doubt as to the civility of the service.

STOP! WOMEN,

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with woman's diseases covers a great many years. You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probably examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation:

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by woman only. A woman can freely talk of her private ills to a woman; this has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has had to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Following we publish two letters from a woman who accepted this invitation. Note the result.

First letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—For eight years I have suffered something terrible every month with my periods. The pains are excruciating and I can hardly stand work or trouble, and I find going through an operation if I want to get well. I do not want to submit to it if I can possibly help it. Please tell me what to do. I hope you can relieve me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and E. Capitol Sts., Benning P. O., Washington, D. C.

Second letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—After following carefully your advice, and taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very anxious to send you my testimonial, that others may know their wayward what you have done for me."

"As you know, I wrote you that my doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I then wrote you, telling you my ailments. I followed your advice and am entirely well. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I owe my life to you and to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wish every suffering woman would read this testimonial and realize the value of writing to you and your remedy."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and E. Capitol Sts., Benning P. O., Washington, D. C.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women whose testimony is so unquestionable, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.
