The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition, and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

And All This is True, Providing an Editor is Fool Enough.
After a good deal of study and work, we have at last figured out why so many country editors get rich. Here is the secret of success: A child is born in the neighborhood; the attending physician gets $10; the editor gives the loud-lunged youngster and the "happy parents" a send-off, and gets $90. If it is a girl, the minister gets $10 and the editor gets $90. It grows up and marries; the editor publishes another long-winded, flowery article, and tells about the "beautiful and accomplished bride"; the minister gets $10 and a piece of cake, and the editor gets $900. In the time of time it dies, and the doctor gets from $25 to $100, and the minister perhaps gets another $15, the undertaker gets from $50 to $100; the editor publishes a notice of the death, and an obituary two columns long, lodge and society resolutions, a lot of poetry and a free card of thanks, and gets $9000. No wonder that so many country editors get rich.—Carleton (Neb.) Leader.

All the above is true, providing an editor is fool enough to publish all the things enumerated for nothing. Free birth notices are all right, but it has got to be customary among well bred people to pay for lengthy marriage write-ups, resolutions of respect, obituary notices, etc., and most editors have fixed charges for such publishing. It is only in rare instances, these days, when people fail to offer the local editor pay for publishing lengthy accounts of the marriages or deaths of their near relatives. But there are still some people who look upon a newspaper as a charitable institution, expecting all sorts of service free of charge from the press, and there are yet a few publishers who permit themselves to be imposed upon in that way. However, the days of the free wedding write-up, and the free half-column or column obituary notice, have long ago ended, in a general way.

Editor Bound to Please Everybody.
Talking about the various persons who make an editor weary of life, by telling him how to run his paper, Col. Charles A. Edwards, of Texas, said the other day:
"I know all about it. I was an editor myself once down in Texas. One day a man came in and said to me:
"I have come in here to complain about this article you have in your paper to-day. I don't like it; its tone is undignified, its diction poor, its—"
"I pushed a button on my desk, and when the office boy leaped in I let out all the notes in my voice.
"Bring me," I thundered, 'an ax, a hammer, a six-shooter.'
"Good Lord," said the kicker, pale-faced and astounded; 'what are you going to do?'
"I'm going, sir," I replied, 'to kill every printer and reporter in the place, and to smash every press and throw it in the river. What am I running a paper for, except to please everybody?'"

Mrs. Martha (Walker) Kloeber Dead.

We regret exceedingly to chronicle the death of the above named lady, who was born in this locality and grew up in Salisbury. We received a full account of her death from our brother, W. S. Livengood, of San Francisco, Cal., last week, but by mistake burned the communication with a lot of waste paper. We regret this exceedingly, and by the loss of the manuscript we are unable to give the exact date of her death, as well as much other information concerning her life, which would have interested many of our readers.

However, the communication was dated April 8th, and Mrs. Kloeber's death occurred shortly prior to that date, at the Green River Hot Springs Sanitarium, which institution is owned and managed by Dr. Kloeber, husband of the deceased, in the state of Washington.

Mrs. Kloeber died of heart disease, with which malady she suffered dreadfully during the past few years. She was a daughter of the late Mrs. Rebecca Livengood, who was a sister of Mr. F. O. Livengood, of Somerset, and Mrs. Sarah Brallier, of Berlin. Her mother was twice married; the first time to John Walker, now deceased, and the second time to Silas Livengood.

Mrs. Kloeber is survived by brothers and sisters as follows: Mrs. Mary Tichenor, of Washington, D. C., Charles L. Walker, of Boynton, Pa.; Harriet, a married sister whose husband's name we have forgotten, residing in the Philippine Islands; Clarence Livengood, of Meyersdale, Pa., and Mrs. Florence Usilton, of Washington, D. C.

It is generally conceded by those who knew her that the subject of this sketch was easily the most brilliant woman ever reared in Salisbury, and she was admired by all, not only for her brilliant intellect, but for her kindness of heart and many other admirable qualities.

Mrs. Kloeber was twice married, each time to a physician in Washington, D. C., where she held at various times very responsible and lucrative positions in the Patent Office and in the War Department. Her first husband, whose name we cannot recall, lived but a short time after their marriage. Later she married Dr. Kloeber, and still later went with him to the state of Washington.

Shortly before her death Mrs. Kloeber wrote a farewell letter to brother W. S. Livengood, who was one of her most valued friends and schoolmates. In it she stated that she was at peace with her God and with all the world. Death had no terrors for her, and she met the grim reaper fearlessly, and as one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams.

Our brother, who may also be numbered with the dead now, among the many earthquake victims in San Francisco, wrote a most touching and beautiful tribute to Mrs. Kloeber, and it grieves us more than we can tell that the manuscript was destroyed by mere oversight. We grieve over the loss of the manuscript, but we grieve more over the death of Mrs. Kloeber and the well grounded belief that the beloved brother who communicated the sad news to us may also be dead now, as we have yet received no message concerning him since the awful earthquake of yesterday, which has destroyed a large portion of San Francisco, killing many of the inhabitants.

HUMAN BLOOD MARKS.

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Bac. Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for Weak Lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by E. H. Miller, druggist. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. 5-1
