SENSIBLE SCOTTDALE BOYS.

The Scottdale Anti-Cigarette League is the most sensible and commendable organization that Scottdale ever produced. It is not a combination of sour-faced old maids, or blue-nosed and pessimistic Pharisees, but a voluntary association of boys, young and active, healthy and hearty, who have sense enough to desire to remain so until they become manly men. To this end they have adopted as the principal plank in their platform a positive declaration against the deadly cigarette. They prefer athletics to "coffin-nails," and fresh air to nicotine poisoning. They would grow to be the best possible specimens of physical manhood.

Outdoor life will keep a healthy boy healthy and make the weak and puny lad well and strong. The cigarette is the deadly enemy of healthy and growing youth. It stunts both body and mind. The boy who indulges in the habit pays a fearful price for his folly later in life. So well established is this fact that the Legislature of Pennsylvania has passed a law forbidding the sale of cigarettes to boys. This law was not an act of anti-tobacco fanaticism. Many men who voted for its passage are men who use tobacco themselves, and who would not forbid it to grown men, but they would have the boys grow up to be healthful men, when they will be capable of enjoying the use of tobacco in moderation without being slaves to an injurious habit. The boys who mingle their books with fresh air and exercise, and who cut out tobacco and intoxicants of every description, will make men whom the people will delight to honor, straight and strong men, physically and mentally, with a capacity for the enjoyment of life that will be sadly lacking in the bruised reeds who sap their energies and dwarf their minds and bodies in youthful dissipation. This is not a sermon, but a plain statement of cold facts, and the boy who hasn't enough common sense to heed the warning is a fool who will awaken from his folly only when it is too late, says the Cornellville Courier, and no newspaper ever printed a greater truth.

THE ACCOUNTS OF CANDIDATES.

The blanks which the State Department at Harrisburg has prepared to send to candidates and treasurers of political committees under the new corrupt practices act show quite distinctly the far-reaching character of that law. They should serve as a complete guide to all whose actions they cover.

There are four sets of these blanks, two for candidates and two for party treasurers. Expenditures exceeding $30 must be accounted for by both candidates and treasurers, and no one else is allowed to handle campaign money. The first blank is the one on which the treasurer makes his report, and must be sworn to by him. He must give a detailed account of the receipts, expenditures, disbursements and unpaid accounts and obligations of the committee or person for whom he is acting as treasurer, and of every other officer or other person acting in behalf or with the authority of such committee or candidate. The amount received, when and from whom received, must be given; also to whom the money was paid, and the amount. Following this must be a statement of unpaid debts and obligations, to whom owing, for what purpose, when incurred and the amount. Accompanying this is a second blank, covering similar items of receipts and expenditures, on which the candidate must make his sworn statement.

The third blank is to be filled out by the party treasurer or candidate where the amount expended does not exceed $50, and not requiring any statement as to where the money came from or for what purpose it was disbursed. The requirement of this blank merely is a sworn statement that not more than $50 was received or expended. A fourth blank, precisely similar, is to be filled in the case of candidates to be voted for by the electors of the State at large are to be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and the accounts concerning the expenses by or in behalf of candidates for other offices are to be filed by the clerks of the Courts of Quarter Sessions of the several counties where such candidates respectively reside, but in districts composed of more than one county the accounts shall be filed in each county in which the candidate is voted for. No candidate elected can take office unless he files such accounts as the act requires.

These blanks are to be sent to the County Commissioners for distribution to district and county candidates, and every one who expects to be a candidate for nomination to any office whatsoever should promptly provide himself with a set of them. They serve to illuminate the new law and will do more than anything else to keep a candidate straight.—Philadelphia Press.

WHEN A MAN TELLS YOU it does not pay to advertise, he is simply admitting that he is conducting a business that is not worth advertising, a business conducted by a man unfit to do business, and a business which should be advertised for sale. tt
