Dyspeps is often Caused by Catarrh

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a conderful medicine, besides a good tonic."

Good tonte."

ATARIH of the stomach is the correct name for most cases of dyspepsia. In order to cure catarrh of the stomach the atarrh must be eradicated. Only an internal catarrh remedy, such as Peruna, is available.

Peruna exactly meets the indications.

Revised Formula.

"For a number of years requests have come to me from a multitude of grateful friends, urging that Peruna be given slight laxative quality. I have been experimenting with a laxative addition for quite a leight of time, and now feel gratified to announce to the friends of Peruna that I have incorporated such a quality in the medicine which, in my opinion, cau only enhance its well-known beneficial character.

His Wife's Money.

Once upon a time a man married a woman who had inherited $500 from a grandfather. This' was all she ever received, but the man never got credit for his efforts the rest of his life. He built a new store. "Did it with his wife's money," the neighbors said. The home was made over and enlarged. "His wife's money did it," was the only comment. The little measly $500 she inherited was given the credit for everything he did during life, and when he died and his widow put up a monument with his life insurance. "Her money paid for that," was said again. But this is what her money really went for: "During her engagement she bought herself a $350 plano and a $150 diamond ring, and in a few weeks lost the ring. There was always some regret that she didn't lose the plano.

Ejoqution Teacher Says the One Ailmen Accompanies the Other.

Accompanies the One Alimen Accompanies the Other.

A woman elocution teacher in this city has developed an interesting theory concerning the more or less common affliction of stammering. This, she claims is due, not to the enlarged palate, defect in certain muscles and other causes to which physicians and specialists usually attribute it, but simply and entirely to incorrect breathing. "In the course of my professional engagements," she says, "I have come into contact with a large number of persons afflicted either slightly or to a distressing degree with stammering. I began by dint of questions and examination to discover their methods of respiration. In every case that has so far come under my observation this has proved to be a difficult and laborious process, drawing upon wrong sources, calling wrong muscles into play, and actually choking up the avenues through which the natural voice should come. I have made some experiments actually choking up the avenues through which the natural voice should come. I have made some experiments in ... purely non-professional way through interest in the subject—for stammering is out of my province—and I find that even a little instruction in correct respiration methods is beneficial and has immediate effect for good upon the subject.

"Another thing! Have you ever noticed how commonly the stammerer is afflicted with deafness? It is almost rare to find a subject who does not labor under this second malady as well. In fact, every stammerer may consider himself, unless cured within a reasonable time, as a sure victim of the drended deafness. He uses the vocal apparatus incorrectly, and loss of hearing is the almost inevitable penalty.

"Most of the subjects examined in my experiments were men, for the simple reason."

"Most of the subjects examine in my experiments were men, for the simple reason, I suppose, that men stammerers are to the women afflicted in this way in the proportion of fifty to one, if not more. Women do, of course, stammer, but few and usually in less serious cases than those of the men."

Windsor Castle Repaired.
King Edward is having the royal library at Windsor Castle subjected to a most thorough overhauling, the first one of the kind in ages, and all sorts of treasures are being brought to light. Thus the ten missing pages of the celebrated French translation of Flavius Josephus' "History of Jewish Antiquities," which is one of the gens of the National Library of France, at Paris, has been brought to light by King Edward's new librarian, the Hon. John Fortescue. The work in question belonged to the Duke de Berry, brother of King Charles V. of France, and afterwards passed into the hands of Jacques D'Armagnac, who was behead ed by King Louis XI. The ten pages have been in the National Library of France—that is to say, for hundreds of years. How they found their way into the royal library at Windsor Castle, where they have been for considerably more than a century, nobody seems to know. King Edward, on learning of their discovery, immediately took steps to present them to the National Library of France, and they have now been restored to the precious volume from which they were cut hundreds of years ago. Many duplicates have now been restored to the precious volume from which they were cut hundreds of years ago. Many duplicates of valuable etchings and engravings are also being found in the Windsor library by John Fortescue, and these, by King Edward's direction, are being sold in London, the large sums of money thus obtained being devoted, it is said, to the acquisition of new treasures for the library at Windsor Castle,—Marquise de Fontenov in the Wash-

Origin of Thermal Springs Origin of Thermal Springs.
Before the French Academy of Medfeine there has been laid a theory of the world's hot springs, which, besides being novel, is considered by French scientific men to be probably true. The accepted theory up to the present has been that these springs come from rain water that has been infiltrated to great deaths acquiring uneval procerties by depths, acquiring mineral properties by contact with the rock strata through which it has passed. Professor Ar-mand Gautier declares that the water mand Gautier declares that the water is nothing less than the distilled essence of the rocks themselves. To test his theory by practice, he subjected rock to the process of destructive distillation, obtaining from 1000 cubic yards of granite the almost incredible yield of 23,000,000 to 26,000,000 cubic yards of water. He thence concludes that the central heat of the earth, which is about equal to 8000 atmospheres, literally distills the rocks coming within its terrific power, and that the water rising to the surface acquires its bi-carbonates, its marine soda, and its sulphurates from the strata through its sulphurates from the strata through which it scalds its way.

Building Wreckers.

Perhaps no band of men in the world suffered such constant injuries, if not death, as the corps of building wreckers to be found in every large city. They visit a building which has been gutted by fire, the tottering walls of which are still standing, and which accordingly are a menace to pedestrians. It is the business of these wreckers to pull the walls down, and a half hour It is the business of these wreckers to pull the walls down, and a half hour spent watching them at this work brings the quick thrill as nothing else in our humdrum urban civilization can. They swarm over the swaying walls with reckless impunity, fastening ropes here and there, preparing for the long and strong pull. Frequently the walls go in simply because of the weight of the men at work upon them. The bodies are dug out of the mass of iron and brick, and the work goes on as and brick, and the work goes on as if nothing had happened.—Technical

FINANCE AND TRADE REVIEW

DUN'S WEEKLY SUMMARY

Violent Decline in Stock Market Not a Reflection of the Real Business Conditions.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The violent decline in prices of securities is no criterion of business conditions. Railway earnings have continued to surpass those of the corresponding period in any previous year, the gain for April being 9.3 per cent. over the same amount of 1905 and other standards of measure were unusually gratifying exhibits.

Liabilities of failures last month showed a decrease of over 40 per cent in manufacturing and 12 per cent in trading branches of business as compared with the previous year. The only drawbacks regarding the future are the labor controversies and the stringency in the money market, neither of which may prove of more than temporary duration. Manufacturing plants report little idle machinery, and trade in seasonable merchandlese feels the impetus of settled weather.

Foreign commerce for the last week shows gains of $14,909,972 in exports and $2,943,729 in imports, as compared with the same week last year, commodity prices are well maintained by a good demand and the crop outlook is fully as bright as usual at this date, while in many departments increased acreage is under cultivation.

Of greatest importance to the iron and steel industry of all events of the longshoremen on the lake water front. If this struggle is not promptly settled it will soon become impossible to maintain pig iron production at the highest point on record. Otherwise the strikes on May 1 were not of sufficient magnitude to affect the progress of the steel business.

Failures for the week are 212, against 215 the previous week, 199 the preceding week and 212 the corresponding week last year.

Continued favorable weather has allowed good progress in planting, the germination of crops, the enlargement of country retail trade, improved reorders for summer goods and the placing with confidence of a volume of fall orders fully equal to a year ago. Collections also have measurably improved. Easier money for legitimate business needs is likewise foreshadowed.

Railway earnings are large clearings still make records for this sea-

WORST CASE OF ECZEMA.

Spread Rapidly Over Body-Limbs and Arms Had to Be Bandaged-Marvelous Cure by Cuticura.

"My son, who is now twenty-two years of age, when he was four months old began to have eccema on his face, spreading quite rapidly until he was nearly covered. We had all the doctors around us, and some from larger places, but no one helped him a particle. The eczema was something terrible, and the doctors said it was the worst case they ever saw. At times his whole body and face were covered, all but his feet. I had to bandage his limbs and arms; his scalp was just dreadful. A friend teased me to try Cuticura, and I began to use all three of the Cuticura Remedies. He was better in two months, and in six months he was well. Mrs. R. L. Risley, Piermont, N. Irregular Heart, Etc.

Take a Mull's Wafer any time of the day or night, and note the immediate good effect on your stomach. It absorbs the gas, disinfects the stomach, kills the poison germs and cures the disease. Catarrh of the head and throat, unwholesome food and overeating make bad stomachs. Scarcely any stomach is entirely free from taint of some kind. Mulls Anti-Belch Wafers will make your stomach healthly by absorbing fold gase. Which arise from the undigested the stomach, enabling it of the transport of the stomach, enabling it of the stomach, enabling it of the manufactures. This cures stomach trouble, promotes digestion, sweetens the breath, stops belching and ferundation. Heart action becomes strong and regular through this process.

Discard drugs, as you know from experience they do not cure stomach trouble. Try a common-sense (Nature's) method that does cure. A soothing, healing sensation results instantly.

We know Mull's Anti-Belch Wafers will do this, and we want you to know it. This effer may not appear again.

Used Musk in Mortar.

The famous mosque of St. Sophia, in Constantinople, is always fragrant with the odor of musk, and has been so ever since it was built in the ninth century, the curious thing being that nothing is done to keep it perfumed. The solution of the seeming mystery lies in the fact that when it was built, over 1,000 years ago, the stones and bricks were fixed with mortar mixed with musk.

In 1865, passed to her reward years a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remediescalling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest-fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the children when the compound eventual to the children of the compound eventual to the compound eventual to the compound eventual to the children of the compound to the children of the compound to the children of the compound to the children of t
