The notices are printed on good cardboard with blank line for signature, and they will last for years in all kinds of weather. IF YOUR BUSINESS WILL NOT STAND ADVERTISING, ADVERTISE IT FOR SALE. You cannot afford to follow a business that will not stand advertising.

WHEN A MAN TELLS YOU it does not pay to advertise, he is simply admitting that he is conducting a business that is not worth advertising, a business conducted by a man unfit to do business, and a business which should be advertised for sale.

OLD PAPERS for sale at THE STAR office. They are just the thing for pantry shelves, wrapping paper and cartridge paper for the miners. Five cents buys a large roll of them.

cherished of our hearts, our own flesh and blood, are often allowed to gradually slip away from us and out from under our control, all because we love them so much and hate to restrict their pleasures or say "no" to them. They are out a little bit late, but they are our boys and girls, and they will be all right. Perhaps later on it is the public dance, a case of beer and a game of cards with a ten-cent ante, and the first thing we know all is lost, and we awake to a realization of the fact, only too late, that it was just like our friend's cow—a case of too much rope. Be boys and girls with your boys and girls, and at the same time be manly men and womanly women, and your boys and girls will grow up like you, be proud of you and you of them.

THE HOME.
Married people would be happier if home trials were never told to the neighbors.
If they kissed and made up after every quarrel.
If household expenses were proportioned to receipts.
If they tried to be as agreeable as in courtship days.
If each would try and be a support and comfort to the other.
If each remembered the other was a human being, not an angel.
If women were as kind to their husbands as they were to their lovers.
If fuel and provisions were laid in during the high tide of summer work.
If both parties remembered that they married for worse as well as better.
If men were as thoughtful for their wives as they were for their sweethearts.

If there were fewer silk and velvet costumes for the street, and more plain, tidy house dresses.
If there were fewer "please, darlings," in public, and more polite manners in private.
If wives and husbands would take some pleasure as they go along, and not degenerate into mere toiling machines. Recreation is necessary to keep the heart in its place, and to get along without it is a big mistake.
If men would remember that women can't always be smiling, who have to cook the dinner, answer the bell half a dozen times, get rid of a neighbor [who has dropped in, tend to a sick baby, tie up the cut finger of a two-year-old, gather up the playthings of a four-year-old, tie up the head of a six-year-old on skates, and get an eight-year-old ready for school, to say nothing of sweeping, cleaning, etc. A woman with all these to contend with may claim it a privilege to look and feel a little tired sometimes, and a word of sympathy would not be too much to expect from the man, who, during the honeymoon, wouldn't let her carry as much as a sunshade.

There is perhaps no place where courage is more needed than in the home life by the tired housewife and busy mother. Her daily work is but a repetition of many a yesterday. She is but human, and must sometimes feel worn and discouraged, but a quiet confidence that we shall be able to perform whatever is right and necessary, generally carries us safely through difficulties, keeping us strong and calm amid the most trying duties. No one fills a place of greater responsibility, nor one more worthy of the highest honors, than the wise and faithful mother and housekeeper, who loves her work and acts on the principle that "it is not what we do, but how, that makes us great." Her example is worthy of imitation by the noblest of earth. There is nothing more beautiful in life than the brave spirit who thus lovingly performs her part of the labors of earth, asking no greater reward than the consciousness of having done her duty well. Priceless, indeed, must be the peace that stills her heart in the hour of death, and endless rest awaits the tired hands when life is done.

"Beautiful hands are those that do 'Work that is earnest, and brave and true Moment by moment the long day through.
"Beautiful twilight at set of sun,
Beautiful goal with race well run,
Beautiful rest with work well done.
"Beautiful grave, where grasses creep,
Where brown leaves fall and drifts lie deep,
Over wornout hands—oh, beautiful sleep!"
The first word a child utters is apt to be "mother," and the old man in his dying dream calls "mother! mother!" It matters not whether she was brought up in the surroundings of a city and in affluent home, and was dressed appropriately with reference to the demands of modern life, or whether she wore the old-time cap and great round spectacles and apron of her own make, and knit your socks with her own needles, seated by the broad fireplace, with great black logs ablaze on a winter night. It matters not how many wrinkles crossed and recrossed her face, or how much her shoulders stooped with the burdens of a long life, if you painted a Madonna, hers would be the face. What a gentle hand she had when we were sick, and what a voice to soothe the pain, and was there any one who could so fill up a room with peace and purity and light?

Dyspepsia, torpid liver, inflamed kidneys or chronic constipation are unknown after taking Electric Bitters a reasonable time. Guaranteed by E. H. Miller, druggist. Price 50c. 8-1
