BRIGANDS NEAR BOSWELL.

Italian Laborers Held Up and Fear the Black Hand.

It may be the brigands, or banditti, of the mountainous regions of Northern Italy have detachments at work among the mountains of Pennsylvania, and it may be that these bands of highwaymen that have recently exploited and plundered in this region are embryonic outlaws of the wild west stripe. Be that as it may, the marauders have recently made incursions to this vicinity and have each time safely escaped with considerable cash booty.

So far the Italians employed by Frank Lowry and Fred Denison on the new Jenners opening of the Somerset Coal Company, and by J. H. Barnhart, B. & O. section foreman at Stoyestown, are the only people reported as plundered. About three weeks ago, so the story goes, masked men suddenly entered the shanties of Denison's men while they were at their evening meal, and, sticking revolvers under their noses, demanded of each one a sum named, as if they were aware of the amount each one had on hand. In this holdup, it is believed, they secured about $150, and immediately disappeared into the woods. It is reported that another holdup similar to this one has occurred since, and that last week the Stoyestown section men were victims of the highwaymen.

Mr. Lowry informs us that when these "visitations" occur many of the men believe that they are marked for death by the "Black Hand," of which band of Italian robbers and murderers they believe these outlaws to be members, and they immediately disappear without even calling for their time, so frightened do they become. Lowry says that no attempt has ever been made to hold him up, but his men have suffered several times.

There is a wide-spread belief that these robberies were not committed by Italians, but probably by local talent, who are hiding behind the terrible "Black Hand" bugaboo. The constituted authorities should take immediate steps to prevent any more such outrages and to apprehend the criminals. —Quemahoning Sentinel.

Hail Does Much Damage in Stonycreek.

A severe hail storm passed over portions of Stonycreek township, last Friday afternoon, doing much damage to fruit and crops. The section suffering the most was along the Ridge, where corn was stripped to the stalks and oats greatly damaged. Some farmers report that they will lose at least ten bushels of oats to the acre, the hail having literally threshed it in the field, while fruit trees were almost devastated. Hailstones fell as large as unhulled hickory nuts, and in many instances three and four were frozen together. So heavy was the storm that in some places hail gathered to the depth of more than a foot.—Berlin Record.

ELECTRIC ROAD NEWS.

Company Organizes and Decides to Begin Work at Once.

The Pennsylvania & Maryland Street Railway Company, which recently secured a charter for the building and operating of a system of trolley lines in Somerset county, Pa., held a meeting at the Colonial Hotel, Meyersdale, last Saturday, effecting the following organization: President, C. H. Jennings, of Jennings, Md.; Vice President, Harvey H. Maust, of Salisbury, Pa.; Secretary and Treasurer, John L. Barchus, of Salisbury; Managers, Harvey H. Maust and John M. Wright, both of this place; Directors, G. W. Kipp and Hon. Mial E. Lilley, of Towanda, Pa.; D. H. Clark, of Punxsutawney, Pa., and Guy Davies, Esq., of Harrisburg, Pa.

It was decided to build and equip a line of electric railway with all possible speed between Salisbury and Meyersdale, and the company expects to have this portion of the system completed and in operation before winter sets in. As soon as the final surveys can be made, tools, material and men procured, and a few other preliminary details arranged, the dirt will begin to fly in earnest. A start on the final engineering was made on Tuesday morning, and our readers can rest assured that not many months will elapse before Salisbury and Meyersdale will be connected by trolley.

EMERY'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

The letter of acceptance of Lewis Emery, Jr., Lincoln-Democratic candidate for Governor, was released for publication on Monday last. It is a lengthy document of two columns or more, and is an arraignment of the Republican organization, corporations—the Standard Oil Company in particular—the railroads, etc. In it Mr. Emery makes fulsome promises to right the imaginary wrongs the state is heir to as he likely sees them. He dodges national affairs and says they have no part in this campaign. In this he will, no doubt, find the voters of Pennsylvania do not agree with him. The Democratic convention placed itself on record by declaring "the success of the ticket named to-day will result in the election of that tribune for the people, William Jennings Bryan."

As far as reform goes, Mr. Emery stands for nothing that Edwin S. Stuart, the Republican candidate, has not already proclaimed, and Mr. Stuart is a Republican and stands for Republican principles as enunciated by President Roosevelt. Emery's letter was probably prepared before the Swallow episode, and before Homer L. Castle delivered his opinion, in which he is quoted as saying: "Before this campaign is ended it will be demonstrated beyond question that even in the matter of opposition to corporate greed, upon which the Lincoln Republican party hopes to centre this fight, their chief candidate is insincere and unworthy of trust." Mr. Castle is quoted as further saying: "I assume the burden, at the proper time and place, of making the demonstration."

There is nothing whatever in Mr. Emery's letter of acceptance to induce any Republican to desert his party and its time-honored principles, which have brought such wonderful prosperity as we are now enjoying, and vote for him and the three other Democratic office seekers, on the ticket.

Republicans should stand pat and work and vote the straight ticket.—Everett Republican.

IN SELF DEFENSE

Major Hamm, editor and manager of the Constitutionalist, Eminence, Ky., when he was fiercely attacked, four years ago, by Piles, bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, of which he says: "It cured me in ten days and no trouble since." PRESIDENT HEADS DOLLAR DONATIONS.

In order to set an example to all good Republicans who have the price, President Roosevelt has contributed the sum of one dollar to the Republican National Congressional Committee's campaign fund.

The President's contribution is the result of the recent appeal issued by the committee for one dollar contributions.

Chairman Sherman, of the committee, has made public Mr. Roosevelt's letter accompanying the donation. This is as follows:

"Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 25, 1906.

"Dear Mr. Sherman:

"I have your letter of the 24th instant and enclosures. I send my dollar. I think it an admirable plan, and I congratulate you upon the success that bids fair to attend the movement. Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."
