HAVE YOU SENT YOUR DOLLAR?

TO REPUBLICANS:

We are anxious to have every Republican in close touch, and working in harmony with the Republican National Congressional Committee in favor of the election of a Republican Congress.

The Congressional campaign must be based on the administrative and legislative record of the party, and, that being so, Theodore Roosevelt's personality must be a central figure and his achievements a central thought in the campaign.

We desire to maintain the work of this campaign with popular subscriptions of One Dollar each from Republicans. To each subscriber we will send the Republican National Campaign Text Book and all documents issued by the Committee.

Help us achieve a great victory. JAMES S. SHERMAN, Chairman. P. O. Box 2063, New York.

Why don't the vaccination fanatics enforce the vaccination law in its relation to the Sunday schools. The law says Sunday school superintendents must not admit unvaccinated children to their schools, and the same is required of parochial and private schools.

Where is the Sunday school superintendent in all this broad land that would make an ass of himself by enforcing a law so base and outrageous? Even old Doc. Dixon, the public nuisance who presides over our State health department, knows better than to threaten Sunday school superintendents with arrest who ignore the pernicious vaccination law. Such enforcement would break up every Sunday school in the country, and that would bring a mighty demand from all the churches for the immediate repeal of the most damnable and outrageous law ever placed on our statute books, where it was placed through and by the conniving of a lot of medical charlatans that ought to be in hades, ten thousand fathoms deep. Therefore, the Sunday school superintendents are allowed to ignore the law, and as a result, every Sunday school in the state has a violator of the law to preside over it. The vaccination fanatics know that a great majority of the people would much rather keep their children out of Sunday school than to have them vaccinated; but when it comes to the public schools, quite a different proposition presents itself. To poor people who want to give their children a secular education, the public schools are a necessity. The Sunday school, however, where children are supposed to get religious and moral training, are not a necessity to that end, although they are generally supposed to be a great help. But after all, the best and most lasting moral and religious training must come from the home, and if such training is not given there, the Sunday schools are at best a miserable failure in supplying the deficiency.

Knowing these things, the vaccination fanatics do not attempt to enforce vaccination in the Sunday schools, but they confine their energies to the public schools, where they can do much more harm. However, little attention is paid to the vaccination law in the rural district schools, and it would be ignored to the same degree in the towns, were it not for the fact that medical charlatans or their servile dupes are frequently members of the town school boards, and they work their vaccination graft to the limit, and aim to employ only such school principals as they can intimidate into bringing grist to the medical hopper. Down with such a vaccination law as Pennsylvania has! It is an absurd monstrosity. It makes outlaws of public school teachers and Sunday school superintendents who ignore it, and moral criminals of those who enforce it. In many cases, therefore, we have moral criminals and Herods presiding over our children in the public schools, and violators of the law presiding over them in the Sunday schools. Ye gods, what a spectacle!

STARVING TO DEATH.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed by E. H. Miller, druggist. 10-1 colored at the farm. The truth is that the coloring of butter is a senseless custom, nothing but a fad or fashion, that has no basis in common sense. It is just as good when left uncolored, if it is right in other respects, and gains nothing by the coloring, except an imaginary improvement in looks. If it gets its color naturally from the food of the cow, all right, but if, when churned, it is white, let it alone and use it that way. Of course, it will take some time to do away with the silly notion that butter is not good unless of a golden color, but in time even the stupidest may be taught better. Butter should not sail under false colors any more than people. Artificial coloring is a fraud to start with, and by covering a poorer article with good looks as its only recommendation, encourages that sham and false pretense which is all too common in commercial transactions. Let us have whiter butter and whiter consciences."

WELL WORTH TRYING.

W. H. Brown, the popular pension attorney, of Pittsfield, Vt., says: "Next to a pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills." He writes: "they keep my family in splendid health." Quick cure for Headache, Constipation and Biliousness. 25c. Guaranteed at E. H. Miller's drug store. 10-1

THE STRADDLER.

In an address delivered at Du Bois, Pa., Representative Solomon R. Dresser, a neighbor of Lewis Emery, Jr., in the town of Bradford, took occasion to animadvert upon the Democratic candidate for Governor in a kindly, yet critical sense.

Congressman Dresser recently declined a renomination as Representative from the Twenty-first Congressional District of Pennsylvania, in order that he might withdraw from the strenuous demands of political life.

Referring to Mr. Emery's untenable attitude before the people, Mr. Dresser gave utterance to these incontrovertible assertions, viz.:

"I cannot, and I will not, encourage or assist in the election to any National or State office a man who tells us that he can consistently stand, at one and the same time, upon a Republican platform and a Democratic platform. No one can do this. I cannot and will not, then, support my neighbor, Lewis Emery, for the office of Governor of Pennsylvania. It would be pleasant to do so as a neighborly act, but Mr. Emery is not a Republican; he is not a Democrat; he is not a Socialist; he is not a Prohibitionist.

"He attempts to spread himself, hands and feet, upon the edges of the four platforms of these parties, and cannot possibly remain squarely upon any of them. His policy is to tear down, and not to build up, and if it should be the misfortune of Pennsylvania to have him for Governor, the people would soon regret it. He claims to be against the 'bosses,' and in this I think him sincere, for, in his judgment, all are bosses who are not for Emery. Men who have had anything to do with Mr. Emery, either politically or in a business way, know, I believe, that he exacts for himself the right to be absolute boss and supreme dictator."

AND SO SAY WE.

The Fayette City Journal is not surprised at the Darwinian theory when it sees young men with their hair parted in the middle or hanging fiercely down over their foreheads, or frizzly-frowsy young women with hair flying in fifty different directions.

And so say we—conditionally. Some men's hair will part only in the middle, and especially is this the case with men who are bald on top of their heads. In cases where the hair will part nowhere else, parting it in the middle is justifiable and excusable. But for some reason, you seldom, if ever, see a man of great ability or prominence that parts his hair that way, while the typical "dude," the nonentity and disgusting "sissie" almost invariably do.

Furthermore, it is almost an invariable evidence of no brains when you see a young man with his hair combed down almost into his eyes and his hat tilted back to show his beautifully (?) combed locks, which almost completely hide his forehead—a forehead which usually isn't very prominent, and the brain back of it not much better than sawdust.

Whenever a barber starts to comb our hair down over the forehead, we always feel like knocking him down.
